Vol. 45 No. 10 | Five Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, January 8, 2000 | $31.00 Per Year | 60¢ Per Copy

Kevin Pfautz knows a good hog when he sees one. Not only did he place first in national 4-H swine judging but he and his brother also have worked hard to perfect the genetics of their Hampshire-Duroc stock. These are ready for Farm Show competition, where Kevin and his siblings Corey and Lisa will show. See story page A36. Photo by Lou Ann Good.

Farm Show 2000: Gala Event Showcases Diversity Of Pa.'s Agri-Industries

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania's greatest agricultural event — and probably the largest indoor exhibition in the Northeast — kicks off today here at the Farm Show Complex.

Sixteen acres of agricultural exhibits, shows, demonstrations, and great Pennsylvania-made products are housed under one roof at the complex for the 84th annual Pennsylvania Farm Show. The show runs today through Thursday.

New this year — for this first time in the 84-year history of the show — six information booths will be computerized. This year the computer setup will give visitors quick access to a variety of useful information, including the locations of every commercial booth, a particular farm's livestock, emergency service and hospitals, location of restrooms and phones, and information about area lodging, transportation, and restaurants.

The booths will list daily activities in the large and small arenas, the entire show schedule, and phone numbers for all ag organizations. The six booths are spread out over the entire Farm Show Complex — one in the main exhibition building, one outside the Food Court, two in the North building, and two in the concourse of the Large Arena.

From its beginnings in 1917 (it was called the Pennsylvania Corn, Fruit, Vegetable, Dairy Products, and Wool Show), at the Emerson Brantingham Building in Harrisburg, the Farm Show has grown. That 1917 show attracted only about 5,000 visitors and featured $735 in premiums.

In contrast, the 2000 Farm Show offers $263,841 in premiums distributed to about 10,000 winners. Managers predict this year's show

Pennsylvania Farm Show Issue

The annual Pennsylvania Farm Show issue of Lancaster Farming comes to you this week. More than 250 Keystone Farmer youths have been named this year (the most ever in the memory of our staff) and we have a whole section of profiles and pictures. Also the usual building layouts, exhibitors list, meeting and judging schedules and other stories are included. In addition, a large number of our advertisers have messages and invitations for you to visit them.

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, the slaughter steer market closed out the century firm to 1.00 higher Supplies of Choice cattlecontinue to be light and this week buyers grew progressively more desperateto fill orders, and ended up settling for lower quality This enabled the Select and low Choice cattle to absorb the full advance in the market Market conditions look positive as we enter the new Millennium, but fed cattle prices will likely not improve enough to make up for

Frozen Eggs

ATLANTA, GA.

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, DECEMBER 31, 1999. FEDERAL-STATE

Prices were mostly unchanged to lower.

Trade sentiment was steady to mostly barely steady with improved business anticipated for next week, with yolk in the weakest position. Supplies were adequate for this week's reduced schedules. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending December 25, 1999 were 26% less than last week, and 9% less than a year ago.

Delmavra Broiler

ATLANTA, GA.
JANUARY 04, 2000

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds remained disappointingly slow. Seller offerings were ample and competitively priced in an effort to stimulate activity. Live supplies were at least moderate; weights varied and were mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than truckiot asking prices were unchanged at 55 to 67 cents. Trade sentiment was at best steady. In the parts complex wings were both in best balance and adequate. Boneless skinless breasts cleared well to some retail ads but supplies were at least adequate. Whole breast were difficult to place. Leg items were fully adequate. ACTUAL SLAUGHTER WEEK ENDING 01/01/2000 WAS 10,366,075 5.18

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE

In the Eastern region, prices were unchanged to lower on the larger sizes, unchanged on the balance. Elsewhere, prices were unchanged. The market tone was barely steady to mostly weak. Demand was usually light to no better than moderate, with limited feature activity usually drawing better consumer interest. Supplies of all sizes were generally adequate to instances ample. Breaking stock supplies were adequate from regular sources, and demand for additional product was generally unaggressive. Light type hens were fully sufficient

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Tue Jan 04, 2000

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News
Daily National Grain Market Summary

Wheat bids were mostly lower, today, on improved crop conditions due to needed moisture in hard red winter wheat areas and soft red winter wheat crops. Corn and soybean bids finished higher as traders await USDA's next stocks report and weather conditions in South America. Wheat mixed, mostly steady to 11 cents lower. Corn 1 to 4 cents higher. Sorghum 4 cents higher. Soybeans 5 to 9 cents higher. Snow and rainfall was reported over the past couple of days in hard and soft red winter wheat growing areas. Crop ratings in some states are reported improved as beneficial snow cover fell. Export sales have been slow this week and Pakistan is reported to have bought another 18 million bushels of Australian white wheat for Jan/Feb shipment. Corn bids were slightly higher due to traders ideas that next week's stocks figures might be lower than last month's estimate. Export sales have been strong for corn lately and South Korea is expected to tender for another 4 million bushels this week. Sharp advances were seen in soybean pits after reports about crop losses from drought in parts of South America were reported. Traders assume that yield losses will also be found in Mato Grosso do Sul and other places. Rains are forecast for southern Brazil sometime this week, limiting gains.

If someone said you could get everything you needed in a corn herbicide, like:

- superior burndown plus broad-spectrum season-long residual control of grasses and broadleaves,
- versatility for all types of tillage practices,
- complete formulation, with no mixing required,
- rainfastness in 1-2 hours,
- unsurpassed crop safety,
- unbeatable flexibility and convenience.

And, that you only had to make a single one-pass application to control your weeds all season – would you believe it? Well, you should! Because they were talking about Field Master® Herbicide.

Master®

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With

PROPITIOUS FOR GIRLS

January 14 is considered a particularly good day for the birth of girls, according to the ancients A baby girl born on this day will claim Capricorn as her sign, with its characteristic strengths of indomitable courage and clear organizational skills Numerology gives her the number 5 (1 plus 4) for resilience, and Mercury is her planet, bestowing mental prowess Capricorn is associated with the knees, so those born under this sign should take special care not to overdo physical activities that tax those joints. Downhill skiing, football, rugby, and high jump might not be Capricorn's best choice of sports Moderation is the key

Of all the wild beasts of land or sea, the wildest is woman. – Menander

TIP OF THE WEEK

Take stock before the grocery checkout. Do you have more fruits, vegetables, and whole grains than processed foods, fatty snacks, and sweets?

DESSERT SALAD

3 large apples ('Braeborn', 'Fuji', or 'Granny Smith')
1 small bunch seedless grapes, red or green juice of 1 lemon
1/2 cup vanilla yogurt
1/2 cup chopped walnuts or almonds
1 bunch fresh mint

Wash fruit well Peel, core, and cut each apple into 8 to 10 slices, then cut each slice in half Toss apples with lemon juice Cut grapes in half and combine with apples Stir in yogurt and nuts Save out a few sprigs of mint for the garnish, then chop enough to make a scant 2 tablespoons, and stir it into the fruit mixture Serve as a luncheon salad or a light dessert

Makes 4 servings.

The Old Farmer's Weather Proverbs

Holly berries shining red mean a long winter, 'tis said.

Cold is the night when the stars shine bright.

OPINION

About The Farm Show

For many farmers, nothing could better usher in the new millennium than a trip to the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg. Of course, the shift from a strictly-agriculture show of the past to a consumer education show of the future is noticeably in progress at this turn of the century. But farmers and agribusiness will always have a high stake in the success of the Farm Show.

First, the sheer number of entries of livestock, farm youth, horticulture, and other commodities make it a farmer's show. With record premiums of $263,841, the Farm Show will feature more than 9,000 entries in 33 departments. This includes 589 beef cattle, 520 dairy cattle, 225 dairy goats, 149 horses, 1,700 chickens, 624 rabbits, 900 sheep, and 663 hogs. The farm families behind all these entries guarantee that the agriculture community at large will attend the show.

Secondly, the international visitors that are invited by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture each year provides an imperative reason for agribusiness to be represented at the show. As agriculture becomes more and more part of a worldwide economy, this feature of the Pennsylvania Farm Show becomes increasingly important.

But other needs of agribusiness must also be addressed. Since the show in recent years has been expanded to accommodate the consumer public over the first weekend of the show, the time and expense needed for agribusiness's to man their booths has become greater than it is worth. This is especially true since a larger percentage of the people now visiting the show are not potential agribusiness customers.

In future shows (hopefully as soon as next year) agribusiness must be accommodated with the opportunity to set up their booths for two or three special agriculture emphasis days held in conjunction with and at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg.

Items of historical significance are to be placed in a 2000 Farm Show time capsule this year. The idea is to preserve memories for future generations to view when the capsule is opened in the year 2025.

We can only hope that by the time this capsule is opened in 25 years, the Pennsylvania Farm Show has not become the Pennsylvania State Fair and the real farm show is held someplace else.

Now Is The Time

To Form Ag Security Areas

If you are not currently in an Agricultural Security Area and plan of farming, you should seriously consider forming or joining an Agricultural Security Area. The Agricultural Security Area gives farmers additional protection to conduct their farming operations.

An Agricultural Security Area does not limit land use options to the farmer or place any restrictions on his deed. The area designation informs people that agriculture is the primary use of land and government is to promote agriculture by enacting ordinances that support and encourage agriculture. With the increasing populations in rural areas, township supervisors are being forced to consider ordinances that will limit the sustainability and profitability of farms.

Now is the time to work with other farmers in your township and form Agricultural Security Areas to insure the future of farming in your township.

To Develop Good Public Perception

According to Pat Wood, William J. Green and Associates, agricultural community is playing for very high stakes. Losing can lead to more onerous local ordinances, more litigation, stricter state regulations and even a statewide moratorium on new and expanded farms. A writer to the Harrisburg Patriot News recently called for stringent controls to "be a campaign issue for anyone who is re-electing a candidate from a rural district," an omen of political battles to come.

When public sentiment gets emotionally charged, even your best political friends may find it hard, if not impossible, to step forward in defense of modern agricultural methods. Farmers have the choice of two strategies: 1. Pray for the best or 2. Employ good public affairs and media practices. Most of the agricultural community is accustomed to simply raising food and keeping a low profile. But that will not work any more.

Today, you need: 1. To do the right thing and be perceived as doing the right thing. 2. To have a public and media affairs plan before you ever apply for a permit to site or expand a facility. This is as important as all of your other preparations. and 3. To know and communicate with your neighbors.

If you are not working with the community, it can work against you. There are many resources to help avoid controversy and improve community and media relations. Take advantage of them.

To Develop Trust

In a recent newsletter, Barry Shaw, Wenger Feeds, stated a new era has begun for American agriculture. Much of the success in the future will depend on how quickly agriculture can come to terms with the food chain concept Farmers are no longer isolated producers of a commodity.

Today's standards require accountability. Farms have matured into sophisticated businesses. To compete in today's food system, alliances and partnerships are being developed. For these to be successful trust must be earned. The real leadership challenge today is winning trust, according to Shaw. Trust is built over time through shared experiences.

Trust is much easier to break than to establish. You build trust by achieving results, always with integrity and in a manner that shows real personal regard with the people with whom you work (suppliers, employees, customers). Once trust is developed, you are better prepared to embrace the never ending series of changes that life throws at you.

Trust is the reflection of your core values. As you build alliances and partnerships with businesses and individuals, look for ones that have the same core values you have. Trust will be the binding factor that enables people to grow together successfully.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "On the road to success, you may be sure of one thing. There is never a crowd on the extra mile."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

HOW NOT TO PRAY

January 9, 2000

Background Scripture:
Matthew 6:1-15.
Devotional Reading:
Luke 11:1-13.

Inventor Thomas A. Edison was once asked about whether all his failures to invent a workable light bulb didn't discourage him and cause him to give up. The inventor replied that he didn't think of all those efforts as 1,000 failures. He regarded them as discovering 1,000 ways not to make a light bulb!

Sometime, perhaps we ought to take that same attitude with our prayer lives. Before Jesus taught his disciples how to pray, he first instructed them on how not to pray: "And when you pray, you must not be like the hypocrites; for they love to stand and pray in the synagogues and at the street corners, that they may be seen by men" (Mat. 6:5). "And in praying do not heap up empty phrases as the Gentiles do; for they think they will be heard for their many words" (6:7).

Jesus is aware that his disciples have some negative images of what prayer is. He is telling them that, what they see accepted as prayer in their environment is not real prayer. First, he teaches them that prayer is a matter of humility, not pride. "Beware of practicing your piety before men in order to be seen by them" (6:1). The purpose of piety in general and prayer in particular is not to draw attention to ourselves. Yet, that is obviously what motivates people to give contributions (alms), so that they may win the admiration of people.

Like Hypocrites

The term hypocrites appears in verse 5: ". . . you must not be like the hypocrites." Until recently, I thought that when Jesus spoke of hypocrites he meant people who pretend to be what they are not. Actually, Jesus did not likely use a word in Aramaic or Greek that means what the English word hypocrite means: one who acts a false part in life. It comes from the Greek theater and means one who acts a part in a play, but not insincerely.

No, Jesus accused the Pharisees, not of deceiving others, but of deceiving themselves. Their problem was that they actually thought they were better than others because they actually believed themselves to be good and pious. They approached prayer from an attitude of pride, not humility. What they were inside was a far cry from the image they projected in public.

Secondly, Jesus teaches his disciples that prayer is not based upon eloquence but sincerity. Once again, the disciples had some negative images which Jesus was trying to destroy: "And in praying, do not heap up empty phrases." In this instance Jesus specified the Gentiles, but I imagine there were lots of Jews who also "think they will be heard for their many words" (6:7).

Empty Phrases

This is one of the great misconceptions people have concerning prayer — that it must be done eloquently and at some great length. Many people believe that they have difficulty expressing themselves well and therefore shy away from praying in public and maybe even in private. They think of prayer as a composition of some kind, rather than a vital transaction between themselves and the Almighty. Effective prayer is not dependent upon good grammar, vocabulary or cleverness. That's why the prayer he gave them as a model, the Lord's Prayer, is so effective: it is simple, expressive and brief.

Thirdly, with the Lord's Prayer as a model, Jesus is teaching the disciples that prayer is not only getting, but giving, too. Then, as now, most people thought of prayer as essentially asking God for something, coming to him with a sanctified shopping list. But the model prayer begins with giving praise, thanksgiving and submission: "Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven."

Only then does the model prayer come to what we want from God: "Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil." So long as we think of prayer only as a divine internet where we can get what we want, our prayer life will be frustrating and discouraging. God is more than a celestial pizza delivery man.

New Products Now Available

Fiberglass Wheels

- Very Low Maintenance Costs Under normal use the only maintenance costs will be tightening or replacing the tire or rubber. No expensive parts to replace.
- High Performance Regardless of the Elements Wheels stay tight even in hot, dry conditions – No more loose rattling spokes – ever!
- Rugged Heavy Duty Design It takes a major accident or impact to break or twist these wheels.
- Hard Durable Surface Resists scuffs and scratches, paint job stays shinier.
- Easier Cleaning Spokes have all rounded corners, no tight spots for dirt to get into.

 Benefits of Fiberglass Springs ***

Fiberglass Springs

- Lightweight A fiberglass spring weighs 22 lbs. less than a steel spring. 44 lbs. less weight on the carriage.
- Durable One Piece Design No bolts to give out or wear.
- Better Performance on Heavy Loads The more weight, the better the ride, will not go flat and bottom out
- Better Paint Adhesion Easier cleaning – no rust stains running out between the plys. Paint will not blister or peel off.
- Stabilizer Kits – Now Available For a smoother ride and less bounce

Committee Announces 2000 Beef Expo Dates

MIDDLETOWN, (Dauphin Co.) – The Pennsylvania Beef Expo Committee of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association announces that the 2000 Beef Expo will be March 31 - April 2, at the Penn State Ag Arena, University Park.

Cosponsored by the Penn State Department of Dairy and Animal Science, the Pennsylvania Beef Council, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, and the Pennsylvania breed associations, the event kicks off on Friday, March 31 with the MAEC Performance-Tested Bull Sale at 11 a.m. The Simmental Breed Sale will follow the bull test sale at 1 p.m. and the Angus sale is scheduled at 3 p.m.

Juniors can check cattle in on Saturday, April 1 from 8 a.m. - noon. Juniors also can compete in the beef Skill-A-Thon and Quiz Bowl competitions Saturday morning. The Shorthorn Sale will begin at 10 a.m. on April 1, with the junior steer weigh-in at noon and the junior heifer show at 2:30 p.m.

On Sunday, April 2, junior showmanship classes will begin at 8 a.m., followed by the junior steer show.

Visitors are encouraged to visit the trade show exhibitors during the three-day expo.

Other festivities slated for Beef Expo week include the annual Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association meeting on Thursday, March 30, at 7 p.m., coronation of the 2000-2001 cattlemen's queen, and presentation of youth scholarships.

For more information, junior entry forms, scholarship applications, queen applications, or annual meeting reservations, call the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association office at (717) 986-0333.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — One of the longtime dairy cattle exhibitors at the Pennsylvania Farm Show has something new to look forward to this year.

Mike Miller and his wife, Linda, have three children, Heidi, Holly, and Harrison, who will all be showing dairy cattle at the 2000 Pennsylvania Farm Show. But 17 year old Heidi plays another role in this year's event — she will sing the national anthem during both Farm Show opening ceremonies on Saturday and the livestock auction on Thursday.

This is the fifth time that Heidi has sung the national anthem in front of a large audience, performing at the Harrisburg Senators, the Hershey Bears, and other local events. Heidi and 15 year old Holly have recently formed a singing group with local farm boys, Jesse Baumgardner of Lebanon and Tyler Bower of Harrisburg.

The group's most recent performance was at the York County Holstein Club. "We like to perform at local meetings and events," explained Heidi. "And we are interested in singing at more local churches."

The girls are following in their father's footsteps, who used to sing with his family as "The Singing Millers" back in the early 70's. "The girls use the original sound equipment that my family had back then," said Mike. "We thought of selling it several years ago. But my father said to hold onto it. I'm glad we did."

Mike's parents, Paul and Pat, got Mike started in his dairy cattle showing career on their farm in Dauphin county. The Millers have been showing cattle at the Farm Show since 1972, and Paul will have one of his animals shown by Heidi at this year's show.

The Millers are taking seven animals to Farm Show this year — six Holsteins and one Brown Swiss. "Harry wanted to show a Brown Swiss," said Mike. "So last year, we bought Dublin Hills Jason-Lee Ellee, who will be a spring calf at the Farm Show this year."

Not interested in singing, 14 year old Harrison keeps busy helping his father take care of the animals on the farm.

The Millers attend the Farm Show each year, despite weather hazards and the crowds, because they enjoy the opportunity to meet new people. "Each year new exhibitors come to the show," said Linda. "It's a great chance for the kids to make new friends."

The Millers also enjoy all of the activities at the Farm Show. "The rodeo is our favorite," said Holly. "We also like the food at the Food Court." But eating the entire week at the Food Court can get expensive, so they bring most of their food from home.

Mike's parents still help out the family at the show. Paul comes every day to help feed and fit the animals, while Pat brings the food. Linda's nephew, Nathan Heim, also will tie his heifer with the Millers at the Farm Show. "Nathan and Harry are my main helpers on the farm during the summertime," said Mike.

Linda and the kids stay overnight at the Farm Show while Mike treks back and forth each day, bringing the feed and taking care of things at home.

"The blizzard in 1995 was the worst," recalled Mike. "We drove the truck through mounds of snow and had cops stopping us because of the closed roads."

But, according to Linda, that was the best year because there weren't any people there. "Saturdays and Sundays are the worst days for the crowds," she explained. "But most of the people are really nice. And, on a more positive note, you're promoting your cattle to a lot of people."

Over the years, Mike has seen the show change from a mostly Holstein show to more color breed exhibitors. "It's not a high pressure show, either," said Mike. "Many of the top breeders don't bring their cattle because of the cold weather. It's more of a fun event for the family."

Mike, Holly, and Harry will bodyclip the animals this week to get them ready for Farm Show. Then they'll hire professional fitters to do the animals' toplines when they get up there. "We still have two that aren't halter-broke," said Harrison. "The other ones were shown before, but we have to start working on those two."

The Farm Show is one of several dairy shows the Millers exhibit at each year. They show at local fairs and at county, district, and sometimes state 4-H shows. Mike claims that if the kids wouldn't want to show, he wouldn't do it. "It's their project, not mine."

The Millers belong to the Lower Dauphin 4-H Dairy Club, where Heidi serves as president and Holly serves as secretary. Linda and Mike are both leaders of the club. Harrison has been a member for seven years.

The Millers live on a 257-acre farm outside of Harrisburg, where they raise 20 head of high-pedigree Holstein heifers from the original milking herd. Mike works for a copier company in Harrisburg, while Linda is employed as a medical assistant at a local doctor's office. The Millers grow corn and hay, and Mike markets the high quality alfalfa and other hay he raises to area farmers.

Mike is the third generation on the farm, where they milked 50 cows up until March 1998 when the Millers sold their cows. Mike's grandfather Harrison started the farm in the late 50's before being killed in a farming accident when Mike was 2 years old. Mike's father Paul is a retired dairy cow classifier who sells dairy minerals and still helps out on the farm when he can.

The Miller family is gearing up for their week at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. (LtoR) Heidi, Linda, Holly, and (FarLeft) Harrison will stay overnight at the Show, while Mike will make his daily commute from their home north of Harrisburg.

Harrison, seen here with two of the Miller's four Boxers — Max and Maggie, is his father's right hand man on the farm.

(LtoR) Holly and Heidi are enjoying their new venture, performing at local events, meetings, and church activities. The Miller girls are always looking for more opportunities for their singing quartet.

Farm Bureau Delegates Vote To Support Sound Science

GLENMONT, N.Y. — At their state annual meeting earlier this month in Albany, New York Farm Bureau delegates passed a resolution to continue their strong support for the Regulatory Openness and Fairness Act of 1999 (H.R. 1592 and S. 1464).

This legislation was introduced to protect farmers and consumers, by requiring the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to abide by sound science and real world data when evaluating pesticides, the true intention of the Food Quality Proetction Act of 1996 (FQPA).

"Our board of directors made this issue a priority for the upcoming year," said Patrick Hooker, director of governmental relations for New York Farm Bureau. "We support this legislation and the true intention of the FQPA."

The recently released results from a Harvard University analysis revealed that unprecedented impacts of EPA's proposed FQPA rules could be more harmful to public health than the compounds they attempt to regulate. According to the Harvard study, the EPA has failed to consider or evaluate many health risks associated with the Agency's implementation of the FQPA. As an example, a ban on all organophosphate and carbamate pesticides could actually result in the premature deaths of 1,000 Americans every year.

The EPA has also failed to consider possible dietary changes due to higher crop prices, once the use of certain compounds are canceled. "Many of our Congressional members agree that EPA must do a better job of carrying out the nation's laws regarding food safety," said Hooker. "The Harvard report clearly shows that urging EPA to change the way they propose to regulate pesticides, is the right thing to do. The congressional support for this new legislation helps to prove it."

The Regulatory Openness & Fairness Act of 1999 has sponsorship of nearly 200 in the House and nearly 30 co-sponsors in the Senate.

Butter Sculpture Celebrates 10th Anniversary At Pa. Farm Show

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — It was only fitting that the first butter sculpture unveiled in 1991 featured one of Pennsylvania's earliest pioneers, Ben Franklin.

Franklin used his ingenuity and imagination to invent many modern conveniences that we now take for granted. The Pennsylvania Farm Show and regional dairy promotion groups used that same ingenuity to create a unique way to pay tribute to Pennsylvania's largest agriculture industry while drawing thousands of visitors, along with the media, to the Farm Show each year.

The 2000 Farm Show marks the tenth anniversary of the butter sculpture. It has been a highlight for the thousands who attend each year.

The first butter sculpture was unveiled in conjunction with the 75th anniversary of the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

According to William L. Piper, Deputy Director of the Farm Show since 1983, the butter sculpture was placed in the McClay Street lobby to draw people through the Main Exhibit Building.

"We needed something in that lobby as a focal point because of other changes we made that year, including moving the food into a new food court area. We wanted to get people to come through the main floor and equipment vendors to see the butter sculpture."

Using outside vendors to provide the refrigeration equipment and building materials, Farm Show employees designed and constructed the octagon-shaped case that still houses the butter sculpture today.

"We are pretty proud of that case and the sculptures it has featured over the years. It's been quite successful."

The butter sculpture has always been a joint venture between the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and Pennsylvania's dairy farmers. While the Farm Show contributes the case, dairy farmer-funded promotion groups sponsor the artist who creates the sculpture and work with local media to generate coverage.

Currently groups sponsoring the sculpture include the American Dairy Association/Dairy Council Middle Atlantic (ADA/DC Middle Atlantic), the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program (PDPP), and the American Dairy Association & Dairy Council Mid East (ADADC Mid East).

In the beginning, area butter manufacturers rotated the responsibility of donating the butter. However, Land O'Lakes manufacturing plant in Carlisle has donated the butter for the last seven years. Their contribution has totaled to more than 4,000 pounds over the years. Leftover butter is donated to charity each year.

According to Cindy Weimer, industry relations manager for ADADC Mid East, the promotion groups first got together in early 1990 to plan the butter sculpture. "Both the New York and Ohio State Fairs had butter sculptures, and we thought it should be a part of the Pennsylvania Farm Show — something that would be a highlight for many years to come."

Both Governor Bob Casey and Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolf unveiled the first butter sculpture ten years ago, which drew media from all over Pennsylvania. The press conference held the Thursday before each Farm Show still draws significant numbers. Last year the butter sculpture garnered coverage from eleven television stations, including a station in Miami, Fl., and another in Houston, Tx.

This year's sculpture pays tribute to the 115 county fairs found scattered throughout Pennsylvania. The sculpture created by five-year veteran Ed Shank features a carousel with two children riding horses, centered between a keystone and the shape of Pennsylvania.

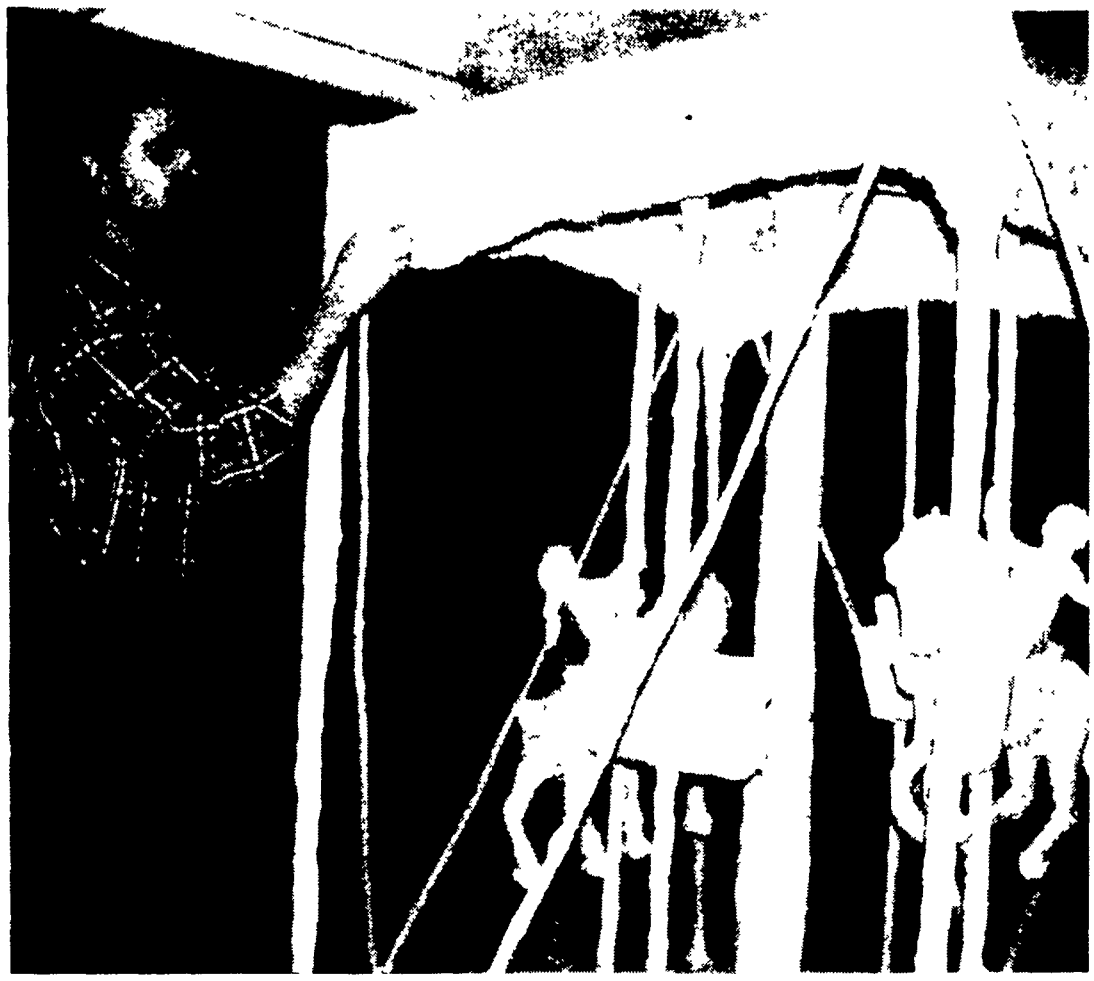
According to Shank, the sculpture is both gratifying and difficult to create. "When I first started working on the butter sculpture back in 1996, many of my colleagues thought the idea seemed a little corny. But after they saw it, they realized how much harder it is to create a sculpture out of butter than out of marbel or clay."

Shank has had to hone his butter sculpting skills over the years. "Butter doesn't remain consistent. It starts out really hard and then softens in your hands. Once an area gets too soft, you have to move to another area on the sculpture. It's really difficult for an artist to stop and come back to an area later."

Still the fame that Shank has received from the butter sculpture is phenomenal. "I can go just about anywhere in Pennsylvania, and people know the butter sculpture. More people seem to recognize my creations done in butter than any of the bronze or marbels I've sculpted."

Shank's favorite butter sculpture to create was "Miss Commonweath," who was featured last year. "I had to research the artist who sculpted the original Miss Commonweath and actually went on top of the Capitol building to see the sculpture."

Still Shank admits that the sculpture for which he has received the most compliments was the Amish boy pulling a calf, unveiled in 1997. "Last year I was amazed when a couple from Erie came up to me and told me they took a six hour trip each year just to see the Farm Show butter sculpture."



Sculpting butter is more difficult than other mediums, according to five-year veteran butter sculptor Ed Shank from Middletown. Shank puts his finishing touches on this year's sculpture of a carousel.

Over the years, the butter sculpture has featured various images resonant with the agriculture industry, the Commonweath, and the nation. One of the most famous sculptures came in 1995. To mark the 50th anniversary of D-Day, the Farm Show unveiled a "Salute to World War II" carved in butter.

1991 featured then-Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Robin Wilbur with then-4-Her and current Clinton County Dairy Princess Lauren Daubert. An old fashioned ice cream vendor handed an ice cream cone to a child in 1993's sculpture, while 1994's sculpture featured two football players poised in a tackle position, tying in with Penn State's recent football success.

The 1996 sculpture featured President Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose farm can still be toured in Gettysburg. During that year, area dairy princesses handed out "I Like Ike 'N Ice Cream" buttons to Farm Show visitors. In 1998, a "Salute to School Lunch" sculpture featured a cafeteria employee serving lunch to children.

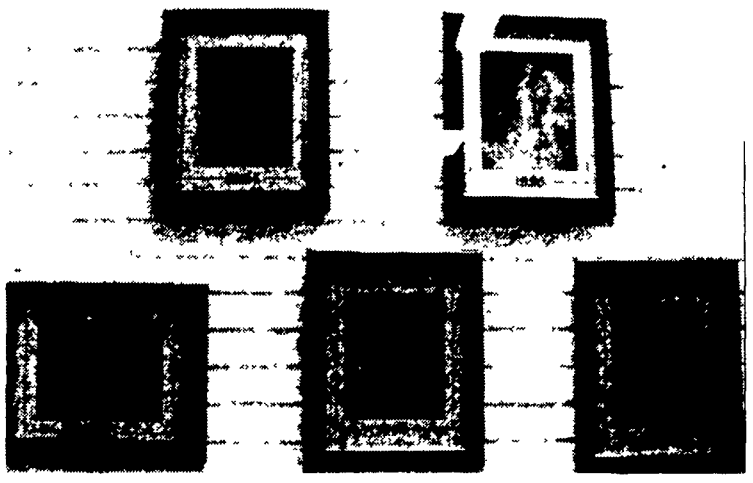
While the butter sculpture was in the McClay Street lobby, dairy promoters did various things to educate Farm Show visitors about the butter industry. In 1993, visitors could pick up handouts that featured facts about the butter sculpture and the industry.

For several years, video monitors were mounted above the sculpture to showcase the butter making process. Area dairy princesses also staffed the exhibit for several years, talking to spectators about the sculpture.

In 1997, the sculpture was moved to the food court so that more people would see it. But, because of the congestion and crowds, the video monitors and education opportunities were eliminated.

This year the sculpture will return to McClay Street lobby. Piper invites everyone to see this year's sculpture and view the photos of past sculptures that can be found in the large display windows to the left of the butter sculpture case.

"People can see what we've done over the years. It's been very successful for both the Farm Show and the dairy industry."



A McClay Street lobby houses photos of past PA Farm Show butter sculptures. Those who see this year's sculpture can compare the other nine shown in the display window.

Maryland/Virginia Cooperative Goes Online In New Millennium

RESTON, Va. —Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative launched a website on January 1, starting the year 2000 with a click! Cooperative members, dairy farmers and the general public can learn more about Maryland and Virginia, its plants, products and services. Milk market reports, press releases, staff contacts, and links to other great dairy websites—it's all online at www.mdvamilk.com.

"Since more and more dairy farmers are using the internet, it is not just useful, but essential to have an informational, interactive, easy-to-navigate website," says Stephanie Meyers, Maryland and Virginia's director of communication and education. "We are excited to provide this service not only to more effectively communicate with our members, but to benefit the dairy industry and the general public."

From the homepage of www.mdvamilk.com, visitors can choose:

- About Us – An overview of Maryland and Virginia, its producers, plants, products and services.
- Markets – Archived issues of weekly and monthly market newsletters about milk prices and market conditions, and links to other dairy pricing websites.
- News – Cooperative press releases, a trading post and media information.
- Why Join? – Benefits and services offered to members, including legislative representation, education, communication and field staff.
- Contact Us – E-mail links to key Maryland and Virginia staff members.
- Links – Other dairy websites about markets, milk quality, publications, legislation, and promotion.

A "Members Only" section is also being developed for fall 2000, featuring milk quality test results, blend prices, member meeting dates and other specialized information for Maryland and Virginia members.

Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers is a milk marketing and processing cooperative which markets milk for over 1,600 dairy farmers in ten states from Pennsylvania to Alabama. Headquartered in Reston, Va., with a regional office in Charlotte, N.C., the cooperative includes a fluid milk processing plant in Newport News, Va.; two manufacturing plants in Laurel, Md. and Strasburg, Va.; and an equipment warehouse in Frederick, Md.

Drought Relief Programs Are Finally Here!

Due to the severity of the drought this summer, the Pennsylvania Legislature acted to provide the nation's largest state aid for drought-stricken farmers by approving Act 57. Governor Ridge signed the legislation on December 13, 1999. Act 57 will provide $60 million for crop loss assistance grants to help offset the financial losses farmers experienced in Pennsylvania. This is in addition to the expected $75 million in federal funds available for the state's crop disaster relief. There is a separate $5.6 million available in state funds to help reduce the cost of crop insurance that the federal government is requiring as a condition of receiving federal crop loss assistance. Federal funds will also be used to subsidize insurance premiums.

The first step in receiving drought relief is to apply for the federal Crop Disaster Program (CDP) at your county USDA-FSA office. In order to qualify you must have incurred losses greater than 35% of historic yields. The following payment formulas provide greater benefits to farmers who bought insurance on their eligible crops:

1.) Insured Crops - crops insured by either catastrophic (CAT) or buy-up (coverage of 50/100 or greater) crop insurance; will be compensated at 65% of the crop insurance market price elections.

2.) Uninsured Crops - crops for which crop insurance was available, but not taken; will be compensated at 60% of the crop insurance market price elections.

3.) Non-insurable Crops - crops for which crop insurance was not available; will be compensated at 65% of the 5-year average National Agricultural Statistics Service price.

The payments to farmers will be prorated after all the applications are reviewed, in order to stay within the program's requirements and budget. There will be no payments greater than $80,000 per farmer and not more than $80,000 in crop insurance incentives per farmer. A condition of receiving benefits under this program is farmers who did not insure their 1999 crops are required to purchase crop insurance in 2000 and 2001 for all insurable crops that provides significant income.

Upon approval of federal relief, producers that experienced crop losses may apply for state assistance. Farmers must sign a PA Department of Agriculture Drought Relief Program Application and Waiver of Confidentiality form. This allows your county FSA office to share your crop loss information with PDA and calculate your state drought assistance payment. The amount of your state grant, if any, will not exceed 75% of the amount you receive under the federal program. The crop insurance assistance is currently being developed by the PDA, which will govern the program. The assistance will not exceed 10% of the gross premium.

Sign-ups have already began and will continue until February 25, 2000. For more information or to apply for a drought relief program, contact your local FSA office and USDA Service Center. Additional information is available from FSA's homepage at www.fsa.usda.gov or at PDA's homepage at www.pda.state.pa.us.

Foot Clinic Slated For February 4

BARABOO, Wisc. - Pennsylvania hoof trimmer and member of the Hoof Trimmers Association, Inc., Paul Neer from Belleville, is hosting a Foot Clinic Feb. 4, 2000, in State College, Pa., at the Penn State Ag. Arena Building, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. There will be coffee and donuts at 9:30 a.m. Dairy producers, hoof trimmers, veterinarians, nutritionists and anyone interested in hoof care is invited to attend. The clinic will include numerous guest speakers, live hoof trimming demonstrations and a complimentary chicken and ribs lunch at 12 p.m.

Extension veterinarian and hoof care specialist Dr. Jan Shearer of the University of Florida is the keynote speaker. Other guest speakers include; nutritionist Dr. Chris Canale of Agway Inc., Dan McFarlan from Penn State, Dr. William Seymour of Roche Vitamins Inc. and John Burket from Burket Falls Holsteins. Topics will include barn design, B vitamin, biotin, and genetics. Paul Neer will briefly discuss hoofing trimming, and Hoof Trimmers Association, Inc. Executive Director Nichelle Martin will introduce the Association.

After the clinic, there will be a meeting for veterinarians and hoof trimmers to discuss issues of mutual interest. Drs. Shearer and Canale, along with Dr. Jeff Brose from Monsanto and several local veterinarians will participate.

Paul Neer first hosted this event two years ago as an appreciation day for his hoof trimming customers and others in the area interested in hoof care. Over 250 people attended. The following businesses are helping Neer host the 2000 Foot Clinic, which does not have a registration fee: Ag. Choice Farm Credit, Agri Basics, Agway Inc., Ann Lick Farm Supply, Big Valley Repair Service, Cargill Animal Nutrition Division, Center Hall Farm Store, Dairy Farmers of America donating milk for a morning break and lunch, East Gate Feed and Grain, Finger Lakes Specialized Equipment and Econo*Chute, Fisher and Thompson, Kauffman Farm Supply, Lancaster Dairy Farm Automation, Lira Gold Direct Fed Microbials, Mifflinburg Farmers Exchange, Monsanto Dairy Business, Nuteam Inc., Peachey Harness Shop, Roche Vitamins Inc., R-PDQ™ Cow Shoe Company, Tidenberg's Welding and Repair Inc., and Zinpro Corporation.

Anyone interested is welcome to attend. For more information contact Paul Neer at 717-935-5608 or Nichelle Martin at 608-355-7671 or e-mail at nichelle@midplains.net.

Forest Landowners

WARREN (Warren Co.) – The Fourth Annual Forest Landowners Conference is scheduled Saturday, Jan. 22, at the Penn State Erie, The Behrend College in Erie.

This all-day program lasts from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. cost is $13 and preregistration is required by Jan. 12.

The conference is targeted toward private forest landowners interested in taking care of their woodlands. Cooperatively sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension, the Bureau of Forestry, the North West Pennsylvania Woodland Association (NWPWA) and Penn State Erie, the day is open to anyone with an interest in natural resources and their stewardship.

This year's session brings experts from West Virginia and across Pennsylvania to share useful information on topics such as forest insect and disease pests, planting and protection trees, timber taxation, managing for and selling timber, and putting trees to work at home.

The highlight will be an afternoon session presented by Gary San Julian, Penn State professor of wildlife resources, titled "Bucks and Doe; The Currency of Change." This session will focus on the issues forest managers and landowners face when populations of white-tailed deere are too high for the land to support.

Contact Warren County Cooperative Extension, 609 Rouse Ave., Suite 200; Youngsville, PA 16371, (814) 563-3988, or at warrenext@psu.edu for a program brochure and registration form.

Continuous Soybeans? With Cover Crop, Maybe

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — The 1999 drought had surprisingly little effect on the top soybean yields in a "cover crop in continuous soybean" study, according to the principal investigator, John Yocum. The study was supported by a checkoff grant from the Pennsylvania Soybean Promotion Board.

Although results in the project were somewhat more variable than would be expected in years with normal rainfall and there was not as much difference between treatments, the study crops did reasonably well, Yocum added.

The top yielding plot came in at 58 bushels an acre. In that plot, rye was seeded in beans after beans, the rye was Roundup-killed, and soybeans were seeded with a no-till corn planter.

The plot with no cover crop — beans after beans — yielded 42 bushels. Still not bad, Yocum said. Yocum is assigned to Penn State's Southeast Ag Research and Extension Center in Landisville.

"This is a long-term project primarily to see if we can improve soil health — increasing organic levels and controlling winter erosion — by planting these particular cover crops.

"We recently finished a three-year study just last year, planting wheat in standing beans, and it would appear, if one of the small grains is seeded in, you can get a good enough crop to act as a good cover crop to hold the soil over winter and create a good mulch."

The current study is a much longer range project and Yocum said he would seek funding for another year.

"The effect on soil erosion has promise," he said. "The disadvantage is you have to drive through standing beans and some farmers just don't like to do that."

An alternative would be to seed by plane or helicopter. In that case, expense could be a limiting factor.

Although research has shown that rotating crops produces higher yields, many farmers grow continuous corn for a variety of reasons which can be economic, for the control of certain weed species or farm field selection.

Farmers in Pennsylvania have been growing continuous corn for years but there has been little research on the effect of growing continuous soybeans and, more and more farmers are asking questions.

Multiple years of soybeans has several problems that are not a problem with multiple years of corn, Yocum explained.

Soybeans produce less and a more fragile residue than corn. They also produce a loose soil. These attributes can cause more potential soil erosion, reduction of soil organic matter and soil compaction than would be the case with continuous corn.

"With the increased pressure on the farming community to reduce soil erosion, nutrient runoff and leaching, growing continuous soybean probably would not meet conservation plans," Yocum said.

"Planting a cover crop for the months soybeans are not growing should overcome the negatives of continuous soybean production. But there is no research to indicate the effects of these cover crops upon continuous soybean production," Yocum said.

In answer to the question being asked by many Pennsylvania farmers whether soybeans can be grown multiple years in the same field, this study should help determine whether cover crops can be successfully seeded into standing soybeans, which cover crops are superior, and whether this cover will improve soil structure and, over time, the production of continuous soybeans.

Farm Show Family Competes, Works Together

Mercer Co. Correspondent

GROVE CITY (Mercer Co.) — When the Barbour family welcomes visitors to discuss the Angus cattle they plan to exhibit this year in Harrisburg, brothers Harry and Donald are respectfully absent from the questions and answers that precede a feature story.

"It's really about the kids," said Harry, who co-owns most of the herd of about 75 Angus and about 12 Limousin with Donald, their brother Bill, and their father, who is also named Donald.

As a family that competes together as well as works together, the Barbours said, a big part of the equation includes giving credit where credit is due. For this reason, in talking about the animals they will enter at this year's event, cousins Janice and Jeremy (whose fathers are Donald and Harry, respectively) point to each other's successes as eagerly as they point to their own.

Janice, who has shown cattle at the Farm Show in three previous years, is quick to praise Jeremy's showmanship — saying that despite his newness at the state level, Jeremy's skills have improved greatly.

"I'm very impressed with how far he's come," she said. "A lot of people will rely on others for help when they are starting out, but Jeremy will do it all himself. He will take the risks. He will do the work, and he's not afraid to make mistakes."

With this year marking his second time showing in Harrisburg, Jeremy acknowledges Janice as a mentor, friend, and role model. "When she gets in the ring, she is a good showman," he said. "And she taught me a lot about showing. When I started going to shows, I started going with her, so I learned from her.

She's a lot of competition," he said, "but we're family — so it's not that bad."

Janice agrees that competition is a factor, qualifying her statement by saying that it's more than competition. "We have to work together," she said. "So I'm cheering him on, too. In his succeeding in a way I succeed — because we're not showing individually, we're showing as a family. It's like we're showing as if it's our last name, not our first name. We earn credit for that instead of just for ourselves."

Janice and Jeremy are traveling to Harrisburg along with their fathers. In this year's event each of the cousins will enter two animals. In the March 1998 bred heifer class, Janice will show "Rains' De Gayla Skylight" (sired by "Dequantae"), who earned the supreme champion title this year at the Stoneboro Fair. She will also show a heifer in the February 1999 class. Janice took a first place ribbon for a March heifer at last year's Farm Show.

At this year's show Jeremy will enter "Rains' Dug Out," a March 1998 bull (sired by "OCC Back Stop") that took a grand champion ribbon last year in Harrisburg when owned by breeder Dale Rains of Mercer. The bull, which Jeremy co-purchased with his 10-year-old brother David for the purposes of showing and breeding, also earned reserve champion at the 1999 Pennsylvania Breeders Show and supreme champion at the 1999 Stoneboro Fair.

Jeremy is also entering "M.B. Queen Cary 9205" (also called "Heify" and sired by "OCC Emulate") in the March 1999 heifer class. At last year's Farm Show, Jeremy earned a fifth-place ribbon.

Both Janice and Jeremy agreed that showing cows has had a positive effect in their lives, and both named responsibility as something developed throughout the process. "When you get up in the morning," said Janice, "you can't say 'I'm too busy for this today' — it keeps a lot of kids out of trouble," she said. "And when you get in the ring it really pays off."

When they are not preparing cattle for show at the Farm Show, Janice and Jeremy both maintain busy schedules. Both have been active in 4-H since early childhood, and both reside in Stoneboro, where they participate in extracurricular activities in the Lakeview School District, where Janice is a junior and Jeremy attends seventh grade.

Janice started with cows by helping her older brother, now in college, she says. However, her earliest shows included hogs instead of cows due to her young age and small size. Jeremy, along with his brothers Alex and David, also began showing at an early age.

Jeremy Barbour, at halter, will show "Little Timmy," Jeremy's crossbred steer. With him are Jeremy's father, Harry, and Jeremy's cousin, Janice.

In addition to the cattle, the Barbour family collectively owns about 600 acres, which supports their herd as well as their Stoneboro-based wholesale nursery. The nursery, in business since 1954, specializes in rhododendrons and a variety of groundcovers that include ivy, pachysandra, and myrtle. They also own a second nursery that deals in retail bedding plants.

Showman, Novices Have High Hopes

JINNY WILT
Adams Co. Correspondent

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — A veteran showman and two show-ring novices have high hopes as they anticipate the upcoming Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Fairfield area cattleman Kevin Diehl will undoubtedly still feel the butterflies as he steps into the show ring with his cattle despite the fact that he has been doing it since the early 1980s when he was in his late teens.

In fact he looks forward to the Farm Show because it is not only good for his business, it's a social occasion. He is a breeder of Polled Hereford cattle, some registered and some mixed.

New to the farm show ring this year will be Laura Holtzinger, 6, and her brother, Travis Holtzinger, 4. The two are the children of Kevin and Karen Holtzinger, who operate a dairy farm west of East Berlin.

They will be joined by their big sister, Shannon Holtzinger, 17, a senior at Bermudian Springs High School, who will be showing every day of the Farm Show except one, in dairy, breeding sheep and market lamb competition. She'll also pick up the FFA Keystone Degree at a special ceremony.

While Shannon will travel back and forth to the Farm Show Complex in order to continue practicing basketball with her high school team, her mother, Karen, and 3-year-old sister, Paula Holtzinger, will join Laura and Travis for the week at the show. The family begins bedding on Jan. 5 and will bring their animals in on Jan. 6.

Karen notes that the Holtzinger family looks at it as a time to help educate the general public about farming. One of the particularly educational times is when a calf is born, but Karen said she doesn't expect that to happen for her family this year.

Kevin Diehl looks forward to the day when his son, Justin, 9, who showed and sold a steer in one of the Adams County shows this year, will join him in the Farm Show show ring. Right now, the father said, his son has as much as he can handle with one steer," and you almost need two if you're going to show at the Farm Show."

Laura will be showing her lamb, Marshmallow, which she has worked very hard with over the Christmas school vacation. Weighing in at 42 pounds, the dark-haired, bright-eyed kindergartner will face a challenge in handling her nearly 700-pound calf. She may need some help, her mother said with a smile.

But, Laura appears undaunted as she adds, "I like to show my calf and win ribbons." And, for that matter, it's also fun meeting her friends at the show.

As for Travis, he had just awakened from a nap when the interview took place, and only shook his head yes when asked if he would be showing his lamb Snowball.

The Holtzinger children give credit to Ronald and Yvonne Trostle of Red Lion for advice on showing their Southdown sheep.

Kevin Diehl, who owns 150 acres, farms 500 acres on which he "makes a lot of hay."

"The cattle thing is just one facet of what I do. I make a lot of hay and market that hay mostly in southern Maryland. Most of it's timothy hay that goes for horses. I raise some row crops, but I'm slowing phasing out of that. It's going to end up where pretty much all of my acreage is going to be in growing hay. The farm has always been a diversified farm — we also have an apple orchard. I've got 17 acres of apple trees . . . in Adams County it's really small.

"It's been a good thing being diversified over the years, but just the way times are now in agriculture it's very hard to stay diversified because you've got to have a different set of equipment for each different enterprise and equipment is a major expense. You have to go one avenue and focus on that," he said.

"The cattle business and the hay business kind of complement each other. The cattle eat your mistakes," he said with a chuckle.

In addition he has had a part-time business, started right out of college, showing cattle at the farm show for other people. He started it in 1984 when people wanted to show their cattle, but didn't want to do it themselves.

"I'll be going up to the Farm Show this year and I'll have two head of my own and I'll have about seven head from three other people," he said.

What does the Farm Show mean to him?

"That's a good question," he said. "For many people farm show is a tradition. People who show livestock in general, it's an enjoyable time. For the most part, you're not showing cattle for the profit of it," although he said you do promote your breed and it's good for busiess.

"The Farm Show is probably one of the best shows that I go to that you're able to accomplish that (sales). There's a higher percentage of people who are interested in agriculture, while at fairs only 98 percent of the people are just doing it because they don't get to see a cow every day.

"There's a higher percentage of farmers at the Farm Show. There's no carnival involved, it's an agricultural show and you're able to talk to those people. The Farm Show is as good a place to sell cattle, either there or off your farm. We've had a good success selling bulls at the Farm Show," he said.

While a favorite memory of the Farm Show is co-owning the champion Hereford bull one year and the reserve champion another year, he also has had a few missteps.

One year he brought his bull inside the day of the show and, because it was cold and the animal had stiffened up standing around, he gave it aspirin to help limber it up. But to his amazement, the bull was allergic to aspirin and had there not been a veterinarian nearby, he would have lost it.

Another time he was bringing an animal off the back of a truck and it slipped on ice, breaking its leg. This time the animal had to be put down.

Both families are geared up for the show, and age doesn't seem to make a difference in how the event is viewed. Just as you hear excitement in 6-year-old Laura's voice when she talks about showing her animals, you catch the same in Kevin Diehl's, too.

PA Grange Sponsors Biotech Panel Discussion

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Grange is sponsoring a panel discussion on biotechnology during the Farm Show. The meeting will be held on Monday, January 10, from 1 - 2:30 p.m. in Room B, located above the Main Exhibit floor.

Called "The Biotechnology Brouhaha," the discussion will feature scientists, industry experts, and educators on scientifically altered agricultural products.

Questions answered will include whether bio-engineered agricultural products are safe for human consumption, whether the development of these products are ethical, and what it means to farming operations in Pennsylvania.

The meeting is open to the public and will include special guests -- Sam Sherk, Penn Ag Industries Asst. Vice President; Dr. Paul Backman, Director of the PA Agricultural Experiment Station at Penn State; and Jeffrey Moyer, Rodale Institute Farm Operations Institute.

Question: What are some nutritional considerations during transitional cow care? Should we use anionic salts?

The biggest challenge during the prefresh or transitional period is dry matter intake (DMI). We know that DMI is suppressed by anionic salts simply because the cows do not like them. We should avoid feeding these salts whenever possible. Some care in our feeding programs can avoid the need for these products.

We spend all of our time and energy making the best feed for the milking animals and little to no time planning the feed needs of the dry cows. Some land should be set aside for the sole purpose of growing forage for our dry cows. Obviously, this is not practical for most farms in the northeast when it comes to feeds such as corn silage. The number of dry cows simply is not large enough to warrant special facilities for the storage of such feed. Hay, on the other hand, is a different story. It is easy to set aside a small field or two to grow hay that is more suitable for our dry cows. By watching soil nutrient levels and restricting the use of manure on this land, we can produce low-potassium forages that can eliminate the need for anionic salts in the transition diet. Another alternative would be to purchase the forage needs of the transition group from farms that have no animal units on them. Hay from these farms typically is lower in potassium due to cost of applying this nutrient and lack of potassium from animal waste.

There are many farms in the northeast that can do little to reduce potassium levels of the forage that is fed. It is common to see alfalfa testing between 3 and 4 percent potassium. Even grasses, which are commonly used for dry cow diets, approach 3 percent due to heavy manure usage on farms. When we couple this with corn silage potassium levels at 1.5 to 2 percent, we can experience some real problems. High dietary potassium increases blood pH and if severe, can reduce the cow's ability to mobilize calcium. This triggers milk fever, either clinical or sub-clinical, and leads to increased nutritional stress. This stress contributes to retained placentas, ketosis, displacements, and sometimes mastitis.

How can we tell if we need to use anionic salts? Milk fever is certainly a clue that we may need to use the salts. We need to make sure of the dietary balance for these prefresh cows because even the correct type of forage can cause problems when not balanced properly. A useful tool when we are not sure about the need for anionic salts is the urine pH. Dry Holstein cows and especially those in the last three weeks before calving should have urine pH readings between 6.0 and 6.5. Jerseys should be 5.8 to 6.2. Levels below these may not be a problem but we need to be certain that we are not reducing intakes due to too much anionic salts.

Everyone seems to have a different answer about the mineral balance for transition cows. Remember these are only guidelines and should be used just as a starting point.

Calcium	1%-1.2%
Phosphorus	0.4%-0.45%
Magnesium	0.4%
Sodium	0.1%
Potassium	0.7%-1.5%
Sulfur	0.3%-0.4%
Chloride	<1%

As a final note, I must say that I see a wide range of quality when it comes to feeding our dry cows. We may be able to get away with something less than optimal for forages on long-term dry cows. When it comes to prefresh cows there is no room in the diet for less than the best we have to offer. We have to realize that during this time our cows are already reducing intakes. Therefore, we must do everything possible to maintain a high DMI if we expect these cows to produce at an optimum level. I encourage dairymen to make the transitional period a planned part of the milking herd.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Hard Work, Experience Go Long Way For Tobacco Champion

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Grand champions don't have to do anything special, if you look at what Brian Rankin accomplished.

On Monday, the 15-year-old son of Barry and Kathy Rankin, Conestoga, took home the blue ribbon for his Pa. 41 wrapper tobacco at this year's Lancaster County Tobacco Show.

It wasn't anything special that garnered Brian a champion, according to the tobacco grower. Since he was "a little kid," Brian said, he's been helping to do what needs done on the John Wiker farm in Conestoga. "I helped plant, hoe, top, and strip it."

Brian, a freshman at Penn Manor High School, took the suggestion of his Manor FFA adviser Gus Birchler. Birchler suggested Brian take some hands of tobacco to the past year's West Lampeter Community Fair, where Brian placed second.

At his first-ever county tobacco show, much hard work and time, Brian noted, helped him garner the award. Nothing special in the way of fancy fertilizer or other type of out-of-the-way care was required.

Brian works with his father, Barry, on the farm of John Wiker, Conestoga. Brian helps care for about an acre and a half of tobacco, mostly Pa. Type 41. They also care for about 10 beds of transplants at Wiker's.

The past severe drought didn't affect the tobacco as badly as Brian would have predicted. The growers didn't use any irrigation for the crop.

For the second year in a row, Garrett R. Neff, 17, son of Dianne and Gary Neff, Millersville, won the blue ribbon for Maryland 609 smoking tobacco at the show.

Garrett, a junior at Penn Manor High School and Manor FFA treasurer, farms with the Neff Brothers partnership near Millersville, where he helps plant, cultivate, cut, and strip tobacco.

Garrett, who won best of show at last year's Farm Show, he said, noted the market right now is pretty poor for Maryland 609 smoking tobacco.

Garrett grew what he refers to as a "pet patch" of Maryland 609 in two short rows. Although the Neffs farm 6.5 acres of the Pa. 41 type, on the pet patch he used irrigation. The judges don't like to see pin holes and flea beetle damage, so Garrett used post applications of a commercial insecticide.

Judges for the show were Geoffrey H. Ranck, Domestic Tobacco Company, and Raymond Rinehart, leaf purchaser with Lancaster Leaf.

Ranck said the champion tobacco appealed to the standards of "uniformity and texture" in selecting the best.

Ranck said, "When you have had a year like we had, it's really something to come out with tobacco as beautiful as we found."

At the show, there was a total of 18 exhibitors and about 46 exhibits. The numbers are down from last year, reflecting an industry in decline.

The county show is a prelude to the state Farm Show, scheduled Friday at the state Farm Show Complex. Judge is John O. Yocum, manager of the Penn State Southeast Extension Research Center in Landisville. Judging will take place in the Farm Show Complex North East Upper Section.

Growers Again Disappointed By Low Tobacco Prices

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — It almost sounds like a litany for tobacco growers. But the tobacco auction season began in earnest here Monday, resulting in a high bid of only 76 cents. However, hopes fell quickly.

This year's tobacco average price was 67 cents a pound and last year's tobacco turned up an average bid of only 65 cents a pound, noted Dennis Hess, auction manager. Pennsylvania Type 41 tobacco netted an average bid of 50 cents per pound.

There were 150,000 pounds of tobacco on the floor at the start of the sale at the Orlon Industrial Park. The auction sold 105,000 pounds.

Local newspapers reported that many farmers were disappointed at the low bids. Many have decided, in the upcoming season, to grow other crops instead.

The first auction of the season brought an average bid of 68 cents a pound a few weeks ago.

Hess had originally hoped to schedule auctions three days per week.

Hess noted, however, there will be no sale until Monday, Jan. 17. He said tobacco will be accepted by appointment only beginning Jan. 13. Call (717) 626-6970 or the warehouse at (717) 355-5336 to set up delivery time.

to attract more than 300,000 visitors.

The first "one roof" show was conducted in the current building at Cameron and Maclay streets, formerly a cow pasture for the Harrisburg State Hospital, at the 15th show in 1931. That's when it officially became known as the Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

"As we enter the new millennium, the 2000 Farm Show provides a unique venue to witness both the latest in agricultural technologies and time-honored traditions," said Samuel E. Hayes Jr., state secretary of agriculture.

Hayes noted that agriculture is Pennsylvania's Number 1 industry, generating $44.1 billion from farm to table.

Additions to this year's Farm Show include an enlarged butter sculpture, the introduction of a cheese sculpture, and an agricultural biotechnology program sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania Biotechnology Association.

The biotech program, a daylong program Tuesday, Jan. 11 at the Agriculture Building, is for nonspecialists and will concentrate on various aspects of agricultural biotechnology and potential contributions.

Many popular events are returning to this year's show, such as the Sheep-to-Shawl contest in the Small Arena Monday, Jan. 10, at 5 p.m. Also, the Farm Show's Family Living and Agricultural Learning Center will offer a unique array of activities that seek to educate and entertain not only children but adults, according to Hayes.

"This exhibit provides various hands-on presentations for children so they may better understand the value and importance of Pennsylvania's agriculture," Hayes said. Presentations for adults are included, such as cooking, quilting, and farm safety.

The demonstrations will be conducted Saturday through Thursday on the upper level of the Northeast Building. They include quilting, spinning and weaving, flax and lace making, live butterflies, agricultural biotechnology, digital television, health screening, and 4-H and FFA presentations. The Pennsylvania Department of Health will provide blood, glucose, and blood pressure screening and immunization record checks. Visitors may also talk to professionals about specific health interests.

See the schedule on page B12 of this week's Lancaster Farming.

Also part of the Farm Show is the second annual Juried Art Exhibition, which benefits the Pennsylvania Farm Show Scholarship Foundation for Pennsylvania college students. Submitted artwork and prints will be available for purchase throughout the show with the "Best of Show" being auctioned Thursday, Jan. 13, following the Livestock Sale of Champions in the Small Arena of the Farm Show Complex.

The Food Court is always a great attraction for the thousands of visitors.

There are several commodity, livestock, and other organizational meetings scheduled for this year's show. A complete schedule of events, maps, exhibitors list, and other information are included in Farm Show Section 1 of Lancaster Farming.

The show is free and open to the open to the public. There is a $5 parking fee per vehicle in the Farm Show parking lot, along Cameron Street just off Rt. 81.

MOUNTING A SUCCESSFUL REPRODUCTION PROGRAM

Penn State Cooperative Extension will be offering a series of seminars this winter on the topic of reproductive management. The primary audience will be dairy producers and their employees with responsibility for reproductive management. Agri-business personnel, consultants, veterinarians and AI technicians may also find this program useful. The instructors will be Dr. Dave Griswold DVM, Department of Veterinary Science and Dr. Mike O'Connor, Department of Dairy and Animal Science.

OBJECTIVES:

1. Provide dairy herd managers and employees with information to improve herd reproductive performance.

2. Provide tools to analyze herd reproductive status and trouble-shoot problems.

3. Discuss strategies to achieve a systematic approach to successful reproductive management.

DATES AND LOCATIONS:

Jan. 20	Brookville, Jefferson Co.

State Holstein Convention Set

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) – Make plans now to attend the 2000 Pennsylvania Holstein Convention on Thursday February 17 and Friday, February 18, 2000 in Carlisle. Hosted by the South Central District, the 2000 Pennsylvania Holstein Convention promises to be a convention that Holstein breeders, enthusiasts and friend will not want to miss. All convention committees have been working diligently to make your visit enjoyable, informative and memorable.

With the theme of Holsteins, Highways and History the convention will be two full days of Holstein evens held at the Clarion Hotel, Carlisle. The Clarion is conveniently located just off Interstate 81 and the Pennsylvania Turnpike and features 268 guest rooms and suites all on one level. No stairs or waiting for elevators at the 2000 convention.

Registration will begin at 11:00 a.m. on Thursday, February 17. Host activities planned for Thursday afternoon include tours of Pennsylvania's state capitol. Take time to visit the many commercial exhibits and delicious dairy bar on both Thursday and Friday.

The banquet will take place on Thursday evening at 7:00 proceeded by a 6:00 reception. You won't want to miss this very special evening. Included in the evening program will be the announcement of the Distinguished Young Breeder and Hall of Fame awards.

The awards breakfast will be held on Friday February 18 and will feature some surprises. Would you like to be served by a lovely young lady while other attendees visit the buffet? Two tables can purchase this service at auction, to benefit the PA Jr. Holstein members. In addition to the All-Pennsylvania, Progressive Breeder, and Progressive Genetic Herds awards, five special awards will be given to recognize persons who are important to our industry. An auction to raise funds for the PA Juniors will be held during the program and will feature a high quality item from each of the host counties. Breakfast will be hearty and inexpensive.

The annual meeting and ladies program will both begin at 10.30 on Friday morning. A unique opportunity awaits those who choose to attend the ladies program planned for the 2000 Convention. The program will begin with a shopping stop at a variety of delightful shops in the Village of Colonial Peddlers and The Kitchen Shoppe. The group will then travel to the historic section of Carlisle to The Carlisle House. Following tours of this home built in the 1750s, a delightful luncheon and program will provide an extraordinary experience. The 87th annual meeting will review the past year's activities and highlights along with looking forward to the future.

A pre-sale buffet will be available before the Friday evening Convention Sale at 7:00 p.m. The convention sale committee is making selections for what promises to be an outstanding sale. Contact Tom Boyer at 717-225-5240 or Bill Allen at 717-944-1374 about possible consignments. Anyone interested in Holstein cattle will want to attend the convention sale.

Optional tours will be available to area farms on Saturday, February 19. A map and directions to area Holstein breeders will be available.The registraion committee can customize an itinerary just for you and send you down the highway to the Holsteins and history of the South Central district.

Holstein Association Hires New Intern

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) – Pennsylvania Holstein Association is pleased to announce Steven Pavelski as the new intern for the Association. He will be working with the Association from January through April.

Steven is from Susquehanna County where his parents, Joseph & Sandra Pavelski, own an 80 head of registered holsteins. Currently in his senior year at Penn State, Steven is working towards a BS in Dairy & Animal Science. He is involved in the PSU Dairy Science Club, serving as the past years Vice-President and Selection Chair for the Nittany Lion Fall Classic Sale. Steven is also a Brother of Alpha Zeta fraternity.

Steven was a member of the Penn State Dairy judging team in 1998. He also judged actively for eight years in 4-H and competed at the National contest in Louisville KY in 1994. Steven has had many show ring experiences as well, showing ten years in 4-H and continuing to help young 4-H members with their dairy projects. In 1996 Steven received the "Outstanding Dairy Member" award for Susquehanna County.

If you would like to contact Steven about Pennsylvania Holstein Association issues or activities he can be reached at the: Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College PA 16801. (814) 234-0364 - phone, (814) 234-1698 - fax.

Penn State's College Of Ag Sciences Expands Farm Show Exhibit

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Visitors to the Pennsylvania Farm Show can visit Penn State's expanded exhibit area in the Main Exhibition Hall, where the College of Agricultural Sciences will provide consumer and agricultural information on various topics.

"We've also beefed up our undergraduate recruitment effort at the show," said Jennifer MacIsaac, assistant to the dean for media and public relations. "People can come to our area to ask 'How do I fix this problem?' or talk to faculty, alumni, and students about educational opportunities in the college."

The following new exhibits will be featured:

Horticulture and Agronomy. Visitors can learn about Penn State's new "trial gardens on the road," as well as undergraduate programs in landscape contracting, horticulture and agronomy. Faculty and extension agents will answer gardening questions and provide information on educational opportunities. In addition, Penn State Master Gardeners will have an exhibit in the Farm Show's Family Room area

Forest Resources. This area will emphasize the five areas of study open to undergraduates in the School of Forest Resources, including water and wetlands, forest management, fisheries and wildlife management, wood products, and urban and community forestry. Faculty and staff also will answer general questions about wildlife and forestry and will distribute publications on urban wildlife, urban forestry and wildlife damage management.

Rural Issues and Rural Health. Rural health concerns that will be addressed include diabetes, cancer and women, men and children's health and public health issues related to agricultural wastes. Two issues of concern in rural areas are used agricultural plastics and farm dumps. "We are working on a proprietary process to take plastic waste products, such as mulch films, and densify them into fuel," says Jim Garthe, instructor in agricultural and biological engineering. The "fuel nuggets" can be burned with coal in small boilers on farms or within rural community boilers. "We want to show producers that there is a light at the end of the tunnel," Garthe said. "We also want the farmers' voices to be heard in agricultural and legislative circles so we can further research this process and bring it into commercial reality."

Food Safety and Science. This area will feature the Fight Bac! program, which promotes four simple steps to food safety. Information also will be available on the undergraduate program in food science, which prepares students to apply sciences and technology to the processing, packaging and distribution of food products.

Entomology and Integrated Pest Management (IPM). This area will feature a prototype of the "Bugmobile," a roving educational unit that will travel to schools, county fairs, and other public events to teach people about integrated pest management. IPM is a

Pfautz Wins National Title, Hopes Farm Show Trophy

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Kevin Pfautz knows a good hog when he sees one.

In fact, the 17-year-old recently placed first in swine judging during the National 4-H Livestock Judging Contest held in Louisville, Ky.

He's put everything he knows into raising a champion hog for the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

But the competition is flooded with outstanding hogs. When it comes down to the wire, it's the judge's decision. And what he determines is the most outstanding hog may not be everyone's choice.

Kevin's choice for the competition is a Hamp-Duroc cross from stock that his 21-year-old brother Corey and he have worked hard to perfect.

"It's genetics — all the genetics," Kevin said of raising champion stock.

Feed, exercise, care — all have little influence on the outcome of a genetically sound hog, Kevin believes.

Kevin said a champion hog should demonstrate soundness, be free moving, and have structural make up with a long and level rump, and flex and cushion in the hocks.

Recognizing positive and negative characteristics of hogs comes easy to Kevin, who has been around pigs most of his life. His parents Rick and Sue raised hogs as an extension of Rick's own involvement in showing in 4-H.

Kevin's brother Corey and sister Lisa, 18, have all raised hogs for 4-H competitions.

For the past five years, Kevin has been a member of the Lancaster County 4-H Livestock Judging Team. The team, composed of Kevin, John Hess, Mount Joy; Geoffry Rohrer, Manheim; and Jessica Schmidt, Drumore; won at the state level, which qualified them for national competition.

Out of 35 states, the Pennsylvania team placed 14th overall in classes for beef, sheep, and swine and 8th in the sheep division. The individual scores were compiled to show that Kevin scored highest of all 140 participants in swine judging.

Not an easy feat, and surprising to Kevin himself.

According to Kevin, 35 states sent a team to competition. Each team member works individually in placing both market and breeding classes of beef, sheep, and swine. Then contestants must give four sets of oral reasons and two classes with questions test their ability to recall details about the animals.

The contest began at 9 a.m. and ended at 4 p.m. At the evening banquet, contestants received a listing of the official placings, but it wasn't until the awards banquet held the following day that winners were announced.

"I knew after seeing the official listing that I probably did pretty well in swine judging, but I didn't know I did that well," Kevin said of his first place standing. "I didn't do so great in the other divisions."

In preparation for national competition, the team met weekly to practice. The team was coached by Wendall Landis, Lancaster, and by Chet Hughes, Lancaster County livestock extension agent. Kevin also scanned magazines and books to become more familiar with terminology used to give oral reasons.

According to 4-H rules, teams that win the state title can no longer compete. So it is with some disappointment that Kevin will have no official outlet for his perfected judging skills. As a high school junior, he still has his senior year to complete before he can enter college — one that he hopes will have a team for him to join and compete on the collegiate level.

"I'm thinking about Penn State or a junior college where I could judge," Kevin said. He also hopes to continue raising breeding stock.

Although they live in Lititz, the Pfautz's raise their hogs and market steers on their grandparents' Ephrata farm.

Pfautz and his brother have 10 sows and about 15-20 market hogs they are finishing. Nine of the sows are bred and will give birth at the end of this month or the beginning of February. At the Keystone International Livestock Exposition held in Harrisburg in Oct., Kevin and his brother were named spring and fall outstanding breeders.

Another time demanding interest of Kevin's is playing offensive and defensive tackle for the Warwick High School football team.

Rick and his sister will weigh-in their choice hogs on Sunday to show at Tuesday's competition.

Farm Show Time Capsule To Preserve Pa.'s Rich Agricultural History, Traditions

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. recently announced that the Department of Agriculture and the state Farm Show Commission are seeking Farm Show memories to preserve in the 2000 Farm Show Time Capsule.

"Pennsylvania's Farm Show is a wonderful expression of our rich agricultural heritage and time-honored traditions," Hayes said. "As we enter the new millennium, it is only fitting that we preserve these memories for future generations to experience and enjoy."

Hayes encouraged Pennsylvanians to donate mementos that show the impact of the Pennsylvania Farm Show on agriculture or that highlight a great Farm Show memory or event.

Contributions — including photographs, news articles, letters or other printed materials that express a memorable Farm Show moment — will be accepted at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture booth at the 2000 Pennsylvania Farm Show Saturday, Jan. 8, through Thursday, Jan. 13, at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Contributions also will be accepted by mail and should be sent to Dennis L. Grumbine, Farm Show Time Capsule, 2301 North Cameron St., Harrisburg, PA 17110. All donated items must be clearly identified with event, year and names of individuals, and must be received by the Farm Show Commission no later than Jan. 13.

Hayes said the time capsule will be placed in the Farm Show Complex above the Large Arena, where it will remain sealed until the 2025 Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Fred Strang Calls 4-H Dancers To Swing Partners All The Way To Farm Show

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) — Fred Strang arrives at the Somerset Area High School just in time to set up the expensive equipment he brought along from home. Minutes before, the gym was teeming with Somerset County 4-H'ers learning to "swing their partners" with fine-tuned movements.

Some 12 square dance teams will be headed to the state Farm Show. Strang, a square dance caller from Johnstown, is training them. With caller Dan Prosser of Harrisburg, Strang will call at the Farm Show Folk Dance Competition.

Strang's wearing camel-colored western boots with requisite pointed toes and a medium blue, cotton shirt tucked into blue jeans. From the shirt back, the glittering face of a Husky dog seems to stare at you from a wintry scene.

The job before him, at the outset of sessions, is sometimes frustrating. But, year after year he returns. In the end, the performances he sees do justice to the training he gave. This is the 12th time.

"It is interesting," he said. "You pull your hair out trying to teach them and by the time the Farm Show rolls around, they are so refined. I could a pin a blue ribbon on all of them."

That isn't surprising when there are young newcomers every year and older, experienced kids have sashayed out of the picture because their 4-H days are over.

Four sessions are held with Strang, the final being dress rehearsal Sunday before the competition. What happens between trainings is up to the various club leaders.

Strang praises the leaders for being dedicated. They take what he has taught the entire contingent of square dancers and work with the individual teams, usually on weekends.

A native of Monroeville, Strang graduated as a dancer in 1974 and went on to graduate as a caller in late 1975.

He said prior to that time, although he enjoyed country music, he preferred attending boxing matches.

"I was interested in country music, but not in the capacity of a dancer," he said.

But somebody issued a challenge which Strang accepted and he hasn't stopped dancing since. He came to realize square dancing has numerous side effects that are totally positive for health and happiness.

"Square dancing is a multilevel, generational activity and that makes it unique," he said.

Besides its appeal to all ages, people of all professions meet as equals.

"It's one of those things you can have doctors and ditch-diggers on the same floor," Strang said. "It's cheap entertainment, plus you have fellowship and refreshments. It's a very therapeutic activity."

About that time, Strang's wife, Eva, a sixth-grade science teacher in the North Star School District, said, "It keeps kids out of trouble."

Strang manages her husband's schedule of appearances, besides being a round dance cuer.

So Strang may be out of town three nights a week, say, at Staunton , Va., Wooster, Ohio, or Sayre, N.Y. On Memorial Day he goes to Clearfield and to Cook's Forest in Clarion County on Labor Day.

Still, he calls for the Franklin Squares in Murrysville and the Canoe Club in Verona, where sentimentality is attached. The first club he ever called for was the Canoe Club.

He calls for the Wheelers and Dealers in Somerset County and that is what ultimately led to training the county 4-H kids for the Farm Show event.

Harry and Virginia Rhoads of Berlin, besides regularly including their four children at the Wheeler-Dealer dances, trusted that their friendship with Strang was comfortable enough to enlist his help training their own kids for the Farm Show.

Rhoads' daughter, Jodell, now married to David Antram of Somerset, said her parents thought square dancing with a club was a very good way to socialize, exercise, and have fun with a bunch of people.

Evan Strang, wife of square dance caller Fred Strang, coaches a team that is having some trouble on the dance floor.

David Antram points out how well square dancing coincides with 4-H because, as a co-ed activity, it fosters interaction between boys and girls, as well as the clubs themselves, from all over the county.

Even after young adults graduate from high school and continue on to college, Strang observes, sooner or later they will be seen back at the same square dance club they were introduced to by their parents.

It seems once "Do Sa Do-ing" gets in your system, it tends to stick. The only way to deal with it is simply to find a partner and put on your dancin' shoes.

Between calling square dances, Strang is a Pennsylvania notary public, works for Laurel Motors, and cooks for Eat-n-Park restaurant.

No wonder he said, grinning, the childless couple is too busy to raise a family.

As "Honeycomb" spins on the turntable of the phonograph, some of the dancers are awkward. Strang adjusts the variable speed recorder to either slow down or speed up the pace.

"Were you trying to anticipate?" he calls to a nearby team. They deny. "I told you not to anticipate the calls," he gently reiterates what he told them earlier.

Strang then takes the microphone and yodels a tune.

Fred and Eva Strang work together helping the 4-H dance teams from Somerset County who will compete in folk dancing at the Farm Show.

Square dance caller Fred Strang of Johnstown trains Somerset County 4-H square dance teams for competition at the Farm Show. They start with the song "Honeycomb" on the phonograph.

Fred Strang talks with Teresa Landis, a leader in the Valley 4-H Club, at a square dance training held at Somerset High School.

Here square dance caller, Fred Strang, observes the progress of a 4-H dance team preparing for the Farm Show Folk Dance competition.

Master Gardeners Show How To Attract Wildlife

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Homeowners who prefer live action in their gardens can get tips on attracting birds, small mammals, insects, and other wildlife to their property at a Penn State Cooperative Extension exhibit during the 2000 Pennsylvania Farm Show.

The display, which is located in the Family Corner on the second floor of the Northeast Building will use photographic panels to detail four elements of a suburban or rural garden that attracts creatures ranging from butterflies to bunnies.

Volunteers from Penn State's Master Gardener Program will staff the display. "We will answer questions, offer advice, and provide detailed fact sheets on how to attract a variety of animal and insect life to your yard," said Connie Schmotzer, horticultural assistant in the York County cooperative extension office. "For people who are experiencing a problem with a specific species, we will have wildlife control fact sheets available."

Schmotzer explained the display suggests four ways to provide a haven for wildlife:

• Food. Birds and animals often eat seeds and berries from plants, and gardeners can choose plants that offer food sources throughout the year. "We also can show you how using pesticides on foliage plants can deter and harm wildlife," Schmotzer said.

• Cover. Different species of plants provide shelter and protection for animals that occupy different habitats within the environment. "There are bird species that like to nest in evergreens, others that like shrubs of different heights.

• Water. Water sources are very important to sustain wildlife populations, according to Schmotzer. Homeowners can use bird baths, waterfalls, water gardens, ponds or marshlands to attract various species. "Even setting a tray of water out can be an adequate supply," she added.

• Space to Raise Young. "It's important to provide undisturbed places around the fringes of your property where birds and animals can raise young in relative safety," Schmotzer said. Such areas include dead tree stumps, hedgerows, shrubs of varying size and even a small brush pile.

"Pennsylvania and other states are rapidly losing acres of natural area to suburban development," Schmotzer said. "Many native plant species are replaced with lawns or exotic plants that are of little or no value to wildlife. Losing these native plant species also affects insects and animals who may depend on these plants for food, shelter or cover."

Schmotzer said visitors to the Farm Show also can get detailed information on Penn State's Master Gardener program.

There are more than 1,500 Master Gardeners in 58 counties pursuing activities ranging from garden club lectures to creating horticultural trial gardens. "Master Gardeners are there to help consumers and provide educational programs."

To join the program, participants must fill out an application, go through an intensive interview, and take a test on horticultural topics. Candidates accepted into the program must complete 30 hours

Lancaster County Approved For Grazing Loss Payments

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Sign-up for the Livestock Assistance Program (LAP) ends January 21.

The Livestock Assistance Program provides direct payments to eligible livestock producers who suffered grazing losses because of drought during 1999. Nationwide, $200 million is allocated to the program.

Eligibility for benefits for an individual producer is based on whether drought caused the producer in Lancaster County to suffer a 40 percent or greater loss of grazing for three consecutive months during 1999.

Eligible livestock are beef and dairy cattle, buffalo or beefalo, sheep, goats, swine, and equine animals used commercially for human food or kept for the production of food or fiber on the owner's farm. Livestock must be owned for at least three months before they become eligible for LAP benefits.

Specifically, producers must possess beneficial interest in eligible livestock or have financial risk in eligible livestock, report eligible livestock and supporting grazing acreage and report the percent of grazing loss. The development of a conservation plan, if not already done, must be completed along with a certification of implementation.

Producers with qualifying gross income in excess of $2.5 million are not eligible.

LAP assistance is based upon the value of feed calculated on a corn equivalency basis required for eligible livestock during the three-month period where a minimum 40 percent feed loss occurred. A producer must have sufficient grazing available for eligible livestock to be eligible for the maximum payment; otherwise, payment will be based on grazing losses instead of needs.

Applications for benefits must be filed with the Farm Service Agency by Jan. 21. When you apply, you will be required to provide the following information: number, kind of livestock, and weight range of livestock you owned during 1999, and your share in those livestock; acres, location, and type of grass or forage on which you experienced a loss; an estimated percent of loss in grazing; and information about significant changes in livestock number including dates when changes occurred. A producer can receive LAP benefits and also receive benefits under any other program administered by USDA.

Farm Service Agency Announces CRP Sign-Up

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Kathryn Heil, county executive director, announced that a Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) general sign-up will be conducted Jan. 18 - Feb. 11.

"This is another opportunity for landowners to sign up for a voluntary program to get financial and technical assistance for improving their land, water, and wildlife resources," Heil said. "If you haven't tried to get into the program, if your CRP contract offers were not accepted in the sign-up last year, or if you have contracts expiring next fall, this is the time to make new contract offers."

The CRP is designed to improve America's natural resource base. Landowners enter into contracts with the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) to enroll erodible and other environmentally sensitive land in contracts for 10 - 15 years. In exchange, they receive annual rental payments and a payment for up to 50 percent of the cost of establishing approved practices.

The CCC will continue to evaluate and rank all eligible CRP offers using an Environmental Benefits Index (EBI), which is based on the potential environmental benefits from enrolling the land in the CRP. The EBI is composed of six environmental factors (wildlife habitat cover benefits, water quality benefits, on-farm benefits, of reduced erosion, benefits enduring beyond the contract period, air quality benefits, and conservation priority areas) plus a cost factor.

Maximum CRP payments will be determined based on county average dryland cash or cash rent equivalent rental rates adjusted for site-specific, soil-based productivity factors. CRP payments can include an additional amount, not to exceed $5 per acre per year, as an incentive to perform certain maintenance obligations. Cost-share assistance will be provided to establish approved cover on land enrolled in CRP.

Interested producers and landowners should contact the Lancaster County Farm Service Agency office, 1383 Arcadia Rd., Room 2, Lancaster, PA 17601. Phone (717) 397-6235 for more information.

of training from extension agents, faculty, and other Master Gardeners in botany, entomology, plant pathology, soils, plant propagation, communication skills and other topics. Master Gardeners then are expected to volunteer 50 hours of their time in their first year in the program. In each subsequent year, they must take eight hours of training and volunteer a minimum of 20 hours to remain in the program.

Costs differ from county to county, but every candidate must pay $35 to cover the cost of the program's training manual and an official Master Gardener name tag.

collaboration with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture that promotes ways to manage pests in environmentally compatible ways. "We purchased an old Volkswagen beetle, repainted it as a ladybug and are developing displays to go with it," said education specialist Lyn Garling. "Our goal is to educate people about 'good' versus 'bad' insects, the benefits of using IPM if you have a pest problem, and how to choose and use pesticides correctly."

Parents and prospective students can gain information about educational programs, including the interdepartmental program in agroecosystems science and the graduate degree in entomology. Visitors also can ask questions about bug problems.

The Ag Advocates, a student organization that explains agriculture to the public, will staff the main recruitment area. They will answer questions about undergraduate programs, as well as refer parents and prospective students to faculty at the various subject exhibits.

Other highlights include an Ag Progress Day video. "We'll also provide free publications at the Penn State Cooperative Extension exhibit area and help people order for-sale publications," said MacIsaac.

The Farm Show opens to the public on Jan. 8 and closes on Jan. 13. Hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday through Wednesday and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday. Parking is $5 and admission is free.

TMR Feed, Consistent Grooming Prominent In Dietrich Farm Show Preparations

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HAMBURG (Berks Co.) — Kelly Dietrich calls her 15-month-old Simmental/Maine Anjou crossbred steer "Whitey" a few things.

First, "he's a baby," she said. "He's extremely spoiled. We bought him in Lancaster County and he's the most pampered one of the bunch."

Kelly and her sister, Kristy, spend a lot of time with their beef animals in preparation for this year's Farm Show. And they're willing to tell you how much time is spent in grooming champions.

But Kelly won't reveal the feed. "We have a certain type," she said, similar to a total mixed ration (TMR) for cows.

Kelly, 17, is the daughter of Donna and Jim Dietrich, Hamburg. This will be her fourth year at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, where she will also show a 7-month-old purebred Limousin homebred.

Her sister Kristy, 15, is also showing a couple of animals at the Farm Show. Kristy, in her third year at the Farm Show, will be exhibiting "Shania" (named in honor of the country singer Shania Twain), an 18-month-old purebred Limousin.

Shania has proved a dandy in the show ring for Kristy. Last year at the Farm Show the heifer already captured second place in the open show. Kristy said she was "first in her class" in 4-H competition as a junior yearling. This year Kristy is showing her a senior yearling (Kristy had the Farm Show 4-H champion last year with a purebred Limousin, "Moonlight").

Kristy also plans to take "Strawberry Wine," a 6-month-old purebred Limousin, to the show.

This year's junior breeding cattle will be shown on "Youth Day," Wednesday, Jan. 12, beginning at 8:30 a.m. in the Large Arena. Junior steer classes follow in the same place at noon.

"We spend a lot of time with each animal," said Kristy.

Kristy, a freshman at Tulpehocken High School, has shown at lots of area fairs. They include Kutztown, Oley, Denver, and "when there was a Reading Fair," she said. They also have shown at county roundup, the Pennsylvania Beef Expo (Kristy brought along Shania), the Keystone International Livestock Expo, and the Tristates Jackpot Show in Pennsylvania.

At Tristates, Whitey placed second, but only because "he was being a brat," Kelly said. "He was not working his body the way it should be — he had his front legs stiff. The judge likes to see that movement up front."

For Farm Show, Whitey could do well, she believes. "He has a good haircoat and muscling," said Kelly, a senior at Tulpehocken High School and president of her FFA chapter.

As for Shania, Kristy said she is smooth and "has nice muscling for a heifer." She also believes the calf's strength is in its "balance."

Kristy received the outstanding beef project and grand champion steer awards at the county roundup. Kelly came close but missed the reserve champion project by a point.

But time remains to prepare for a championship at Farm Show. As for Whitey, "he's cool," Kelly said. "And he's so cute."

Kelly spends about a half hour every day walking, washing, clipping, and fitting Whitey. Before Farm Show, it will take about 2-3 hours, she said, clipping and grooming the animals to get them ready.

Sometimes Kelly and Kristy argue about chores, about the animals, and "about getting them ready," said Donna Dietrich. Kelly said she inspects the work Kristy does on clipping the animals for the show. But Kelly said she watches her friends and other, more experienced showmen to get tips for the show.

Kelly said that, during Farm Show week, the sisters don't get much sleep. But a whole week off from school allows them to see friends that "we hardly ever see all year," she said. "It's a lot of fun."

Kelly noted that, compared to some fairs that pay only $30 to place a steer or $10 for a heifer (some only award $5 per animal), Farm Show pays $26 for first place and $18 for fifth. Fifteen dollars is awarded to all other placings.

The premium and sale money go into savings for college.

Kelly has been accepted at Penn State to study ag business. Kristy wants to attend Penn State to major in ag business or dairy and animal science.

At the farm, Kristy and Kelly help feed about 100 head of steers. The Dietrichs farm about 900 acres, including leased land.

The year's drought had a devastating effect on the Dietrich and surrounding farms. Even the Kutztown Fair was affected, according to Kelly. The fair is the site of the annual "water battles" at the close of the event. This year, instead of showering fellow showmen with water from hoses, the restrictions forced them to use shaving cream instead. "So we had a shaving cream battle," Kelly said.

Kelly, who works part-time milking cows at Way-Har Farms in Bernville, has thought of showing sheep at the Farm Show. If she had all the money in the world, Kelly noted she would show a purebred Shorthorn. "They're awesome looking," she indicated.

Kristy, who works at the Way-Har ice cream stand at the Leesport Farmers' Auction, said if she had all the money in the world, she would show a purebred Limousin, maybe from Express Ranch in Yukon, Okla. "Limousins are cute," she said.

The Dietrichs use Limousin genetics — they make a good crossbred with Angus for feeder steers. At the farm, the Dietrichs, who use AI, also use a 3-year-old purebred Limousin herd bull, Mustang.

Kelly began showing at the Farm Show in 1997, and Kristy a year later. This year Kelly is receiving the FFA Keystone Degree (the highest FFA degree in the state, presented at the Farm Show).

Kelly said she simply can't miss out on this year's Farm Show, despite any predictions about the typical snow and ice that is often forecast.

"If I have to walk the steer, I'll be there," she said.

PCA Teams Up With Animal Health Companies

MIDDLETOWN, (Dauphin Co.) – Three deserving students will have the opportunity to earn a scholarship this spring through the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association (PCA) and sponsoring animal health companies.

One $1,000 scholarship and two $500 scholarships will be awarded to students planning to further their education in some facet of the beef, dairy, and/or veal industries.

Current involvement in the industry, among other related requirements, will be beneficial in applying for these scholarships. Winners will be awarded their scholarships at the annual PCA banquet, March 30, at the 2000 Beef Expo in State College.

More information and scholarship applications will be available at the PCA booth at this year's Pennsylvania Farm Show or by contacting Jason McCorkle at the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association office, (717) 986-0333. All scholarship applications must be sent to the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, 1500 Fulling Mill Road, Middletown, PA 17057, on or before March 10.

258 Keystone Degree Recipients Mark FFA's 72nd Year With 'Signature Of Success'

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — As an agricultural educational institution, the FFA is 72 years old. The recent 1999 convention in Louisville, Ky., made another impact on the lives of students with the theme, "Signature of Success."

To make their mark, what amounts to 258 — a record in recent history — of Pennsylvania FFA members will receive the cherished Keystone FFA Degree at the Pennsylvania Mid-Winter Convention Monday, Jan. 10. The event is scheduled in the Large Arena of the Farm Show Complex from 4 p.m.-6 p.m.

At the state FFA gala event, hundreds of family, friends, and agri-industry supporters will be on hand to congratulate the winners of the Keystone honor, the state's highest degree.

The 1999 national convention theme symbolizes the "organization's mission, encouraging students to make an impact on the future of their communities, the agricultural industry, the nation, and the world by developing themselves as successful leaders through the FFA experience," according to the National FFA.

At the convention, members developed themselves as premier leaders and young professionals. The FFA National Agricultural Career Show in Louisville, Ky., brought 349 exhibitors to allow FFA members to learn about a vast array of agricultural careers, programs, and products. While in Louisville, FFA members participated in many career development events, leadership workshops, award ceremonies, and banquets. The America FFA Degree, the highest level nationally for an FFA member, went to 2,324 members.

FFA members are recognized by their traditional blue and gold jackets with their names scrolled proudly on the front. Many people associate membership in state FFA with raising animals or growing crops — but membership exposes students to a variety of careers in agribusiness.

FFA members prepare for wide-ranging careers in marketing, communications, genetic engineering, law, and other industries.

National FFA Week is scheduled Feb. 19-26. The FFA Theme Guide offers pointers for members to explain FFA and promote agriculture education.

The state FFA honors less than 10 percent of its members with the Keystone Degree. There are certain requirements each FFA member must meet to receive it. Only seniors and graduates are eligible. They must have shown leadership ability, must have earned from their own efforts in farming or from supervised agricultural experience (SAE) programs, and deposited in a bank or otherwise productively invested at least $1,000 or worked at least 300 hours in excess of scheduled class time.

Out of the 258 recipients of this year's Keystone Degree, four state stars out of the regional stars will be chosen in their respective area. Selection of state stars is based upon their SAE program. Programs must show comprehensive planning, continuation, growth, and increase in scope with records to prove such accomplishments.

The four stars include production agriculture; ag sales, service, and mechanics; horticulture; and specialized agriculture, including forestry, natural resources, and nontraditional agriculture.

The gala event is free and open to the public.

At Lancaster Farming, home to stories and news coverage from various state FFA chapters, we know how hard the achievements are won by members. Their signatures of success have been felt by their families and their community. We salute their efforts and wish them well. Perhaps, by their efforts, they will write their own place in the history of the America's agri-industries.

Derrick L. Adair

"The thing I enjoyed most about FFA was meeting new people, attending all the conferences, and, most of all, just having fun," said Derrick L. Adair.

Derrick, 17, four-year West Perry FFA member, plans to attend Penn State, run for state office, get married to a farm girl, and have "four or five kids," he wrote.

Derrick is the son of Daniel and Kelly Adair, Loysville. He has served as chapter secretary and is area president. Derrick has completed various SAE projects, including dairy calf, dairy heifer, dairy herd, and on-farm work experience. He was a member of the summer trip, citrus, and Greenhand committees. Three years in a row, he noted, he won the dairy production entrepreneurship and placement awards.

He plans to work in dairy farming with his family.

Derrick has received the Greenhand, chapter, and area degrees.

Tryphena Addleman

"Learning new things in agriculture" forms the basis for Tryphena Addleman's enjoyment of belonging to the largest agricultural youth organization in the world.

Tryphena, 17, is the daughter of Donald and Colleen Addleman, Boalsburg. Tryphena, three-year State College Little Lions FFA member, has served as parliamentarian and president. She has served on the awards, executive, and program of work committees and completed horse production projects.

Tryphena, who hopes to attend Penn State to become an equine veterinarian, has received awards in horse production. She received her Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Steve Appel Jr.

Steve Appel Jr. noted he plans to receive an associate's degree in dairy science and complete sire selection work for a few years. Then the four-year Manor FFA member wants to return to school for his agriculture education degree.

Steve, 18, son of Steve and Deb Appel, Conestoga, has served on several committees, including tractor safety, fruit sale, petting zoo, and senior national trip. He has completed dairy management, pumpkins, masonry, Christmas trees, and hog projects. Steve, who believes FFA teaches leadership and responsibility, "also teaches you to deal with life on life's terms," he wrote.

Steve has received several awards, including Outstanding Young Mechanic, public speaking, and leadership. He received his Greenhand, chapter, and Red Rose degrees.

the Signature of FFA Success

Amos R. Aurand

As for what Amos R. Aurand enjoys most about FFA, he wrote: "I enjoy going on trips with the FFA and meeting new people. I enjoy this because most of the time the trips do not cost much and I can meet people from all over the country."

Rachel E. Day

Rachel Day, 17-year-old daughter of Cliff and Anna Day, New Holland, enjoys the leadership activities and conferences where she can develop her leadership skills.

The contests the members attend and the field trips taken allow her to "get to know the other members in my chapter. I have learned many lifelong skills in FFA and will carry them with me throughout my life."

Rachel plans to attend college and major in elementary education. She has served as chapter second reporter, historian, and is recording secretary. Additionally, she has served on several committees, including earnings, savings, and investments; as recruitment chair; as chair of the leadership cooperation; and chair of the human resources committee.

She has completed market lamb projects and off-farm work at Yoder's Country Market and CVS Pharmacy.

Charlene Deeter

Four-year Albion FFA member Charlene Deeter enjoyed attending Farm Show because it "was a fun experience." She has completed projects in small animal care, including cat, turtle, hamster, mice, and dog.

Charlene, 18, is the daughter of Marjorie Deeter, Albion. She plans to be a horse breeder and boarder, received a small animal care honor, and the Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Emily Dietrich

"I really enjoy the FFA because of all the leadership you learn and friends you make for a lifetime," wrote four-year Kutztown Area FFA member Emily Dietrich.

Emily is the daughter of Marlin and Dawn Dietrich, Kempton. Emily plans to work in the family business, Dietrich's Meats/Family Farms. She noted her FFA experience allowed her to become more self-confident.

Emily has served as chapter reporter, secretary, treasurer, and is president. She has been involved in various committees, including citrus sale, pumpkin judging, FFA Week, and fair display. She completed poultry production projects and received the Allentown Fair scholarship and agribusiness honors. She received a Star Chapter Farmer honor and her Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Kelly Dietrich

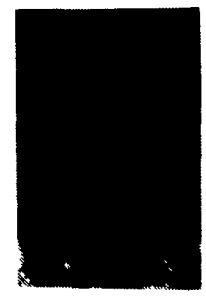
Three-year Tulpehocken FFA member Kelly Dietrich noted the most "enjoyable part about FFA is having the opportunity to meet new people. At every contest or trip, I have at least met one new and interesting person. This will help me in the future with learning to deal with people's individual differences and accept them for who they are, and not who they appear to be."

Kelly, 17, is the daughter of Donna and Jim Dietrich, Hamburg. She plans to attend Penn State for an associate's degree in ag business management.

Kelly has served as chapter sentinel and is president. She also sered on the community service and conduct of meeting committees.

Kelly has received a first place livestock judging award during the 1999 FFA Week. She received the Star Greenhand and Star Chapter Farmer honors.

Kevin Dreibelbis



As for FFA, "I enjoy the trips and contests, because I got to meet new people and get away from the farm," wrote three-year Cowanesque Valley FFA member Kevin Dreibelbis.

Kevin, 17, is the son of Butch and Linda Dreibelbis, Lawrenceville. He plans to become a farm operator.

Kevin is chapter student adviser. Additionally, he has completed several farm projects, including sheep, swine, and on-farm work experience. He received the Star Agribusiness Award and the Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

David Dressler

Four-year Greenwood FFA member David Dressler enjoys the "friends and activities" that comprise FFA.

David, 18, is the son of Roger and Renita Dressler, Millerstown. David plans to attend college to major in forestry conservation.

David has served on the fruit sale committee. In addition, he completed various projects, including supervised agricultural experience, and others. David received the Greenhand, chapter, and area degrees.

Erin Dymond

Erin Dymond wrote: "I enjoy all of the fun activities and friendships that are available through the FFA. I have learned a lot about myself and others in the past four years," she noted. The experience is "sure to aid me in my future plans."

Erin, 17, is the daughter of Raymond and Maryann Dymond, Elverson. The four-year Twin Valley FFA membr plans to attend college to become an elementary teacher.

Erin has served on various committees and participated in a range of activities, including citrus sale, Food for America, pet therapy, Ag Day breakfast, calendar sale, bulb sale, and others. She received a first place in senior prepared public speaking in 1999, a first in several fair mini exhibits, and placed high in the interview contest.

Jack Edwards

Future plans for Central Cove FFA member Jack Edwards include taking over the family farm.

Jack, a senior at Central High School in Martinsburg, is the son of Melvin and Patricia Edwards, Williamsburg. Jack has served as chapter treasurer and is chapter president.

In addition, Jack, who noted he enjoys working with various community service projects, served on the earnings and savings, executive, and fruit committees. He participated in the Food for America Program, dairy judging at the State FFA Activities Week, county land juding, Farm Safety Day, and others. He has received varous project book awards.

Adam Shawn Enterline

Four-year Manor FFA member Adam Shawn Enterline enjoys various aspects of FFA membership, including the leadership work, achieving goals, and "setting a good example for the younger classmates." He enjoys always being able to "work with others and meet new faces."

Adam, 18, is the son of Ken and Pam Zimmerman, Conestoga. Future plans include a career in agriculture.

Adam has served on various commitees, including Make-A-Wish, road cleanup, and petting zoo. He completed projects in hogs, tobacco, garden, and work experience.

Adam has received the Greenhand, chapter, and Red Rose degrees.

Jessie Eshelman

Jessie Eshelman wrote: "I enjoy being in FFA because I get to meet new people. I get to work with animals and learn about them."

Jessie, 17, is the daughter of Garnet and Wanda Eshelman, St. Thomas. She plans to attend college and major in agricultural business.

Jessie, three-year Conococheague FFA member at James Buchanan High School, has served on the following committees: cooperative, community service, leadership, and recreation. In addition, she has completed dairy herd projects and was on the Eastern States fourth place farm business management team. She received her Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

Melissa Eshelman

"I enjoy meeting new people and learning a wide range of things in managing a business," noted two-year Grassland FFA member Melissa Eshelman.

Melissa, 18, is the daughter of Richard and Kathy Eshelman, Terre Hill. Melissa noted she plans to train and show hunter horses.

Melissa has served on varous committees, including ag careers and support group. She completed work experience at Auntie Anne's Soft Pretzels and in horsemanship practicum.

She noted it was a neat experience "to go to Penn State this summer and test my knowledge of horsemanship."

Craig Evans

FFA has taught four-year United FFA member Craig Evans to work hard to "accomplish any goal."

Craig, 17, is the son of Ken and Jan Evans, Indiana. Craig has served as chapter sentinel and is president.

Craig, who plans to attend IUP to study secondary education, has served on various committees, including Koi, Adopt-a-Stream, tree planting, and Food For America. He also completed projects in koi production, goldfish production, hydroponics, and wildlife habitat improvement.

He received his Greenhand and chapter honors.

Ryan Faytak

Four-year Albion FFA member Ryan Faytak noted he enjoys the "wide variety of activities we do" as members, learning a lot.

Ryan, 17, is the son of Ed and Shelley Faytak, Girard. Ryan plans to attend Northwestern College to study auto and diesel technology.

Ryan has served as president and is chapter reporter. He has also served on the banquet and Farm Show committees. In addition, he has completed dairy production and grill work projects. He received the Star Chapter Farmer honor and the Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Josh Ford

Josh Ford, 17, Northeast Bradford FFA member, began his SAE record book with one dairy calf. He then added a flock of chickens.

Josh, the son of Rodney and Shelley Ford, plans to attend Cobleskill State College in New York, then return to the family farm.

Derick John Fox

The way you learn in FFA, according to four-year Manor FFA member Derick John Fox, Pequea, is "not all bookwork, and it puts you in real-life situations," he noted.

Derick, 18, is the son of Ellen Shoff and Randy Fox. Derick wrote that he plans to run the family farm.

Derick has been involved with several committees, including petting zoo and Spring Fling. He has completed steer-raising and work experience projects. Derick received the outstanding fruit and vegetable and food technology awards, in addition to his Greenhand degree.

Steven M. Freeman Jr.

"Experience in leadership skills" is what Steven Freeman noted to be an important aspect of FFA membership.

Steven, 18, the son of Steven and Linda Freeman, Coudersport, is a four-year Spud Growers FFA member. Steven plans to attend Central Missouri State University to major in agriculture technology.

Steven has served on several Spud Growers committees, including fruit sales, banquet, and program of activities. He completed projects with Wending Creek Farms. Steven has also received awards in dairy judging, work experience, and project books. In addition, he has received his Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Kevin Fritz

When Kevin Fritz joined FFA, he met a lot of new people, he noted, and made friends — a key component to his interest in the largest agricultural youth organization in the world.

Kevin, 18, son of Daniel and Carol Fritz, Friedens, is a four-year Somerset FFA member. He plans to own is own masonry business.

Kevin has served as assistant chaplain of Somerset FFA. In addition, he completed chapter record book projects and received an agronomy award. He also completed his Greenhand and chapter requirements.

Kevin Fry

Why join FFA? It's "meeting new people," noted four-year Selinsgrove FFA member Kevin Fry, Winfield.

Kevin, 17-year-old son of Gary and Noreen Fry, plans to become a dairy farmer.

At Selinsgrove, Kevin has been sentinel, vice president, and is student adviser. He has served on various committees, including corn club, membership, dairy, recreation, and exhibit. He completed projects in dairy herd, field corn, soyeans, alfalfa, and on-farm work experience.

Kevin has been awarded the Star Greenhand and Star Chapter Farmer honors and received his Greenhand, chapter, and SUN Area degrees.

Julie Anne Fulton

Four-year Big Spring FFA member Julie Anne Fulton found it easy to answer the question about why people join FFA

Julie wrote, "Definitely, meeting all the new people. I not only have friends within my area, but through the FFA I have friends from all over this state and nation. Meeting people is one of my favorite things to do."

Julie, 17, is the daughter or Robert and Rebecca Fulton, Shippensburg. For Big Spring FFA, Julie has served as secretary, vice president, and is chapter president.

Julie, who plans to become and elementary school teacher because she loves working with kids, has served on a variety of chapter committees, including National FFA Week, Food For America, calendar, Halloween float and party, scrapbook, and Christmas party. Her SAE project was dairy herd.

Julie has received the Star Greenhand, dairy production award, and attended the cooperative convention in California. She received her Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Josh Gabert

Serving as Greenwood FFA treasurer, Josh Gabert noted that he enjoys all of the speaking skills he has learned. "I can now confidently speak in front of groups of people," he wrote.

Josh, who plans to attend a four-year university and major in forestry, is the 18-year-old son of John and Barb Gabert, Newport.

Josh has served on several committees, including fruit sale, program of activities, and Big Brother. He has completed various projects, including community service, homing pigeons, and work at Weis Markets. He also received several awards, including creed contests, public speaking, FFA Area Star, and a gold in the state project book.

He received his Greenhand, chapter, and area degrees.

Kelly J. Galloway

Kelly J. Galloway lists several items that she enjoys most about FFA: first, the encouragement you're given; second, the friends you meet; third, the adventures you can have; and overall, "just the fun times."

Kelly, 20, is the daughter of Wayne and Deborah Galloway, New Oxford. Kelly's future plans include giving back to her chapter "what it has given to me, and to show others there is so much given to you when you are involved in FFA."

Kelly has served as New Oxford FFA secretary. Additionally she has served on the membership, fundraising, and Food For America committees. She has completed off-farm work experience, including the Conewago Valley School District.

Kelly received several awards, including the Charles A. Smith Ag Management Award, the Darrell Williams Award for Animal and Plant Science, and county and regional public speaking honors.

Kelly has received her Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

Jared Garber

The experiences learned in FFA can be applied "practically" to the work done in school, according to four-year Hans Herr FFA member Jared Garber.

Jared, 18, is the son of Ken and Nan Garber, Elizabethtown. Jared plans a career as an electrician.

Jared has served as historian and is chapter president. In addition, he has served on the human relations, banquet, and leadership committees.

Jared has completed record book projects and ag mechanics competition. He received a gold at the national level for his work in ag mechanics and has received his Greenhand, chapter, and Red Rose degrees.

Ryan Garber

Ryan Garber, 18, noted he enjoys the meetings conducted by the FFA and "any activities we do."

The son of Phil and Cyndi Garber, Mount Joy, Ryan plans to work full time after school.

Ryan, four-year Manheim FFA member, has served as vice president and is president. He received several awards, including honors for serving on the state-winning small gas engines team and the state-winning ag mechanics team. He received the Greenhand, chapter, and Red Rose degrees.

Heather Gearhart

Heather Gearhart noted she has made many lasting friendships through participation in FFA contests and activities.

Heather, five-year member of Blue Ridge FFA, plans to attend college to major in either accounting or preveterinary medicine.

The 18-year-old daughter of John and Janet Henning, Waynesboro, Heather has served as chapter vice president. Additionally she has served on the parade and hydroponics committees.

She completed rabbit projects and received her Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Caleb W. Geist

Four-year Cowanesque FFA member Caleb W. Geist notes what his favorite part of FFA membership is: "going to the judging contests," he noted, because he enjoys animal judging competition.

Caleb, 17, is the son of Phil and Susan Geist, Knoxville. Caleb plans to be a diesel mechanic.

Caleb has completed several projects, including metalworking, horseshoeing, and work experience. He received an award for ag sales and services, a proficieny award, and a bronze award for recordkeeping. He received his Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

Matthew Gerhart

"Meeting new people" forms the basis for Matthew Gerhart's membership in FFA.

Matthew, 18, son of Marvin and Joyce Texter, Reinholds, plans to enroll in a trade school and "find a good job," he noted.

Matthew has served as chapter student adviser. In addition, he completed projects in market rabbit and dairy herd. Matthew received a gold award in dairy showmanship at Penn State and received his Greenhand, chapter, and Red Rose degrees.

Katrina Getz

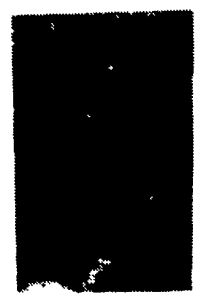
FFA has meant a lot to Katrina Getz, four-year Twin Valley FFA member. She wrote that the activities and contests are important "because you meet new people and gain experience in different fields, especially public speaking."

Katrina, 18, is the daughter of Tom and Pat Getz, Morgantown. Katrina plans to major in horticulture at Penn State and "get a job in the research of plant genetics."

Katrina, chapter treasurer, has completed various projects in pet and work experience. She also served on several committees, including bulb sale, citrus sale, Ag Day breakfast, chapter cookout, petting zoo, calendar sale, and others. She also received a first place award at the county level in public speaking and a gold in the state record book contest.

Katrina received her Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Candace Gochenauer



"I enjoy FFA because it has taught me how to be a better leader, rather than just a regular follower," wrote four-year Conococheague FFA member Candace Gochenauer. "It has also taught me how to be a better speaker and has taken me to many new places."

Candace, 17, is the daughter of Roy and Bonnie Gochenauer, St. Thomas. Candace plans to attend an agriculture school and major in agribusiness and horticulture.

Candace has served as chapter secretary, student adviser, and is vice president. She also served on various committees, including Junior FFA, community service, and the planning committee for National FFA Week.

In addition, the Conococheague FFA member has completed several projects, including project books and organized national contest. She received a first place award in the state in ag sales and a bronze at the national level. She received her Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

Craig, 18, is the son of Garry and Debora Main, Pine Bank. Craig plans to attend college and major in engineering.

Craig has served as chapter sentinel and is president. He also served on several committees, including banquet, citrus, and food trailer. He completed projects in horse production, pleasure horse, and wildlife.

Craig has received the Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Sam Marks

Career development events, or CDEs, are critical to many FFA members. They "prepare you for the future," wrote four-year Selinsgrove FFA member Sam Marks.

Sam, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marks, Middleburg, has "farming" in his plans.

Sam has served as chapter secretary. Additionally, he has been a member of several committees, including citrus sales, small animal, and recreation. He completed beagle dogs, beef finishing, and on-farm work experience projects.

Sam has received a forest proficiency award. He also received his Greenhand, chapter, and SUN Area degrees.

Amanda Martin

Chapter and county president Amanda Martin, Cedar Crest FFA member, plans to attend a two-year college to major in dairy and animal science, and then "return to the family farm," she wrote.

Amanda, 17, is the daughter of Eugene and Kathleen Martin, Lebanon.

Amanda has also served as Cedar Crest vice president, county secretary, and chapter sentinel. She picked up several awards through the years, including first in the county speech contest, first in the county and region for floral design, first in the county in dairy judging, and scholarship awards from 1997-1999.

She has participated on the following committees: earnings and savings, healthy lifestyles, leadership, ag career skills, and recruitment. She received the Lisa M. Houser Memorial Award, participated in the National Institute of Cooperative Education (NICE) and Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives (PCC) conferences. She received a top bologna sellers award in 1997 and 1999 and the top citrus sellers award in 1998. She received the Star Greenhand in 1997 and has received the Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

Brandon Martin

Three-year Cloister FFA member Brandon Martin enjoys going to FFA conventions "because they are fun," he wrote.

Brandon, 17, Ephrata, is the son of Cindy Grote and Ray Martin. Brandon plans to be a mechanic.

Brandon has served on several Cloister FFA committees, including human resources, SAE, and leadership. He completed several projects, including raising show chicken, restoring a 1981 Camaro, wildlife, and animal judging. He received his Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Gary Martin

Plans for Gary Martin, four-year Grassland FFA member, include "a career with livestock," he noted.

Gary, 18, is the son of Clarence and Marilyn Martin, New Holland.

Gary has served as second year historian and sentinel. In addition, he has been a member of the following committees: cooperation, ag career skills, healthy lifestlyes, support group, and financial. He has work experience on two dairy farms, the Shady Maple grocery store, Conestoga Pole Building, and on-farm experience raising market hogs.

Gary has received a bronze medal in poultry judging and the Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Jason Andrew Martin

Jason Andrew Martin noted that he enjoys the "hands-on" approach to learning a "wide variety of skills that I am interested in. The career development activities are a great way to further develop the skills that you are interested in, and you believe have the potential to help you in a future career. My involvement in the dairy cattle evaluation team will help me in my future as a dairy farmer as well as the information about cooperatives I learned through the PCC Summer Institute."

Jason, 17, is the son of John and Joann Martin, Pequea. He plans to work with his father on the family dairy and crop farm, get married, and "eventually buy the farm when he retires," Jason wrote.

Jason, four-year Manor FFA member, is chapter reporter. He has served on several committees, including petting zoo, banquet, and public relations. He completed projects in steers, heifers, capons, and work experience on the family dairy.

Jason also received several awards, including beef and dairy proficiency, state dairy judging, chain heifer, and chain capon. He also received the Greenhand, chapter, and Red Rose degrees.

Linford Martin

FFA "prepares me for a job," noted two year Manheim FFA member Linford Martin.

Linford, 18, son of Mary Martin, Manheim, plans to "continue farming," he noted.

Linford has served as chapter vice president. He also was employed on M&M Poultry Farm and received the Star Greenhand and chapter honors.

BCS

THE BEST SYSTEM ON EARTH

The Tiller That Has It All

Your garden can be the most productive ever using our machines. No other machine can break ground, cultivate, and power compost like a BCS. BCS offers you the three things you look for in a tiller:

Durability

With our all gear drive transmission and automotive style clutch, BCS machines are built to stand up to years of punishing use. In fact, we are so confident of BCS's reliability, all our machines are backed with a No-Time-Limit Warranty* on all gearbox components.

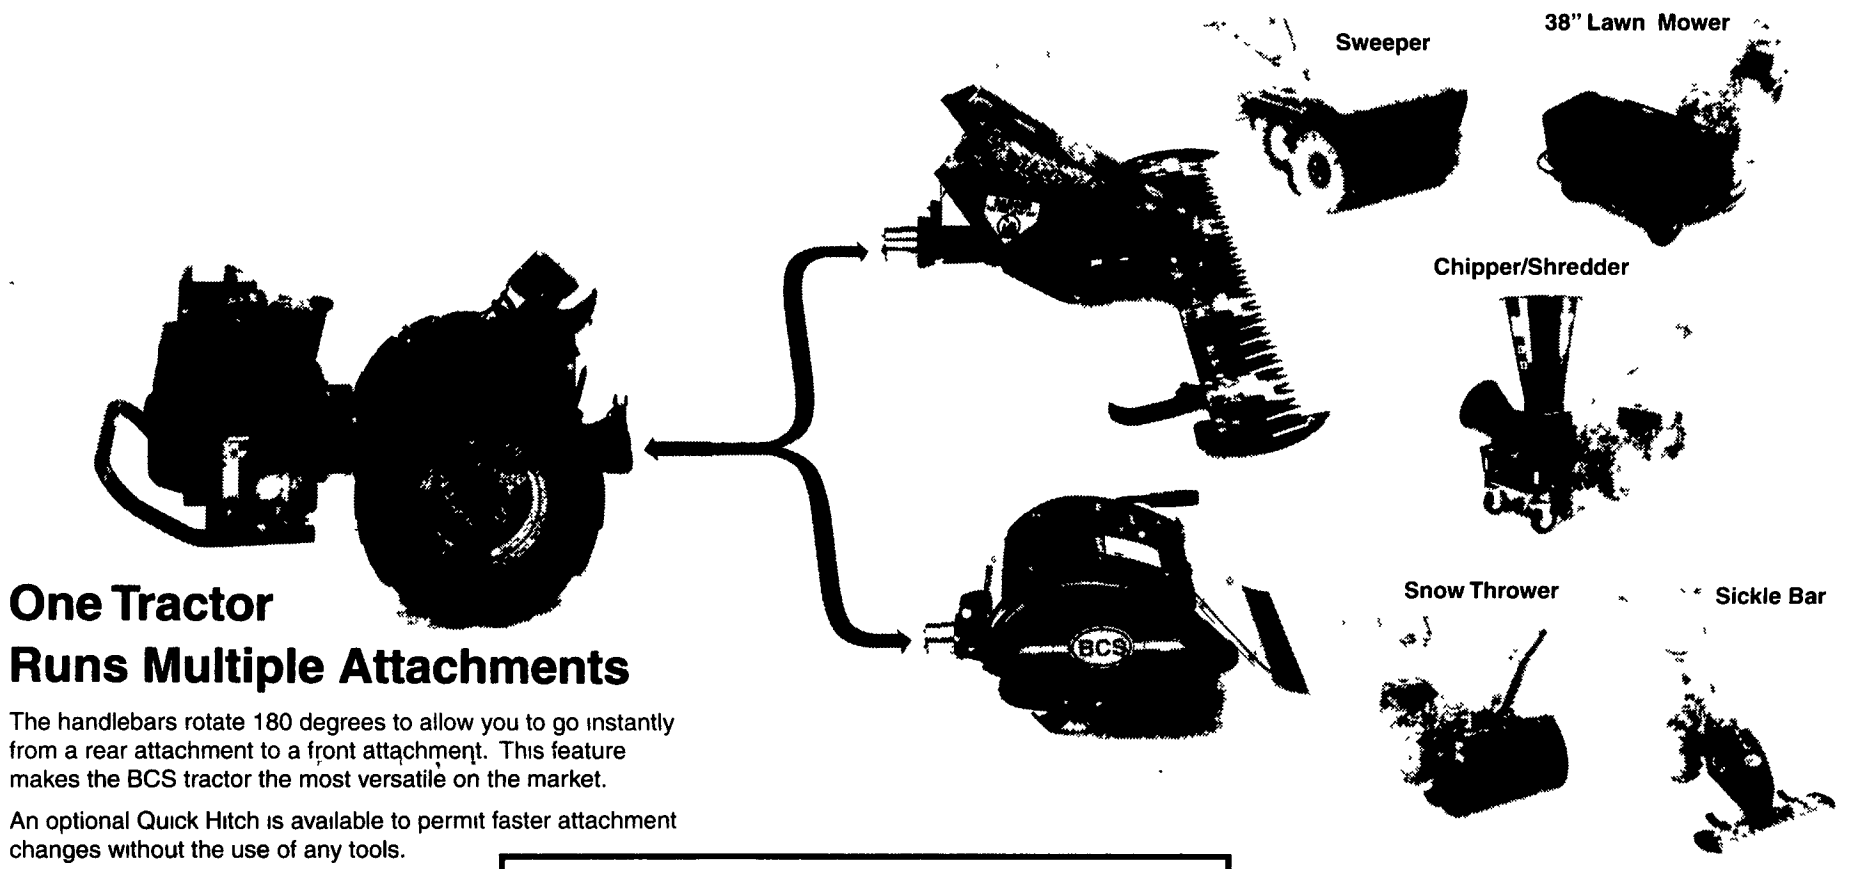
Performance

When comparing the gardening features on a BCS to any of the competition, it's clear that the benefits BCS offers you puts us a step ahead of everyone else. BCS will simply give you the best looking, most productive garden you can have.

Service After the Sale

If anything ever does happen to our machines, BCS has an extensive dealer network of "Gardening Experts' who can take care of your needs.

BCS takes great pride in the equipment we offer and we strongly urge you to compare us to any other tiller on the market. You will then find out why BCS really is "The Best Tiller On Earth."



One Tractor Runs Multiple Attachments

The handlebars rotate 180 degrees to allow you to go instantly from a rear attachment to a front attachment. This feature makes the BCS tractor the most versatile on the market.

An optional Quick Hitch is available to permit faster attachment changes without the use of any tools.

Melinda Erin Martin

Melinda Erin Martin, Conococheague FFA member, enjoys meeting "all of the new people that I see from across the state and country," she noted.

Melinda, 17, daughter of Marcus and Loretta Martin, Mercersburg, plans to attend college aand major in, she noted, "something related to agriculture."

Melinda has served as chapter chaplain, student adviser, secretary, and county FFA president. She is vice president.

Melinda has served on the community service and leadership committees. She completed dairy herd projects and received several awards, including the national ag sales team, national dairy judging team, and a gold medal in public speaking. She received the Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

Daniel McMichael

FFA membership has meant a lot to four-year Manor FFA member Daniel McMichael.

"I enjoy all the opportunities that come along," Daniel wrote. "For example, leadership in the FFA — you get the chance to take control and become someone that peple will look up to, believe in, and respect. As well as leadership, responsibility is another opportunity that comes along. Without both, you can't get far. But in the FFA, you get them and they can take you places."

Daniel, 17, is the son of Steve and Julie McMichael, Pequea. Daniel plans to attend either Bradley Academy for the Visual Arts or Steven's Trade, as well as starting up a breeding operation on the home farm.

Daniel has served as chapter chaplain and is Lancaster County sentinel. In addition, he has served on various committees, including Make-A-Wish, petting zoo, and awards night.

Daniel has completed a three-year market steer project, a two-year market lamb project, and completed work with Angora rabbits and capons. He received several awards, including specialty animal production, computers in ag, chain capon, chain lamb, showmanship, and champion rabbit.

Daniel received his Greenhand, chapter, and Red Rose degrees.

Andrew McMullen

Andrew McMullen enjoys the "forestry, wildlife, and other CDEs I get to participate in," he wrote. "It shows what I've learned."

Andrew, 17, is the son of Leonard and Susan McMullen, Morgantown. The four-year Twin Valley FFA member is chaplain. He plans to attend Penn State to major in forestry.

Andrew completed wildife conservation projects. In addition, he served on the following committees: third grade tour, Food For America, homecoming float, swim party, bulb sale, citrus sale, Ag Day Breakfast, FFA Week Cookout, Christmas tree recycling, and others. He competed in forestry contests, winning several first-place awards.

Jennifer McWilliams

FFA is enjoyable for the many ways to meet "new people, because it creates a ot of new friendships and lets me learn more about the lifestyles of other FFA members," wrote four-year West Snyder FFA member Jennifer McWilliams.

Jennifer, 17, is the daughter of Lester and Barb McWilliams, Beavertown. Jennifer plasn to become a dairy farmer.

Jennifer has served as chapter secretary,

Adam McAnlis

Four-year Mohawk FFA member Adam McAnlis enjoys the various FFA activities, "especially the contests," he wrote, "because you get to complete with and meet new people."

Adam, 17, son of Dale and Faith McAnlis, plans to attend the Pennsylvania College of Technology or work as a carpenter.

Adam has served as chapter chaplain and is vice president. He has served on the program of activities committee.

In addition, Adam has completed several projects, including market steer and on-farm work experience. He received an award in the state ag mechanics contest and in the Big E ag mechanics contest. He also received his Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Joshua P. McCleester

FFA is attractive to members such as Joshua P. McCleester because "I can be involved in competitions in subjects that interest me," he wrote.

Joshua, 17, is the son of Barbara and Glenn McCleester, Port Matilda. The Tyrone Area FFA member plans to attend college for forestry.

Joshua has served as chapter secretary. He has also served on the community service, SAE, and leadership committees. He completed projects in poultry, woodworking, gardening, lawn mowing, and wildlife conservation.

In addition, he received several awards, including the South Central Star in specialized agriculture and the second place state forestry team. He also received his Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Mike McClellan

FFA teaches you "how to cooperate with others," noted four-year Bellwood Antis FFA member Mike McClellan.

Mike, 17, son of Mike and Debbie McClellan, plans to "possibly go to technical school."

Mike has served on several committees, including leadership, recreation, community service, earnings and savings, scholarship, and public relations. In addition, he has completed home garden and work experience projects.

Mike received a gold and two silver for project books and a scholarship award in addition to his Greenhand and chapter degrees.

"FFA gives me the opportunity to associate with others with similar interests and to compete in contests where I can improve my skills," wrote four-year Meyersdale FFA member Philip W. Petenbrink.

Philip, 17, son of Wayne and Amy Petenbrink, Garrett, plans to help his father and grandfather manage "our family farm, where we milk 220 cows and farm approximately 1,200 acres."

Philip has served as chapter historian and is secretary. In addition, he has served on the fair booth and calendar ad sales committees.

He has completed dairy projects. Also, Philip has received a first place in the county in dairy judging, a first for tractor driving, and a dairy production award. He received the Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Kristen Pfeifer

Kristen Pfeifer, 17, daughter of Bernadette Pfeifer, Derry, enjoys the learning aspects and "the different people that you meet," she wrote, "because FFA teaches you more about yourself and the ability to cooperate with others."

(Turn to Page 29)

258 Keystone Degree Recipients

Kristen, four-year Derry FFA member, plans to attend Penn State Erie to major in veterinary science and to "play soccer."

Kristen has served as chapter reporter, treasurer, secretary, and is again treasurer. She has also served on the fundraiser and supervised ag occupation committees.

In addition, Kristen has completed projects in rabbits, steer, pigs, lambs, and goats. She won a first place in the county, second in the area, and third in the region for extemporaneous public speaking, and won a silver in practicum skills record book.

She received the Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Karl Pollock

The field trips to "places where I further my agricultural knowledge" are what four-year Marion Center FFA member Karl Pollack enjoys most about FFA.

Karl, 17, son of David and Carolyn Pollack, Marion Center, plans to attend college and major in animal science.

Karl has served as student adviser and news reporter. He also was a member of the Food For America committee.

In addition, Karl completed a dairy production project and received his Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Erin E. Price

Erin E. Price plans to obtain a degree in animal grooming and obedience and start her own business.

Erin, 18, daughter of Sharon and Bob Price, Linesville, enjoys FFA because the organization allows her to "go places and learn lots of things about agriculture, and all the fun we have."

Erin, four-year Linesville FFA member, served on the healthy lifestyles and support group committees. In addition, Erin has completed projects in rabbits, goat, child care, and greenhouse. She received the Star Rabbit Farmer honor and several grand champions with rabbits. She also received her Greenhand and chapter degrees.

John Prosser

The 18-year-old son of Jim and Marg Prosser, Gardners, John Prosser noted he enjoys meeting new people and making friends as a four-year Bermudian FFA member.

John plans to act as a professional hunting guide for a career, or become a welder.

John has served as student adviser. In addition, he served on the fundraising and banquet committees at Bermudian Springs.

John completed on- and off-farm work and received his Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

Robbie W. Reisinger

Oh, those blue and gold jackets.

"I enjoy the freedom and respect you get when you put on the blue and gold jacket," noted four-year West Perry FFA member Robbie W. Reisinger.

Robbie, 17, son of Grady L. and Ruth A. Reisinger, Loysville, also noted that FFA is important to him because of the people he meets all over the country.

Robbie has served as chapter parliamentarian and reporter, and is vice president. In addition, he has served on several committees, including summer trip, calendar, citrus, activities, and Greenhand.

SAE projects include calf, alfalfa, and corn for four years. He has won awards in dairy, forestry, landscaping, forage, and grain, and received degrees in Greenhand, chapter, Star Greenhand, and area. He plans to co-own and operate the family farm.

Joie Rehkamp

Joie Rehkamp, four-year Greenwood FFA member, enjoys FFA "because it has helped me with my organizational and speaking skills," she wrote.

Joie, 17, is the daughter of Joe and Kerry Rehkamp, Millerstown. Joie plans to attend a four-year university and major in criminal justice.

Joie has served on the fruit sale committee as chair and on the community service committee. In addition, she has completed projects, including taking care of horses from 1997-1999, as ice cream dipper in 1999, and concession stand worker at the pool in 1998. She received a gold award in the project book contest in 1999 and placed in the speaking contest in 1998.

She received her Greenhand, chapter, and area degrees.

Autumn Zimmerman Reichard

"I enjoy being in FFA because I get to work with animals," wrote four-year Conococheague FFA member Autumn Zimmerman Reichard. "I also learn very much about the animals through contests I participate in."

Autumn, 18, daughter of Gary and Sandra Zimmerman, Mercersburg, plans to attend Penn State to major in dairy science.

Autumn has served the past three years as chapter sentinel. In addition, she has served on the SAE committee, community service, and recreational/social committees.

Autumn completed a dairy herd project and received several awards, including a first place on the dairy judging team in the Eastern States competition, second place at the Ohio Spring Show on the dairy judging team, and fifth place at the All-American Invitational Dairy Judging Contest. She was a member since 1997 of the first place team at the Penn State spring judging event.

Autumn has received the Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

Barbara L. Reichard

Barbara L. Reichard wrote, "I enjoy all the things I do in FFA, but most of all the experience of meeting so many people and all of the memories."

Barbara, 18, daughter of Jesse and Tonya Reichard, Waynesboro, is a four-year Blue Ridge FFA member. Barbara plans to attend college for radiology or take over the family farm.

Barbara has served as junior vice president, treasurer, president, and is chapter secretary. She has served on several committees, including banquet, donkey basketball, parade, fruit sale, and planning.

In addition, she has completed dairy heifer, dairy herd, and dairy cow projects, was 1998-1999 FFA Member of the Year, and received her Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Tony Lee Resh

Four-year Dover FFA member Tony Lee Resh noted that meeting new people and traveling, and the public speaking contests, are his favorites. "But I really like meeting new people, because friendships are forever, and you can never have too many friends," he wrote. "Thank you, FFA!"

Tony, 17, son of Tracy and Tammy Resh, Dover, plans to run for state office, then go to Penn State to obtain a degree in agriculture education. He wants to become an agriculture teacher.

Tony has served as assistant treasurer, treasurer, vice president, and president. In addition, he served on the banquet, parade, and pig roast committees.

Tony has completed on-farm work experience and in swine production. He received the swine proficiency award, extemporaneous public speaking honor, a third place in the state aquatic resources competition, and on state FFA chorus. He received the Star Greenhand, chapter, and Star Chapter Farmer honors.

Pamela Jane Ribblet

FFA leadership conferences and fairs are "great experiences" for FFA members, noted four-year Derry FFA member Pamela Jane Ribblet. "I meet people from all over the state who turn out to be friends for life."

Pamela, 17, daughter of Harry E. Ribblet Jr. and Jane Ann (Waldron) Ribblet, plans to run for state FFA office and attend school for agriculture education.

Pamela, who served as chapter reporter and is secretary, has also served on several committees, including community service, recreation, and SAE. She completed projects with beef, swine, lamb, and goats.

Pamela received the Westmoreland Farm Credit Record Book Award and High Sales Award. She received her Greenhand, Star Greenhand, and chapter honors.

Michelle E. Risser

"I enjoy the endless opportunities the FFA has to offer," noted three-year Northern Lebanon FFA member Michelle E. Risser. She enjoys the state and national conventions. "I acquired many leadership skills. Another thing I love are the places we go and the people we meet."

Michelle, 17, daughter of Richard and Elizabeth Risser, Lebanon, plans to attend Penn State to major in forest technology. "Eventually I want to work for the National Park Service," she wrote.

Michelle served as chapter chaplain, assistant chaplain, and is chapter secretary and county treasurer. In addition, she served as chair of the leadership and scholarship committees.

Michelle has completed market sheep and off-farm work experience. She received several awards, including the market sheep proficiency, a gold for talent at the summer conference, and a gold as a member of the first place team for parliamentary procedure.

She also received her Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

Roger Ritter

Although plans for Roger Ritter, Apple City FFA member, are undecided, Roger noted, he has completed various SAE projects.

Roger, 18, is the son of Lee and Doris Ritter, Aspers.

He has received his Greenhand, chapter, and Apple degrees.

Jeff Robbins

What Jeff Robbins enjoys most about FFA is the "50 field trips annually," he noted.

Jeff, 18, is the son of Randy and JoAnne Robbins, Bloomsburg. Jeff, four-year Central Columbia FFA member, plans to join the Marines after graduation.

Jeff has served as chapter sentinel and is parliamentarian. In addition, he has served on the Bloomsburg Fair and the Ag in the Classroom committees.

He completed projects in ag employment, received the chapter leadership award, and the Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Joe Rolinski

Joe Rolinski enjoys FFA because you learn "about things you like," he wrote.

Joe, 18, son of Cindy and Clay Rolinski, Stevens, is unsure about his plans.

Joe, four-year Cloister FFA member, was public relations chair for two years. He raised pheasants for his SAE project and received a proficiency award for raising game birds. He received his Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Travis Russell

Assistant officer of the Central Cove FFA, Travis Russell plans to attend Penn State Altoona to study ag business.

Travis, who enjoys the community service projects in FFA, has served on several committees, including cooperation, executive, and fruit. He is the son of Chuck and Kaye Russell, Roaring Spring.

Travis was part of various activities and won several awards in Food For America, state activities week (land judging), state legislative leadership conference, and received various project book awards. He was involved in Farm Safety Day, freshman scholarship award, received a second place in county land judging, and participated in the national convention.

Travis completed off-farm work at Mellott's Greenhouse and completed a capon production project.

Jeremy Sarver

Getting to know the other members of FFA — that's what four-year Greenwood FFA member Jeremy Sarver enjoys most about membership.

Jeremy, 18, son of Larry and Marie Sarver, Millerstown, plans to attend college in the field of wildlife management.

Jeremy has served on the fruit sale committee. In addition, he has completed employment projects on the home farm. He received the Greenhand, chapter, and area degrees.

Amanda R. Sauder

Amanda R. Sauder makes it clear why she enjoys FFA:

"I enjoy going places, such as the Washington Leadership Conference, state conferences, SLLC, and Kentucky," she wrote. "I enjoy meeting people from other chapters, and I like participating in our chapter activities, especially our officer retreats."

Amanda, 18, daughter of Randall and Linda Sauder, East Earl, plans to play field hockey in college or enroll in a business school.

The four-year Grassland FFA member has served as ninth grade chairperson, secretary, vice president, and is chapter historian. In addition, she has served as chair of the environmental committee and chair of both the student division and leadership cooperation.

Amanda has completed projects in pleasure horse and two years of work experience at the East Earl Goodwill Store. She received several awards, including Star Greenhand, Star Chapter, and equine proficiency. She also received her Greenhand, chapter, and Red Rose degrees.

Justin Sauder

Justin Sauder, four-year Grassland FFA member, noted that he enjoys the time "we spend on dairy-related issues and mechanical subjects," he wrote. "I also enjoy the contests and conferences that we attend."

Justin, 17, son of Bruce and Wanda Sauder, East Earl, plans to become a diesel mechanic or a dairy farmer.

Justin has served as ninth grasde secretary, second chaplain, and second sentinel. He also partcipated in several events, including dairy judging, the PCC at Shippensburg University, the county leadership conference, county trap shoot, and tractor driving contest.

Justin has served on the healthy lifestyles commitee and completed work experience on the Harry Becker farm and on the Weaver Homestead farm. He received a dairy proficiency award and the Greenhand, chapter, and Red Rose degrees.

Jessica L. Schmidt

Jessica L. Schmidt wrote, "Through the FFA I have met a lot of friends and influential people. I have learned a lot of information which will be useful in the future."

Jessica, 17, daughter of Peter and Laurie Schmidt, Drumore, noted that she enjoys "working with people and teaching younger kids about the FFA and informing the public about my FFA project."

A four-year Solanco FFA member, Jessica plans to attend college to major in ag business/animal science.

Jessica has served as chapter secretary and vice president. She served on several committees, including recruitment, scholarship, financial, and citizenship.

In addition, Jessica has completed a wide variety of projects, including lamb finishing, sheep breeding, beef breeding, and swine finishing. She served as a member of the first-place Pennsylvania FFA livestock judging team and student of the year in agriculture. She also won several proficiency awards in diversified livestock, swine, a silver in the state record book contest, and a gold in the record book contest.

Jessica received the Greenhand, chapter, and Red Rose degrees.

Andrew Seymore

Future plans for four-year Bermudian Springs FFA member Andrew Seymore include furthering his education in automotive technology.

Andrew, 17, son of Lois and Wayne Seymore, York Springs, noted that through FFA, he enjoys meeting people, leadership activities, and "helping other people."

Andrew has served as chapter treasurer and is president. Additionally, he has served on several committees, including banquet, social, fundraiser, and dance. He completed two years of a beef production project and one year of on-farm work experience.

Andrew has received a beef proficiency award and the Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

Justin Shaw

Four-year Bellwood Antis FFA member Justin Shaw enjoys "the opportunities that you have to look forward to and all the rewards you can win and the people you can meet," he wrote, as an FFA member.

Justin, 18, son of Dennis and Arlene Shaw, Tyrone, plans to receive "American Degree, stay in work force."

Justin, chapter vice president, has served on a variety of committees, including cooperation, state and national activities, alumni relations, recreation, community service, and earnings and savings. He completed home improvement and work experience projects.

Justin received three golds and one silver in the state record keeping contest, and other awards. He received the Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Deanna T. Shindel

Deanna T. Shindel, four-year Northern Lebanon FFA member, recalls the leadership abilities she's acquired as an FFA'er. Throughout those years, "I've become a much more social and outgoing person, willing to try new things."

Deanna, 18, daughter of Randy and Denise Brightbill, Annville, plans to run for state FFA office and attend paramedic school.

Deanna has served as chapter secretary and president since 1998. She has served on the recreation and earnings, savings, and investments committees and was chair of the public relations committee. She completed projects in pleasure horse, rabbit production, and work experience.

Deanna, who received the Star Chapter Farmer in 1997-1999, received the Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

Jason Shirk

Four-year Cedar Crest FFA member Jason Shirk plans to attend a two-year school with an "undecided" major.

Jason, 18, son of Thomas and Dawn Arnold, Lebanon, has served as chapter assistant secretary and treasurer. He is chapter vice president and county reporter.

Jason has received a variety of achievement honors, including a first place in the state record book contest in 1998, a first in the state livestock judging contest in 1998, on the first-place small gas engines team in 1999, and the first place trivia quiz team at the Lebanon-Dauphin Co-op Day in 1997.

Jason has served on many commitees, including supervised farming (chair), leadership, finance/economics (chair), SAE (chair), and ag career skills. SAE projects include swine production, Arnold's Hog Farm, and Mark C. Hershey Farms, Inc.

He received the Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

Erica Jean Shollenberger

What Erica Jean Shollenberger enjoys most about FFA is "mingling with others and meeting new people, because they usually become friends," she wrote.

Erica, 17, daughter of Arlan and Corinna Shollenberger, Womelsdorf, plans to attend Penn State Berks Campus for ag business.

Erica is Tulpehocken FFA historian. In

CORN TALK

Corn Talk, Lancaster Farming, Saturday, October 9, 1999

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

PARADISE (Lancaster Co.) — Sometimes corn has a lot more uses than you can imagine.

You know the standard uses — corn flakes, beverage sweetener, alternative combustion fuel, and others.

But there are more uses than you might have read about — and that includes, of all things, entertainment farming.

Why not make a show out of the front five acres? That's exactly what Cherry-Crest Farm, operated by Jack and Donna Coleman in Paradise, did. This year marked the fourth time in a row that the Coleman's put up the "World's Largest Attended Maze," in which every year a new "theme" for the corn maze is selected.

The maze, taking up five acres, was planted in the shape of the Keystone State itself, complete with the four cities making up the corners (Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Erie, and Scranton-Wilkes Barre). In the center is the shape of the Liberty Bell, along with ribbons along the corn row "paths" of the maze painted a different color to represent a section of the maze (yellow for the Liberty Bell, green for the state outline, red the Paradise Star, and white the stars of the major cities).

The "Land of Liberty" theme proved especially attractive for area tourists. Each day during the season the maze averaged about 1,200-1,500 visitors. Last year about 50,000 visitors showed up to tour the maze, in the shape of Noah's Ark. The first year the maze was laid out in the shape of a locomotive and the second year, a horse and buggy.

At the top of the maze, north of the "gameboard," was an America flag made up of 14,000 petunias. According to Coleman, the one-third acre flag was planted the third week of May this year, contracted with Good Harvest, Strasburg.

The corn maze itself, which opened July 2, was planted with Pioneer 32K62, a Bt hybrid, full season variety. The corn was planted May 5 in 30 inch rows. The maze theme outline was gridded out and, when the corn was less than eight inches tall, a crew worked a hoe to shape. A few aerial photographs were taken before the final shape could be finished.

The drought emergency this year had an effect on some of the tourists, but luckily, according to Coleman, enough rain had fallen. In mid-July, two irrigations were needed to keep the corn stalks from turning brown and brittle.

The maze employs about 15, mostly youth, from around the region. The Colemans also care for 60 cows on their dairy, in addition to 50,000 broilers under contract with Tyson.

The maze is open Sept. 3 through Sept. 18 Friday and

The maze included an extensive petting zoo, mini-mazes, hay rides, food, refreshments, gift shop, and weekly special events. This year the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association and Penn State Extension Service also had a corn products stand at the maze. AN END TO A VERY LONG YEAR

I'm sure the 1999 growing season had as many days and hours as previous seasons but for many of us it sure seemed like a longer than normal year.

For many Mother Nature threw a few curveballs that resulted in some dreadful corn crops being produced around the state.

Fortunately, this kind of season is a rare occurrence that we hope does not reoccur for the remainder of your careers.

I thought I might be good to revisit a few of the issues we ran into this summer and addition, she has served on the alumni relations, recreation, and leadership committees. She completed projects in dairy, sheep, and job occupation.

In addition, Erica has received several awards, including chapter scholarship pin, dairy proficiency, diversified livestock proficiency, and a first place in dairy judging competition. She also received her Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Jonathan L. Shue

Friendships "last a lifetime" in FFA, noted four-year Hans Herr FFA member Jonathan L. Shue. And FFA includes "classes that will help our future."

Jonathan, 17, son of Ronald and Lois Shue, York, plans to work after high school.

Jonathan has served as chapter student adviser. In addition, he has served as chair of the citizenship committee and is on the ag awareness committee.

In addition, Jonathan has completed projects in crops (fruits and vegetable production) and received proficieny awards from 1996-1999. He received a silver for record book. He won an award for junior dairy management.

Jonathan has received the Greenhand, chapter, and Red Rose degrees.

Kara Shumaker

"I have really enjoyed my past four years in the FFA because I have learned more about myself," wrote four-year West Greene FFA member Kara Shumaker. "I have found out that I am able to work at a steady pace, meet new people, travel to new places, and push myself past the expected limits."

Kara, 18, daughter of Buck and Jean Shumaker, Rogersville, plans to attend Kansas State University and major in elementary education. After college, she noted, she would like to relocate to her home area and start work.

Kara has served as chapter Greenhand vice president, secretary, and is chapter vice president. In addition, she has served on the banquet, Farm Show, and citrus sale committees. She completed her SAE project in market lamb finishing and completed an agribusiness enterprise.

Kara has received the Star Agribusiness, junior public speaking, sheep showmanship, and sheep production honors. She received the Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Niccole Simes

"The many different things that we do," Niccole Simes noted, comprise her love of FFA.

Niccole, 17, daughter of Joseph and Victoria Simes, East Springfield, plans to "go to college and get a good education," she wrote. Niccole is a four-year Albion FFA member.

Niccole has served on several committees, including FFA Week, Farm Show, citrus, banquet, and bowling. In addition, she completed projects in wildlife, home improvement, and in small animal care.

Niccole received a high citrus sale award and an achievement award in specialty animal care. She also received her Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Kristen Sinniger

There are two major reasons why Kristen Sinniger enjoys FFA so much: meeting new people from other schools, she noted, and the fun "because there are many fun activities to go to."

Kristen, 18, daughter of Rodney Sinniger, Manheim, and four-year Manheim FFA member, is chapter reporter. She has been employed on Balmer Brothers Dairy and received her Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Melissa Smethers

"Relationships in the FFA are what mean the most to me," wrote four-year Bermudian Springs FFA member Melissa Smethers. "Friendships with advisers and peers have helped make me a better person."

Melissa, 18, daughter of Dave and Gail Smethers, East Berlin, plans to finish two years at Ricks College and transfer to obtain a dental hygiene degree. She plans a career as a dental hygienist and to become a wife and mother.

Melissa has served as chapter chaplain. In addition, she was a member of the banquet decorations and social committees.

She completed an SAE at the East Berlin Pharmacy. She received an award for home and farmstead improvement and the Greenhand, chapter, and county degrees.

Benjamin Smith

Four-year Chestnut Ridge FFA member Benjamin Smith enjoys the "focus on individual and team leadership," he wrote. "In life, if you can't do the job individually you can always ask for help, and that is what FFA stresses."

Benjamin, 17, son of Allen and Gwendolyn Smith, Bedford, plans to join the U.S. Air Force.

The four-year Chestnut Ridge FFA member has served as chapter sentinel and is student adviser. Additionally, he has served on the student development-SAE and chapter deelopment-recruitment committees.

Benjamin has completed projects in gamebird/pheasants and received the Star Chapter degree, and gold and silver honors in the state record book. He has received the Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Jeremy Smith

"The thing I most enjoy about FFA is the challenge it offers its members," according to four-year Spud Growers FFA member Jeremy Smith.

Jeremy, 17, son of Devonna Smith, Coudersport, plans to attend a four-year college majoring in geoscience.

Jeremy has served on a variety of committees, including program of activities, citrus sale, spring fling, FFA banquet, PALS, donkey basketball, Farm City, and conservation camp. He completed projects on a Christmas tree farm and maintenance.

Jeremy has received a foundation award, safety award, forestry award, and off-farm placement honors. He has also received the Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Jason Snyder

"I like FFA because of all the nice people, and because of the speaking skills that I have acquired," noted four-year Greenwood FFA member Jason Snyder.

Jason, 17, son of Chester M. Snyder Jr., Millerstown, plans to work for a couple of years after high school and "then start up my own dairy farm and milk," he wrote.

Jason has served as chapter secretary and president. In addition, he served as chair of the fruit sale and chair of the poinsettia sale. He completed employment on dairy farm, dairy heifer, and market goat projects.

In addition, Jason received a first place award for table top display. He received his Greenhand, chapter, and area degrees.

William Stahl

FFA allows members to "build projects," noted four-year Somerset FFA member William Stahl.

William, 17, son of David and Trish Stahl, Somerset, plans to become a farmer.

William has served on the landscape committee. He completed a haywagon project. In addition, he received his Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Jason Stark

Four-year Manor FFA member Jason Stark enjoys the teachers and the "hands-on experience," he wrote. "FFA is a great organization that teaches you about life and about your community."

Jason, 18, Holtwood, is the son of Ray Stark and Helen Dearolf. Jason plans to be involved in agriculture in some way.

Jason has served on various committees, including Make-A-Wish, Willow Valley petting zoo, and fruit sales. In addition, he exhibited market hogs for three years at the Lampeter Fair.

Jason received his Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Lisa Stauffer

Grassland FFA member Lisa Stauffer has compiled a long list of work experience, including the bakery at Shady Maple Supermarket, at Zinn's Diner as a hostess, and at Martin's Trailside Express as cashier and evening manager.

Lisa, 18, daughter of Ronald and Judi Stauffer, Stevens, has held a couple officer positions, including ninth grade class treasurer and second recording secretary. She has been a member of the earnings, savings, and investments committee and chair of the scholarship and citizenship committees. She received a scholarship award and the Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Heather Stevens

FFA is enjoyable, according to four-year New Oxford FFA member Heather Stevens, because of the "people that you meet, the places you go, and the lifetime skills that are learned."

Heather, 18, daughter of Richard and Deborah Stevens, Abbottstown, plans to graduate from Penn State with an associate's degree in agricultural business.

Heather has served as class rep, reporter, and vice president. In addition, she has served on the membership and executive committees.

Heather completed on-farm work and received several awards, including the John Kratzart and Charles A. Smith awards and a chapter scholarship honor. She received the Star Greenhand and Star Chapter Farmer.

Scott Stinson

Scott Stinson enjoys "all the trips and leadership activities we do" in FFA, he wrote. "Learning about the environment is also very important to me."

Scott, 17, son of Larry and Debbie Stinson, Seward, plans to attend Penn State for environmental resource management or environmental engineering.

Scott, four-year United FFA member, has served as chapter reporter and secretary. In addition, he has served on a variety of committees, including Adopt-A-Stream, tree planting, koi production, pheasants, and Food For America. He completed four years of a wildlife habitat improvement project.

Scott received a first-place award in the county aquatics contest for two years and received his Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Valerie Spangler

Valerie Spangler, four-year Mifflinburg FFA member, writes:

"I enjoy the opportunities that I have been given and I take advantage of all the new experiences that are offered."

Valerie, 17, daughter of Lee and Kathy Spangler, Mifflinburg, plans to run for state office after graduation and then attend Penn State to major in agriculture.

Valerie has served as chapter assistant chaplain and is chapter vice president and county vice president. In addition, she has been involved in several committees, including summer meetings, livestock, exhibits and demonstrations, nomination, executive, and points.

She participated in the National FFA Convention in Kansas City in 1998, Louisville in 1999, and the state nomination committee in 1999, as well as the Washington Leadership Conference.

Valerie completed several projects, including dairy heifer, on-farm work, and fresh-market produce. She received the Star Chapter Award, a first place in the state agronomy contest in 1998, and a gold in the state record keeping contest in 1997. She received her Greenhand, chapter, and SUN Area degrees.

Darren Summy

Darren Summy enjoys FFA because it allows members to go on trips. Those and the state and national conventions "were a good time," he wrote. "I had the chance to meet many new people."

Darren, 18, son of Glenn and Martha Summy, Ephrata, plans to become a truck driver and/or diesel mechanic.

The four-year Cloister FFA member has served as chapter junior chaplain, student adviser, and vice president. In addition, he has served on the environmental, financial, banquet, Louisville trip, and banquet committees.

Darren completed projects in capons, layers, and work. He received poultry and fruit and vegetable production proficiency awards.

Darren received the Greenhand, chapter, and Star Red Rose honors.

Ingrid Sumpter

Ingrid Sumpter, four-year W.B. Saul FFA member, enjoys the fact that "FFA offers so many programs and activities that keep you busy," she wrote. In FFA, you can "meet new people and learn leadership skills."

Ingrid, 17, daughter of Earnest and Angela Sumpter, Philadelphia, plans to major in animal science in college to become a laboratory researcher.

Ingrid was chapter delegate in 1996 and 1998. In addition, she is treasurer of the National Honor Society and class of 2000.

Ingrid completed an FMC Internship-Environmental Research USDA program. She received outstanding achievement in floriculture and aquaculture awards. She received the Greenhand and chapter degrees.

Andrew Weyand

The 18-year-old son of Ray and Michele Weyand, Friedens, Andrew Weyand noted that he enjoys "working with my hands," and FFA offers just that: hands-on experience.

Andrew plans to go to college.

The three-year Somerset FFA member has completed projects in tractors, haywagons, and stacking lumber.

Jennifer Marie Whitman

"The thing I enjoy most about FFA is the family atmosphere," wrote four-year Cumberland FFA member Jennifer Marie Whitman. "We are all like a big family, no matter where you go or who you meet. Also, the FFA has taught me a lot. It has made me a better person by teaching me responsibility and how to keep my priorities straight."

Jennifer, 17, daughter of Paula and Michael Whitman, Carlisle, noted that the "FFA has given me opportunities that no other organization could have offered. I have the opportunity to travel and see great places and meet great people. I can learn leadership and career development as well as earn a scholarship. The FFA is a world of open doors."

Jennifer plans to "graduate high school and go as far in the FFA as my ability will take me," she wrote. Afterward, she wants to join a branch of the military and further her education. Jennifer hopes to have a family and own her own farm, and to have a steady job which will "help support my family and myself."

Jennifer has served as Cumberland Valley FFA sentinel and is vice president. In addition, she has served on a variety of committees, including fruit sale, ham and cheese sandwich, BOAC, parliamentary procedure, tractor driving, Ag Olympics, banquet, and membership. As officer, Jennifer is actively involved with all the committees. "I try to help where it is needed and encourage others to help also," she noted.

Jennifer wrote that in 1999, she and a group of other members were involved in the National Chapter Award Committee and applied for the award. "We did very well and this year, at National FFA Convention, we received our National Chapter Award on stage."

Jennifer has completed several SAE projects, including beef finishing in her sophomore year, beef and sheep finishing her junior year, and sheep, swine, and goat finishing in her senior year. She received a Star Greenhand Award and was a regional proficiency winner in beef production in 1998. She also received many chapter proficiency awards in 1998, such as beef production and extemporaneous speaking. In 1999 Jennifer received chapter proficiency awards in nursery operations, conservation public speaking, sheep production, outdoor recreation, and beef production.

Jennifer received her Greenhand, chapter, and area degrees.

Kelly Wilson

The best part of FFA, wrote four-year W.B. Saul FFA member Kelly Wilson, are the conferences. "They're enjoyable, educational, and sociable, all at the same time," she wrote.

Kelly, 17, daughter of James and Margaret Wilson, Philadelphia, plans to major in horticulture at Penn State or Temple University.

Kelly has served as chapter freshman sentinel and 10th, 11th, and 12th grade vice president. She also completed projects in landscape, nursery, and floriculture.

UD Freshman Wins National FFA Award

NEWARK, Del. – James Baxter, an engineering technology major at the University of Delaware, has won second place in the FFA's National Career Development Event in Louisville, Ky.

Baxter's award, which he shared with Asher McClung, a freshman at Delaware Technical Community College in Georgetown, was in recognition for his work in developing corn ethanol as an alternative to gasoline.

Baxter said he has been interested in this topic since he was in the 9th grade at Sussex Central High School, where teacher Robert Lawson served as his FFA adviser.

I've been researching alternative fuels for a long time," said Baxter. "Two years ago I got to the state competition with this. I didn't win first place, however, so I was allowed to do it again."

This time Baxter partnered with McClung. Together, they polished up their act, winning first at the state level, which launched the pair into the national competition.

Baxter said he grew up on a farm in Georgetown that has been in the family for four generations. His family farms 2,000 acres of land and grows 400,000 broilers a year

Deciding to go to UD was easy, said Baxter.

"I looked around at other schools, but my family all attended UD, so I decided to come here too," he said. Baxter noted that his grandfather James Baxter, mom and dad - Suzanne Marvel and James Baxter - and his Uncle Bill Baxter all hail from UD, as does sister Kristy, '98, an agricultural soil science major, and Katy, '95, an agricultural business major.

Baxter expects to continue working with corn ethanol as a replacement for gasoline and said Dr. James Glancey, associate professor of bioresources engineering, has been giving him suggestions. Baxter hopes to perfect the process so he can actually run an engine with it one day.

Baxter's long-term goals? That's easy, too.

"I hope to go back to my family farm to carry on with the fifth generation, God willing."

PA Beef Council Sports New Look At The 2000 Pennsylvania Farm Show

For the past 84 years, thousands of consumers have made their way to the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg for the annual Pennsylvania Farm Show. This January, the Pennsylvania Beef Council will represent cattle producers with an exhibit displaying their promotional and educational efforts towards the beef industry.

The new exhibit will contain billboards portraying programs and promotions in which the PA Beef council has performed throughout the year, as well as, beef and veal facts. Free beef and veal recipes will be distributed to anyone visiting the exhibit and other merchandise such as hats, license plates, and cookbooks will be available to purchase.

The Beef Council is also coordinating the meat display in the Farm Show's Food Pantry exhibit area. This display will consist of beef, veal, pork, and lamb products set up in refrigerated cases. This gives an opportunity for Pennsylvania processors to show off their products processed in PA and introduce these products to the consumers in attendance. Some of these products will be prepared by chefs and culinary students from the Lancaster County Career & Technology Center throughout the week.

Winning Recipe At The 1999 National Beef Cook-Off® Calls Attention To Today's Preferences For Tasty, Quick 'n' Easy Meals

Gloria Bradley of Naperville, IL, took top honors at the 23rd National Beef Cook-Off® held in Omaha, NE on September 25. A panel of leading food professionals chose her recipe, Fiesta Roast Beef with Tropical Fruit Relish" for its great taste and simplicity.

Bradley won $40,000 and the title of "Best Beef." In her island-style recipe, orange juice and peel, spicy brown mustard, hot pepper sauce, green bell pepper and tropical fruit salad are combined into a fruit relish to serve with a heat-and-serve roast beef tri-tip.

"This recipe showcases how a fully-cooked, heat-and-serve beef product can be used to create a delicious beef meal that easily can be prepared and on the dinner table in minutes," said Marilyn Weber, chairperson of the American National Cattle Women, Inc.'s National Beef Cook-Off Committee "Americans love beef, and this recipe is perfect for quick, family dinners for weeknights."

The quick and easy recipe impressed the judges who said it offered a unique blend of flavors and had family appeal too. This year's judging panel included prestigious food professionals led by Head Judge Nancy Byal, Executive Food Editor, Better Homes and Gardens. "We liked the simplicity of the recipe and the fruit combination," said Byal. "The fresh relish with the roast beef had a fresh taste and wide family appeal."

Sixteen finalists competed in two categories, eight each in "Ground Beef" and "Prepared Beef." The winning recipes, "Fiesta Roast Beef with Tropical Fruit Relish" and Caesar Salad Beef Burgers with Garlic Crostini," were judged against each other before "Fiesta Roast Beef with Tropical Fruit Relish" was named "Best of Beef." Each category winner received $10,000 with an additional $30,000 grand-prize awarded to Bradley.

Jason Boulanger, a graduate student majoring in wildlife biology, was the winner of the "Ground Beef" category. He hails from Williston, VT, and attends South Dakota State University.

The 16 finalist recipes are showcased in a new "National Beef Cook-Off® 1999 Prize Winning Recipes" brochure. To receive a free copy of the brochure, please call 1-800-848-9088, or write: Prize Winning Recipes '99, ANCW, PO BOX 3881, ENGLEWOOD, CO 80155.

This project was funded by beef producers through their $1-per-head checkoff and was produced for the Cattlemen's Beef Board and state beef councils by the American National Cattle Women, Inc., and the National Cattlemen's Beef Association. The Nebraska and Iowa Cattle Women hosted this year's event.

The next National Beef Cook-Off will take place in 2001 in Tucson, AZ. For rules, visit www.beef.org or write to: National Beef Cook-Off Rules, Dept. 01, PO Box 3881, Englewood, CO 80155

Beef Council, Philadelphia Media Congratulate The Montgomery Grill At Beef Backer Night

Thirty members of the Philadelphia and national media congratulated the 1999 Pennsylvania Beef Council Beef Backer, The Montgomery Grill, Bala Cynwyd, PA, at festivities held November 16. Food editors from the Philadelphia Inquirer, Bon Appetite magazine, Main Line Today magazine and The Server - PA Foodservice News, were just a few guests who came to The Montgomery Grill to taste the best beef in the greater Philadelphia area and celebrate the restaurant's victory.

Guests dined on a 7-course beef and veal dinner, featuring the accompaniments of Pennsylvania. Ashley Foods and Indian Ridge Provisions donated the meat for the evening. Highlights of the meal included short ribs of beef with an apple cider-merlot sauce; grilled tenderloin of veal, served with a demi-glaze and Kennett Square mushrooms; flat iron steak with white truffle essence and Lancaster County potato spring roll & a trio of steak; filet mignon, sirloin strip and delmonico steak. Commented one restaurant critic in attendance, "It was one of the most elegant dining experiences I've had in quite some time." At "Beef Night," Carrie Bomgardner, Pennsylvania Beef Council promotions director, also presented Adam Simon, Montgomery Grill proprietor, with the traveling Beef Backer trophy. Simon proudly accepted the honor and told the crowd, Beef is back - we're excited that a steakhouse like ours can be filled to capacity any night of the week, with patrons dining on filet mignon or prime rib."

Scholarships Through PCA

Three deserving students will have the opportunity to earn a scholarship this spring through the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association and sponsoring animal health companies. The $1000 and two $500 scholarships will be awarded to students planning to further their education and plan a career in some facet of the beef, dairy, and/or veal industries. Current involvement in the industry, among other requirements, will be beneficial in applying for these scholarships. Winners will be awarded their scholarships at the annual Pennsylvania Cattlemen's banquet held on March 30 at the 2000 Beef Expo in State College, PA.

More information and scholarship applications will be available at the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's booth at this year's Pennsylvania Farm Show or by contacting Jason McCorkle at the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association office at (717) 986-0333.

York Co. Correspondent

FAWN GROVE (York Co.) — "The cows are my thing," smiles Susan Richardson, a young and dedicated York County dairy promoter.

And not just any cows, mind you. What this 17-year-old high school junior loves best in the bovine world are those Scottish-sourced cows, the Ayrshires.

In fact, Susan is so enthused about the spotted, red and white dairy cows that she has spent many days traveling the country, mostly at her own expense, promoting the breed as the National Ayrshire Princess. Susan won the breed promotion crown in July, the youngest of the five contestants, during the first-ever combined Ayrshire and Brown Swiss national conventions hosted in Maryland.

Winning the national princess honors at such a young age is just the latest achievement in a long string of accomplishments by this talented and well-spoken young dairy woman.

The daughter of Ruth and Charles Richardson, Susan began working with the family's Fawn Valley dairy cows almost as soon as she could walk. Along with her two younger sisters, Barbara, 15, and Tracy, 13, Susan lends a hand daily with farm chores, alternating evening milkings and tending to the young stock.

"I've been going to the barn since almost as soon as I was out of a car seat," she jokes, remembering her early affinity for helping with the barn chores. "My dad used to turn a bucket upside down so I could stand on it to put milkers on the cows."

But it was when she was about age 10 that Susan took a major step into dairy activities, joining one of York County's 4-H dairy clubs. For her project that rookie year, she exhibited a Holstein calf.

"I met some people at county roundup that first year who got me interested in Ayrshires," she relates. "I helped them and they introduced me to a lot of other people. But it took about two years until I was able to get my own Ayrshire calf."

Actually, it was two calves that Susan acquired. They came from the Lancaster County herd of Rob and Bonnie Wentworth, Quarryville. Along with Susan's family, the Wentworths have been very encouraging and supportive of Susan's rapid development into a dairy and Ayrshire youth achiever.

"My first Ayrshires were a March calf and a summer calf. They were the junior and reserve junior breed champions at the York Fair that year," Susan recalls fondly. The champion, Wentworth Farm Heidi-Ho, is now a 3-year-old and stands undefeated after three years at the 4-H state show competition. Her daughter, "Harmony," is Susan's first bred and owned animal and took junior champion breed honors at the junior district show this past August.

Heidi-Ho will be a headliner of the 11-head showstring that the Richardson sisters will be exhibiting at the 2000 Pennsylvania Farm Show. Plus, Susan plans to show a Limousin heifer, one of her numerous FFA projects, and Barbara is grooming her two Percherons for draft horse driving competition. In addition to showing her animals, Susan anticipates taking part in related Ayrshire-organization events, including a state breed meeting and showring awards presentations.

Susan's activities as a promoter of her favorite breed of cows began in 1998, when she was selected the Pennsylvania Ayrshire Princess. She competed for the state honor at the Wentworths' urging, promptly winning the opportunity to represent the state at various national shows and dairy-related events.

"But I wasn't old enough until this year to compete for the national honor and did it only for the experience. I had absolutely no expectations of winning, but just wanted the experience and the opportunity to meet some more people in the Ayrshire business," adds Susan.

Nevertheless, this poised York Country dairy woman emerged from the application/essay, interview and impromptu question judging with the national crown, banner and a schedule of events that has kept her on a tight schedule. Susan was barely back to her Kennard-Dale school and FFA chapter president responsibilities when the fall show season got under way. Almost back to back, she participated in the state junior show, Harrisburg All-American, Madison World Dairy Expo, and North American Livestock Expo in Louisville.

It was during the World Dairy Expo, though, that Susan's dairy skills were put to the greatest test. She was able to travel and work the Madison Expo with the showstrings of noted area cattle breeders and veteran showmen Dale Bendig and Ernie Keuffner, whose entries were housed in the primarily Canadian cattle barn.

"I had the chance to work with some of the most influential people in the breed," she says of the learning opportunity. "Madison is a tremendous show, and the quality of the cattle is so exciting to watch."

Along with representing the Ayrshire breed and awarding prizes, Susan entered the World Dairy Expo's popular junior showmanship/fitting competition. It was an awe-inspiring event for her, with 113 U.S. and Canadian youth in the opening lineups.

"It was a little different than showing the way I learned. At Madison, the judges wanted you to walk backwards," she explains. Susan adapted quickly and, when that field was narrowed to 10 finalists, she was one of the three young women chosen in the 10 to participate in a fitting runoff.

Ten heifers, washed and partially clipped, were tied around a large cattle trailer parked mid-arena. Each participant had a half-hour to fit a topline.

"I was so nervous that I never quite got finished," remembers Susan. The winners were announced just prior to the grand-finale champion lineup and selection of the show's supreme titlist, in front of a packed arena of spectators. She placed third, earning a $50 cash prize and a medal presented much in the style of the international Olympics awards.

"The call I made home after it was all over was so neat. My family was really excited for me," she says with a broad smile. "Madison was a wonderful experience."

Susan had barely caught up on her schoolwork and farm chores when she and another favorite animal, "Yellow-Briar Ryan Ellie," packed up to join the Pennsylvania Ayrshire delegation to the Louisville, Ky., show in November. Ellie, a winter yearling, had earlier won junior champion honors in both the junior and state Ayrshire breed shows. Because of her ribbon-presentations responsibilities at Louisville, Susan asked a friend to handle showing Ellie in the open classes. The heifer placed third in the junior show and second in national open class competition.

Ayrshire Princess

"I'm not sure why I was originally so drawn to Ayrshires, but I was," Susan reflects. "Because we raise our calves, most of our cows are pretty tame by the time they come in the milking string.

"But Ayrshires can have an 'attitude' all their own," she adds of her favorite cattle, noting one particular cow in their herd that is tame and friendly one day, but can be difficult and standoffish the next.

Luckily for this young dairywoman, her cows have given her four heifers out of five births, helping to rapidly increase the size of her own growing herd of nine Ayrshires and six Holsteins.

With the most demanding part of her national princess responsibilities now fulfilled, Susan can focus on the Farm Show and on her extensive school and home activities. In addition to helping regularly with milking, Susan studies and selects many of the sires used in the family's herd. She hopes to take the A.I. training course sometime in the future, so that she can do the breeding of the Fawn Valley cattle.

Susan is president of the Kennard-Dale FFA chapter and carries an extensive portfolio of projects, including dairy, market swine, market sheep, beef breeding and eggs, as well as ag and related business courses. She has also become a very proficient junior dairy judge, participating in both team and individual judging, and hopes to further hone her skills at the collegiate level. Potential colleges on her list for consideration include Delaware Valley, Penn State, and Cornell.

Long-term goal for this progressive young woman is to find a niche in the genetics industry, possibly with one of the A.I. organizations in the areas of marketing, in breed classification, or membership.

Though Susan Richardson's abilities promise her many options and opportunities to grow in the dairy industry, one thing is almost certain: there will be a special place in her heart for the Ayrshire breed of cows.

Meat Goat Home Study Course

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) – Penn State Cooperative Extension in Bedford and Fulton counties will be holding a Meat Goat Home Study Course, beginning in January, 2000. The purpose of the course is to teach producers about meat goat production

The course is conducted through the mail with weekly lessons which begin on January 19. The lesson topics include basic production information, nutrition, health, reproduction, marketing, and financial issues. Each lesson has information about the topic and a worksheet for producers to complete and mail back to the Extension Office for comments. Producers can also submit any question which they would like answered.

Melanie Barkley, Bedford County extension agent, said "The course is a great way for producers to learn new information without having to rearrange their schedule to accommodate a meeting." Producers can study the lessons at their leisure in their own home.

For more information you can contact the Penn State Cooperative Extension Office in Bedford County at (814) 623-4800 or in Fulton County at (717) 485-4111. Cost for the course is $15.

Increasingly frequent reports point to the fact that – like so many things – using your brain keeps it growing, replacing worn-out cells, and functioning better.

Or, as some wise sage has proclaimed, when you stop learning, you're dead.

New and interesting "stuff" through most of our lives on a regular basis in this Information Age. Some of it is useful and uplifting to the ongoing learning process. On the other hand, some of it's frustrating and irritating.

For instance, thanks to a chance encounter with an old friend at a local post office, I recently learned that sending square greeting cards will cost you more postage.

Say what, you say? Sending square-shaped holiday greeting cards became less of a square deal for some folks who discovered recently that they owed 11 cents on every square-shaped greeting card. Some of the cards went back to the sender marked "insufficient postage." In other cases, recipients received "postage due" greetings. This, despite the fact that their over-all square inches were less or equal to that of a normal, business-sized envelope, according to one of our local postal employees. And they were considerably under the size of the large, manila mailing envelopes which we regularly send out from here with a single first-class stamp.

A trio of us discussing this in the post office's lobby came to a prompt and unanimous assessment of this policy. Stupid. Makes one consider a postal "tax" revolt, like throwing tea in Boston Harbor.

Or, just e-mail your greetings next year.

On the other hand, something else I learned recently makes perfectly reasonable common sense.

I learned – firsthand – that one cannot open the doors in the back seat of a police car. And I learned this during my first – and hopefully, only! – ride in one.

We had taken the pickup to the hunting camp and were enroute west on Interstate 80 when The Farmer spotted what looked like smoke rolling out of the exhaust. Within minutes, the heat gauge had zoomed to the danger level and steam poured out from under the hood when he lifted it. While he was attempting to tape a tiny, hard-to-reach hose so we could limp to the next exit, a state trooper making a timely patrol of that stretch of highway stopped to see if we needed help.

What we really needed was water to replace what had pressure-blasted the dripping wet engine. Thus, with a couple of small plastic buckets in tow (which had held birdseed for the feeders just hours before), I was hauled a couple of miles to the Bellefonte exit of I-80 perched on the backseat of a state police car. When I tried to hop out, it was then I realized there are no door handles on the inside of the back of a police car.

Makes sense to me, considering that many folks who ride there would rather be anywhere else.

The service state owner cheerfully pointed me toward a water faucet and within minutes we were back at the truck, full buckets in hand. Those couple gallons of water allowed us to drive to the exit, where the same station – incredibly – just happened to have the exact small hose on hand which we needed. In about an hour, the new hose was in place, water level filled to normal and antifreeze replenished.

We returned to the highway with renewed appreciation for the Pennsylvania State Police and extreme gratitude that there are still "service" stations out there, not just places to fuel up.

And, finally, thanks to a couple of our very knowledgeable and helpful readers, we now have the answer for our grandson as to how the Pennsylvania Turnpike came to be called that. Seems that when early, improved, toll roads were built by private enterprise outfits, they fitted the entrances with a pipe, which was also called a "pike." The "pike" was kept across the road until the toll was paid, then it was turned aside, allowing entrance to the roadway. Thus, to enter those early, improved toll roads, one had to pay to turn the pike.

File that one away for the next time your kids or grandkids switch from demanding "Are we soon there"? to quizzing you on why the highway you're traveling is called the "Turnpike."

As we continue to be enlightened on a daily basis on such varied and informative data, it makes one feel like they should really do something bigger and better with all this knowledge. Like maybe apply to be a contestant on that popular "want to be a millionaire" television quiz show.

Do they have category questions on farming?

Dairy Recipes Wanted For New Brochure

PHILADELPHIA (Philadelphia Co.) — The American Dairy Association/Dairy Council Middle Atlantic is looking for dairy farm families to submit recipes for a new brochure. The brochure will be used by dairy promoters at local dairy promotions as a sampling of local dairy favorites.

The recipes can be in any category and should include at least two dairy ingredients. Entries will be judged on the following attributes -- easy to make, broad appeal, easy-to-access ingredients, and nutritionally sound.

The final selections to feature in the brochure will be judged by a panel of nutritionists from ADA/DC. Winners will be awarded 'got milk?' prizes and will have their recipes featured in the new brochure.

To enter the contest, send your recipes, along with your name, address, and the number of cows on your farm, to:

Beef Revives Tired Menus And Bodies

Always feel tired at the end of the day?

Perhaps it's time to jump-start your meals with ZIP — Zinc, Iron, and Protein, that is.

These three essential nutrients give energy to get you through the day and help your body function properly.

One of the most concentrated sources of ZIP is beef.

In addition to tasting great, beef is a nutrition powerhouse that loaded with B-vitamins, zinc, iron, and protein.

Zinc boosts your immune system, which keeps you running strong, by reducing your susceptibility to colds, flu, and infection.

Iron give you energy. Your body needs iron to carry oxygen to cells and to fuel your muscles. Adults who don't get enough iron may tire esily and feel weak—two common symptoms of iron deficiency.

Protein gives you stamina by building and maintaining strong muscles. You need a constant supply of protein to repair body cells and regulate body processes. And protein can also act as an alternate, supplying energy when you're low on carbohydrates and fat.

Beef is considered a complete protein because it contains all the essential amino acids your body needs. Beef also contains iron that your body absorbs more easily than iron from plant sources.

A common misconception is that beef is high in fat, yet today's beef has less fat than ever before. In addition to raising leaner animals, beef sold in supermarkets have 27 percent less trimmable fat than in previous decades.

More than 10 years of research confirm lean beef is interchangeable with lean chicken and fish with regard to its influence on blood cholesterol levels.

The leanest cuts of red meat have loin or round in the name such as round tip, sirloin, and tenderloin.

While beef is often a menu favorite, the drawback is that many beef recipes take longer to cook. To help with hectic time restraints, you can now buy fully-cooked heat-and-serve beef products. These products taste great just heated and served according to package directions, but they, along with the deli beef, can also be the jump-start many other delicious, fast beef dishes.

For example, prepare heat-and-serve beef pot roast according to package directions or shred and make into Beef and Black Bean Burritos.

Another method to save time with beef preparation is to prepare a larger amount needed for the meal and save the leftovers and broth to make beef burgandy or beef stir fry. Meatballs is another item that can easily be prepared ahead of time and frozen for use on days when your dinner preparation time is limited.

Try these beef favorites from the Pennsylvania Beef Council and the National Cattlemen's Beef Association.

STUFFED PEPPERS

4 medium green, red or yellow bell peppers

Filling:

1 pound lean ground beef
¾ cup chopped onion
¼ cup uncooked white rice
3 tablespoons ketchup
½ teaspoon dried oregano leaves

Sauce:

14½-ounce can Italian-style stewed tomatoes, undrained
1 tablespoon ketchup
½ teaspoon dried oregano leaves

Heat oven to 350 degree oven. Cut tops off bell peppers; remove seeds. In large bowl, combine filling ingredients, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper, mixing lightly but thoroughly. Spoon equal amount of filling into each pepper. Place in 8x8-inch baking dish.

Combine sauce ingredients; pour over peppers. Cover dish tightly with foil. Bake 1½ hours. 4 servings.

CANNED CHILI

5 pounds ground beef
2 cups chopped onions
1 clove garlic, minced
6 cups cooked or canned tomatoes and juice
½ cup chili powder
1½ tablespoons salt
1 hot red pepper, finely chopped
1 teaspoon cumin seed

Brown meat, add onions and garlic and cook slowly until tender. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 20 minutes. If meat is fat, skim off excess before canning. Pour hot into hot jars, leaving about one-inch headspace.

Adjust caps. Process pints one hour and 15 minutes; quarts 1½ hours at 10 pounds pressure.

Yields about 3 quarts.

To serve: add cooked or canned pinto or kidney beans, heat and serve.

CRESCENT-TOPPED BEEF POT PIE

1 boneless beef top sirloin steak, ¾-inch (approximately 1 pound)
Vegetable cooking spray
16-ounces frozen potato, green bean, onion and red pepper mixture
½ teaspoon dried thyme leaves
12-ounce jar mushroom gravy
8-ounce can refrigerated crescent dinner rolls

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Cut beef steak lengthwise into 2 or 3 strips and then crosswise into ½-inch thick slices. Spray 10-inch ovenproof skillet with cooking spray; heat over medium-high heat until hot. Add beef (half at a time) and stir-fry one minute. Remove from skillet; season with ¼ teaspoon pepper.

In same skillet, combine vegetables, 2 tablespoons water and thyme; cook and stir 3 minutes or until vegetables are defrosted. Stir in gravy; bring to a boil. Remove from heat; return beef.

Separate rolls into 8 triangels; starting at wide ends, roll up halfway. Arrange rolls on beef mixture with pointed ends directed toward center. Bake 17 to 19 minutes or until rolls are golden brown. 4 servings.

COLORFUL MEXICAN CARNE

1 package fully-cooked boneless beef pot roast with gravy
16-ounce jar taco sauce
15-ounce can red kidney beans, drained
1½ cups forzen mixed red, yellow, and green bell pepper strips, defrosted
4 to 6 packaged tortilla bowls
½ cup chopped fresh cilantro

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Remove beef pot roast from package; set aside. Measure ¾ cup gravy and place in Dutch oven; discard any remaining gravy or reserve for other use. Stir in taco sauce; bring to a boil. Reduce heat to medium-high; cook, uncovered, 5 minutes or until liquid is thickened.

Meanwhile cut pot roast into ½-inch pieces. Add beef, beans, and bell peppers to Dutch oven. Cook over medium heat 2 to 3 minutes or until heated through, stirring occasionally.

Meanwhile place tortilla bowls on baking sheet. Bake in 350 degree oven 3 minutes or until heated through. Add chopped cilantro to beef mixture; spoon into tortilla bowls. Garnish with cilantro sprigs, if desired. Serve immediately.

BEST BEEF ROAST

4-5 pounds beef roast
1 can cream of mushroom soup
¾ can water
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup vinegar
1 medium onion
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon mustard
1 teaspoon Worchestershire sauce

Mix and pour on roast. Bake at 350 degrees for 3 to 4 hours.

At the supermarket, Beef checkoff dollars are helping introduce new heat 'n serve main courses using chuck and round cuts, which are fully cooked and ready to serve in less than 10 minutes.

These new products appeal to about 40 percent of Americans who choose dinners based on ease of preparation. Best of all, they taste great just heated and served according to package directions, but they can also be used to jump-start many other delicious, fast beef dishes.

Here is a recipe using the new heat and serve beef pot roast. For more great beef recipes, contact the Pennsylvania Beef Council at (717) 939-7000 or 1500 Fulling Mill Rd., Middletown, PA 17057.

QUICK BEEF BURGUNDY

Transfer liquid from one package (1¾ to 2½-pounds) heat-and-serve beef pot roast into Dutch oven. Add one pound small mushrooms, 2 small onions cut into wedges, ⅔ cup red wine and ¾ teaspoon marjoram leaves to liquid in pan.

Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, 7 to 8 minutes until vegetables are almost tender; stir occasionally. Cut pot roast into 1-inch pieces; add to pan. Bring to a boil; cook 2 to 3 minutes until beef is heated through. Stir in 1 tablespoon cornstarch dissolved in 3 tablespoons water. Bring to a boil; cook and stir until thickened. Serve over noodles. Makes 4 servings.

Healthy Indoor Air

Healthy indoor air is not a luxury, it is a necessity for optimum health and well being for you and your family. Air quality, especially during the winter months when windows and doors are closed and a variety of combustion devices are in operation, can be dangerous. One of the silent culprits is carbon monixide.

Carbon monoxide is an odorless, colorless gas that can be fatal when breathed. It's sometimes difficult to determine if carbon monoxide is the culprit, because its symptoms are similar to flu and allergies. Low levels can cause nausea, dizziness, weakness, and muscle ache. Higher doses can impair judgment, cause paralysis or coma, and death.

Carbon monoxide buildup can occur several ways: when flues or chimneys become blocked so exhaust cannot be vented to the outside or when a fuel-burning furnace has a cracked or rusted heat exchanger, allowing combustion gases into the living space. Also when fuel-burning space heaters, ovens, ranges or grills are operated in the home without adequate ventilation; when car exhaust from an attached garage enters the home, when combustion equipment is not working properly and causes incomplete combustion, and when there's a negative pressure balance between the inside and outside of the home, preventing adequate venting of combustion gases.

Harmful build-ups of these gases occur when: exhaust from combustion equipment is not vented to the outside of the home, and when combustion equipment is not in good working order and is not regularly inspected for safe operation.

Some homes may have a problem with "backdrafting." That's when the air pressure inside the home is less than the air pressure outside, causing combustion by-products from furnaces, water heaters, fireplaces and similar equipment to spill back into the room rather than being vented outside. Backdrafting can also occur when natural draft appliance exhaust is pulled back into the house by mechanical ventilation — like a down-draft kitchen power vent.

There are carbon monoxide detectors you can install, which will alert you to dangerous levels of carbon monoxide. It is important to choose and place a detector wisely and maintain it to assure accurate sensing of carbon monoxide.

Carbon monoxide may be the problem if you feel bad only when you're inside the home and the symptoms gradually disappear after you have left, or if more than one person in the home has similar symptoms. Remember carbon monoxide related symptoms are similar to those of the flu.

The most important practice is to keep all combustion equipment well-maintained and inspected for safety. Experts recommend having your combustion heating systems inspected by a trained professional every year. Such inspections should look for blocked openings to flues and chimneys, cracked or disconnected flue pipe; signs of soot around openings in your furnace or boiler; rust or cracks in the heat exchange; soot or creosote build-up, and exhaust or gas odors. Always operate combustion equipment for its intended purpose and make sure it has been installed corrently. Never use unvented combustion appliances indoors.

The time to take action is now.

ANSWER — Here are some recipes from Bob Rumer, Jenkintown.

Pineapple Pie

14-ounce sweetened condensed milk
½ cup lemon juice
20-ounce crushed pineapple, drained
8-ounces frozen whipped topping, thawed
1 large graham cracker crust

Combine condensed milk and lemon juice. Stir well. Fold in pineapple and whipped topping. Spoon mix into crust and chill before serving.

Carrot Pie

1 cream cheese pie pastry made with the following:
3-ounces cream cheese
½ cup butter
2 tablespoons milk
2 cups plus 2 tablespoons flour

Beat cheese and butter until blended, beat in milk, add flour in thirds, mixing well, form into ball and chill for one hour. Combine the following filling ingredients in a mixing bowl, and beat until smooth.

1½ cups mashed cooked carrots
3 large eggs
1½ cups light cream
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon salt
Grated rind of 1 small orange
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves

Pour filling into pie crust and bake until a knife inserted in center comes out clean, about one hour.

Cool pie on wire rack and chill before serving.

Orange glaze:

Melt ½ cup fine-cut Seville orange marmalade in a small heavy saucepan over low heat. Spread marmalade over the surface of cooled pie and allow to cool before chilling the pie.

ANSWER — Eva Marie Poliquin, Alburtis, wanted recipes to can spaghetti with meatballs, sausage, meats, soups, and chili. Thanks to an anonymous reader for sending several recipes.

Canned Sausage

Fresh sausage, raw or lightly browned
Pack into jars, leaving one-inch headspace

Gravy may be added; however, enough fat for gravy will cook out the sausage during processing. Adjust caps. Process pints 75 minutes or quarts 90 minutes at 10 pounds pressure.

Canned Meatballs

15 pounds ground beef
6 to 8 tablespoons salt
4 cups oatmeal or cracker crumbs
1 teaspoon pepper
1 small onion, chopped
2 cups tomato juice
¾ teaspoon liquid smoke per quart

Mix together ingredients. Roll into balls of desired size. Put into jars and fill with broth. Process 1½ hours at 10 pounds pressure.

Broth can be made by adding 1 teaspoon instant beef bouillon to 8-ounces boiling water.

Country Vegetable Soup

3 cups beef stock
3 cups peeled, cored, chopped tomatoes
2 cups peeled, cubed potatoes, about 2 medium
2 cups sliced carrots
2 cups corn
1 cup chopped onion
½ cup diced celery

Combine all ingredients in a large saucepan. Boil 5 minutes. Pour hot into hot jars, leaving 1-inch headspace. Remove air bubbles with non-metallic spoon or spatula. Adjust caps. Process 55 minutes at 10 pounds pressure. Yield: about 6 pints.

Beef Revives

TANGY-SWEET MEATBALLS

2 pounds ground beef, made into bite-size balls
1 cup ginger ale
1 cup ketchup
4 tablespoons honey
4 tablespoons Worcestershire suace
4 tablespoons vinegar

Brown meatbals on cookie sheet at 350 degrees, shaking genly to cook all sides (20-30 minutes), and drain. Combine remaining ingredients in large saucepan. Place meatballs in sauce and simmer one hour. Serve warm with toothpicks as an appetizer. Bite-size hot dog pieces may also be placed into simmering sauce.

BEEF AND BLACK BEAN BURRITOS

Transfer liquid from 1 package (1¾ to 2½ -pounds heat and serve beef)

Heat and serve beef pot roast to medium saucepan. Cut pot roast crosswise into 4 pieces; shred with two forks. Add beef, ¾ cup canned black beans (rinsed and drained) and ½ cup prepared salsa to liquid in pan. Heat over medium heat until hot; stir occasionally. Place beef mixture in flour tortillas; add toppings,* as desired. Makes 8 servings.

Toppings: sour cream, shredded Co-Jack cheese, chopped cilantro sliced green onions, additional salsa.

15 MINUTE BEEF BARBEQUE

1 pound round tip steak, cut ⅛ - to ¼ -inch thick
2 teaspoons vegetable oil
1 medium onion, cut into thin wedges
¾ cup prepared barbecue sauce
4 split crusty rolls

Stack beef steaks; cut lengthwise in half and then crosswise into 1-inch wide strips. Set aside.

In large nonstick skillet, heat oil over medium-high heat until hot. Add onion; cook and stir 3 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove from skillet; keep warm.

In same skillet, add ground beef (half at a time) and stir-fry one minute or until outside surface is no longer pink (do not overcook). Stir in onion and barbecue sauce; heat through, stirring occasionally.

Spoon equal amount of beef mixture on bottom half of each roll; close with top half of roll.

Makes 4 servings.

CHEESE STEAK PIZZA

1 pound ground beef
1 small onion, thinly sliced, separated into rings
1 small green or red bell pepper, cut into strips
16-ounce Italian breed shell (about 12-inches in diameter)
2 cups shredded mozzarella cheese

Heat oven to 400 degrees. In large skillet, brown beef over medium heat 6 minutes. Add bell pepper and onion; cook 3 to 4 minutes or until beef is no longer pink and vegetables are crisp-tender. Season with ¾ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon pepper.

Place bread shell on baking sheet. Remove beef and vegetables from skillet with slotted spoon; arrange on top of bread shell. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in 400 degree oven 8 to 10 minutes or until cheese is melted; cut into 8 wedges.

Makes 4 servings.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Sue Slimmer, Myersville, Md., wanted a bread recipe that uses a lot of grain. She'd also like to know of cookbooks featuring bread. A reader recommended "Simply Good Things," 137 E. Wick Ct., Beavercreek, OH 45440 or call (937) 429-2483 for a free price list. Thanks to an anonymous reader for sending a recipe.

Multi-grain Bread

1 cup water
1 cup yogurt or buttermilk
¼ cup oil
½ cup oatmeal
⅓ cup wheat germ
⅓ cup wheat bran

Mix above ingredients. Heat to boiling. Set aside until cooled to very warm (125-130-degrees) about 30 minutes.

In a large bowl, combine:
1 cup flour
¼ cup honey
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons yeast
2 eggs

Stir in bran mixture, then add 4 to 4½ -cups flour (part whole wheat). Knead on lightly floured surface until smooth and elastic (6-8 minutes). Dough should be slightly sticky for best bread.

Cover. Let rise until double in size. Shape into loaves and let rise again.

Before baking, brush tops of loaves with a brush wet with water and sprinkle loaves with a mixture of oatmeal, wheat bran, and wheat germ (optional).

Bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes and then 350 degrees for 15-20 minutes.

This recipe can also be made into rolls.

Shoo Fly Contest Returns For Second Year

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Attention, bakers!

Enter Pennsylvania's Greatest Shoo Fly Contest for the chance to win $500 for the best pie, $100 for second place, or $50 for third place.

The contest will be conducted at the Pennsylvania Farm Show on Sunday, Jan. 9, at 3 p.m. Pre-registration is encouraged but not required. Pies must be entered between noon and 2 p.m. on the second floor of the northeast building.

Contest sponsor Golden Barrel Baking Products requires that the pie ingredients must contain either Golden Barrel molasses or table syrup. Pie must be presented for judging in 9-inch pie plate and be covered to retain freshness and to prevent contamination.

A clearly printed or typed recipe listing ingredients and preparation instructions must accompany each entry.

Judging will be based on overall appearance, crust (color, flavor, texture, and doneness), aroma, filling (consistency, moistness, doneness, and flavor) and creativity. No commercial mixes are allowed.

The contest is open to any youth or adult residing in Pennsylvania. Each individual is permitted one entry, which only that individual prepared.

Raisin Whole Wheat Loaf

½ cup honey
¼ cup brown sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 packages dry yeast
3 cups warm water
5 cups whole wheat flour
3 to 4 cups all-purpose flour
¾ cup shelled sunflower seeds
2 cups raisins

In large mixer bowl, combine honey, brown sugar, and salt. Dissolve yeast in warm water and add to honey mixture. By hand or at low speed of electric mixer, beat until well-blended. Gradually add the whole wheat flour, beating at medium speed and scraping sides of bowl occasionally. Stir in enough all-purpose flour (approximately 3 cups) to make a medium-firm dough. Turn out onto floured board; knead in sunflower seeds and raisins. Continue to knead, adding additional flour as needed, until dough is smooth and elastic. Place in deep, greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover: let rise in warm place until doubled in size, about 1½ hours.

Punch down dough. Turn out onto floured board and form into two loaves. Place in greased 9x5-inch loaf pans. Cover: let rise in warm place until doubled in size, about one hour. Bake at 350 degrees about 50 minutes or until nicely browned. Remove from pans; brush tops with butter. Cool on wire rack. Makes two loaves.

Hesston Balers — Model 4755

The new Hesston® 4755 creates a half-ton bale that's perfect for either transporting or feeding to your own stock

Wet or dry?

The 4755 easily handles both In fact, you can bale high-moisture crops and seal in high feed values without any equipment modifications

Plus, an optional bale ejector and roller chute let you discharge the last bale at the end of each day

But the secret to our big bale success is in the charge chamber.

Hay enters the charge chamber, where it's held until it reaches a preset density

Get your three squares a day... and then some.

Only then is it fed, triggered by a sensor, into the bale chamber for final compression

Unmatched consistency.

Since one charge makes one flake, you get unmatched bale consistency regardless of the crop or ground speed

That's the Hesston difference, and it's backed by 20 years of field experience

Stop by today and check out the 4755 and its new labor-saving 4720 Bale Accumulator

Nine-Year-Old Prepares Millennium For Farm Show

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford/Juanita Co.
Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — She's only a fraction of the size of the black Limousin she will be showing at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, but Shannon Braman will give it her best.

At nine years old, Shannon, a fourth grader at Bedford Elementary, began showing steers at the Bedford Fair in August. She placed third and fourth in her class and won the fitting contest for her age. A few months later she showed at the Keystone competition.

The daughter of Tom and Karen Braman of Bedford, Shannon became the proud owner of her Farm Show steer, Millennium, on April 25. The animal was purchased from Dave Miller of Bedford. Millennium is out of Stormy, who was sired by Chief. Millennium now weighs in at 1,100 pounds.

"I've learned a lot," says Shannon of her steer experience. "Already I have learned how to groom, wash, and set up Millennium." She's had some expert teachers including her dad, Dave Miller, and veteran showman, Ed Wolfhope.

A member of the Dutch Corner Livestock 4-H Club, Shannon says 4-H has also helped her to learn a lot about raising show animals.

Shannon is looking forward to Christmas vacation when she will have time to work with Millennium even more. "I get off school from December 24 through January 2 and then have three more days before going to the Farm Show," she says.

The Farm Show adventure will be a first for the Braman family. Shannon is especially looking forward to staying in a motel — she is happy to be the first one in her family to exhibit at Farm Show. Her two sisters, Cassie, 6, and Shania, 3, will not be joining her this year.

In the spring, she is looking forward to another 4-H project. Her dad has promised to buy her some baby pigs.

The Bramman family lives on a dairy farm and milks more than 120 Holsteins. They raise all of their own animal feed.

Shannon Braman works at getting Millennium ready for the Pennsylvania Farm Show. She is the daughter of Tom and Karen Braman and lives south of Bedford.

With one pet from Shannon, Millennium warms up to the fitting experience.

How is maple candy made?
The sugary, natural treats all start as maple tree sap People collect sap — a clear liquid that's in the wood — during late winter and early spring You first need to boil sap to remove some water and change the sap into syrup (It takes 43 gallons of sap to make one gallon of maple syrup!)
For maple candies, you just need to cook the syrup a little bit longer The basic process is simple — heat the syrup, then cool it The key to making different kinds of candies, though, depends on how fast you heat the syrup, the temperature you heat it to, how fast you cool it, and whether you stir it as it cools or let it stand still
For example, to make granulated maple sugar, you heat maple syrup 40 to 45 degrees Fahrenheit above the boiling point of water, immediately pour the syrup into a flat pan, and stir the mixture until the syrup turns into granules (Knowing the temperature water boils at is important, because the altitude and weather conditions, like high humidity, can change the exact figure)
To make molded, soft sugar candy you only heat the maple syrup to 32 to 34 F above the boiling point of water, then you pour it into a flat pan and allow it to cool — undisturbed — to between 160 and 200 F Once it s cooled, you stir the syrup until it has the feel of soft plastic Then, you pour it into molds to cool completely
Ask an adult to help you try out these different kitchen chemistry tricks Just remember that different temperatures and actions, like stirring, create different chemical reactions — and a different tasty treat for you!

Poster Contest Awards

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On behalf of Gov. Tom Ridge, Lt. Gov. Mark Schweiker announced that 26 elementary and secondary school students from across the Commonwealth submitted winning entries in the "Recycle Pennsylvania!" poster contest.

The Pennsylvania Department of Education (PDE) and Environment Protection (DEP) sponsored the annual competition.

"These students demonstrated their incredible talents and imagination in making posters that inform and educate us about the importance of recycling," Lt. Gov. Schweiker said. "They all were very creative with their entries."

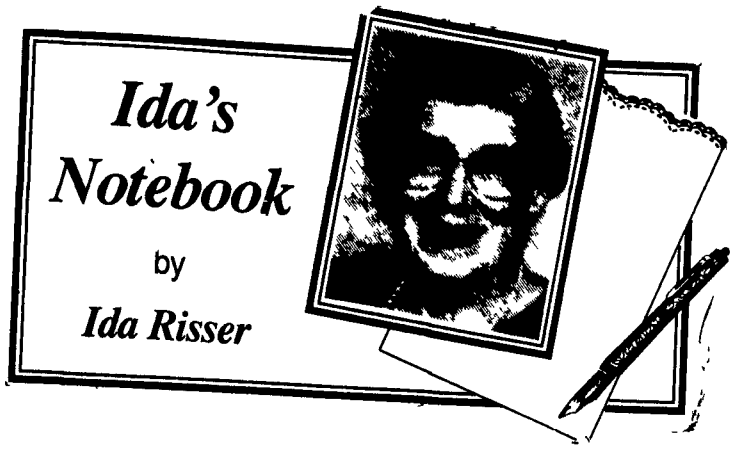
"Through their participation in recycling activities in their schools and communities, students can and will play a big part in helping us to achieve our new statewide recycling goal of 35 percent by 2003," Lt. Gov. Schweiker said. "These posters provide inspiring messages to other students to recycle every day."

Color calendars produced from the posters will be distributed to school districts, local governments, state parks, environmental centers and natural resources organizations throughout the state.

The winning posters were selected from more than 6,000 entries submitted by Pennsylvania students in grades one to 12. First-place winners received a $500 savings bond, and second-place winners received a $200 savings bond.

In addition, their teachers received a $200 savings bond for first-place winners and a $100 savings bond for second-place winners.

Carson Beyl's poster was selected from more than 6,000 entries. From left are Eric Thumma, DEP; Denise Chamberlain, DEP; Carson Beyl, Heather Sciortino, teacher; and Thomas Carey, PDE.



One never knows what the next year will bring, but we can always hope for the best.

Our family never celebrated New Year's Day. It was a day off from school and often it was butchering day on our farm. It was not even a day when we had to have pork and sauerkraut as we do now.

I reread some of my diaries and often we helped our father to chase his steers to the Conestoga River to get water when the cistern was empty. Other times we helped to strip tobacco on another farm that we owned.'

In the evenings we visited relatives that lived nearby. Most all of our relatives lived nearby. Today they are really scattered over the country.

When I worked in Lancaster, New Year's Day was a day to stay home and bake for my mother and really clean my bedroom. Depending on the weather, I sometimes would go fishing in our meadow.

Some years started out badly as one year my sister was deathly ill and died. On a better year, I was tending my first baby, a three-week-old little girl. As our family grew we had children at home on January first to help their father at the barn. Our girls loved to bake and in my diary one year I wrote that, "Nancy used 20 cups of flour today." But, we had plenty of people to eat the baked goods.

This year when my sisters were at our home over the Christmas season, I gave them packs of letters that they wrote to me 30 or 40 years ago. Later I got phone calls saying that they stayed up late to read them. It was as though they had kept a diary too.

Sample And Purchase Maple Syrup At Farm Show

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

COLUMBIA CROSS ROADS (Bradford Co.) — As you wander through the maple exhibit at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, you're not far from the place where some of nature's sweet syrup can be purchased or sampled.In fact, some people make it a point to visit the exhibit every year to stock up on the thick, rich substance.

The Pennsylvania Maple Syrup Council has been sponsoring a booth at the Pennsylvania Farm Show since 1966, according to Lawrence and Genevieve Roloson, who have made the January jaunt to work in the booth every year since then.

"At a meeting, (the Pennsylvania Maple Syrup Council) decided that they would like to promote the industry and they thought a good way to do it was to get into a farm show, so they rented space and each of the five associations was to furnish a quantity of maple product," noted Roloson.

For the first 20 years, the council actively handed out samples of maple cream. Lately, because of manpower shortages, the council does not actively offer samples, although if you ask at the booth, representatives will be glad to let you have a taste.

"As part of our promotion, and to try to get people to try something different, we give out maple cream or maple butter samples. That's nothing but maple syrup that has been boiled a little longer. You can use it on toast like a spread. We would give samples of this on a stick and people would ask, 'What is this, face cream? or What do we do with this?' It's amazing to watch them taste it. Some of the people have never had it before. Once they've tasted it, they come back year after year for more," said Ada Hess, who with her husband Bob tap about 1,000 trees in Dimock, Susquehanna County. The Hess's have been making and selling maple syrup for 35 years.

"When we started farming, we got into it as a family project. It's still a family project," said Ada.

You can also have a taste of the maple products in the food court where volunteers dish up soft serve maple yogurt, maple sundaes, maple cotton candy, and maple-coated peanuts.

"For about the past 10 years, we've been running a booth at two spots, our regular one in the main exhibition building and the one at the food court," said Roloson.

The Roloson's home maple operation is also run by family members. They man their 3,500 taps and accept sap from other producers in the area. Then they set to work boiling the sap down until most of the water is evaporated and the syrup becomes just the right thickness. On average it takes about 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of maple syrup.

The taps go out about the 10th of February.

"When the snow starts to melt, it's time to tap the trees," said Roloson, who has been involved in his family's operation since he was two years old. He is now 79.

The same procedure is followed on the farm of Jim and Dora Tice in Mainesburg, Tioga County. Every spring, they put out about 3,000 taps.

"We bought a neighboring property from where I was born," said Jim Tice, "and we've been making syrup for about 20 years at the present location. Before that it was a home-use type of operation."

The Tice's especially enjoy making maple cotton candy, which they sell at fairs across the state as well as the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

"We sell quite a lot of cotton candy," noted Tice. "We give out samples everywhere we go and that really sells it. It's all natural. We take the maple crumb sugar made from dark amber syrup and blend it with white sugar. Then it's just a matter of pouring the mix into the machine. The machine melts it and spins it out as cotton candy."

One of the main promotion goals of the Pennsylvania Maple Syrup Council was to let Pennsylvania people know that Pennsylvania is a big maple syrup producer.

"We've had people come up to the booth and ask, 'Where in Vermont did you get your maple syrup?' or 'I didn't know that Pennsylvania produces maple syrup!'" said Roloson.

According to the most recent statistics from the National Agricultural Statistics Service, Pennsylvania ranks 7th with 67,000 gallons produced in 1999. By far, in the United States, Vermont is the biggest producer of syrup with 370,000 gallons produced in 1999. Other top states include New York, Maine, Ohio, Wisconsin, and Michigan.

Besides promotion, the various maple associations also work together to form grading standards for the syrup and to make sure that only pure maple syrup is labeled as such.

"When we say pure maple syrup," said Hess, "That's exactly what it is. There's nothing else in it."

Universities are also involved in ongoing research to develop the "sweetest trees" or the trees with the highest sugar content in their sap and to study the minerals naturally found in the syrup.

New technology is also being developed that takes some of the leg work out of the maple business. Lawrence Roloson's earliest memories of making maple syrup were of a big iron kettle hung outside over a stack of firewood.

"We would collect the sap in buckets and carry it to the kettles. Then, after it boiled down a little, we'd take it into the house to finish it," Roloson said.

Soon, more and more producers moved to a sugar house where the syrup could be boiled in long, shallow evaporating pans, although the sap was still largely collected in buckets. From there, producers started attaching plastic tubes to the spiles and collecting the sap in a central location. The pipeline, as it is called, saves a lot of time and effort.

Other technologies that are being developed is a process called reverse osmosis, where some of the water is taken out of the sap before it gets to the evaporator. Some producers also preheat their sap in coils that are placed over the boiling pan, saving time and energy.

After the sap is boiled down, it is canned and labeled and ready to sell.

In case you think maple syrup is just for pancakes, think again. All producers say that maple syrup, and maple crumb sugar, add flavor and sweetness to just about any dish from baked apples to baked beans to cookies. Genevieve Roloson is a big promoter of maple and has included two recipes for everyone to try.

MAPLE SYRUP COOKIES

1 cup maple syrup
1 egg
½ cup shortening
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped nut meats or chocolate chips.

Cream together maple syrup, egg and shortening, add dry ingredients, and mix well. Drop on cookie sheets and bake at 350 degrees for 10-12 minutes.

MAPLE OATMEAL BARS

½ cup softened shortening
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup maple syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
⅔ cup flour
⅔ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped walnuts
1 cup quick cooking oatmeal

Cream together shortening, sugar and egg, and blend in maple syrup and vanilla. Sift flour with baking soda and salt. Combine with nuts and oatmeal and add to batter. Place in a 9x9 inch greased baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Cut into bars when still warm. Makes about 12-16 bars.

Lawrence and Genevieve Roloson stand by a variety of containers that they use for maple syrup. The Rolosons have been involved with the booth at the Pennsylvania Farm Show from the start and will volunteer their time this year as well.

Since 1966, Pennsylvania Maple products have been represented at the Farm Show. Here Ada Hess and Lawrence Roloson man the booth with the help of two Maple Sweethearts.

Ag Scholarship Applicants Wanted

ST. LOUIS, Mo. – The Commitment to Agriculture scholarship program is seeking applicants for $1,500 scholarships to be awarded to 100 high school seniors planning to continue their education in agriculture.

The program, which is sponsored by the American Farm Bureau® Foundation for Agriculture and Monsanto Company, is for high school seniors from families actively engaged in production agriculture

Applicants must be planning to attend, beginning in the fall of 2000, an accredited vocational/technical institute, community college or four-year college or university that offers an academic major in a field related to agriculture. In addition, applicants must be planning a career in agriculture.

"Supporting education in agriculture is important to the future of American farming," said Marsha Purcell of the Foundation for Agriculture. "Tomorrow's agriculture leaders will be among the students helped with this program."

In its first year in 1999, the Commitment to Agriculture program awarded 50 scholarships to students in 28 states. The 2000 program was expanded to 100 scholarships for students in all 50 states.

The scholarship program is supported by royalties received from settlements involving piracy of patented biotech seed, including Roundup Ready® soybeans, cotton and canola, and Bollgard® cotton.

Successful applicants must exhibit a scholastic ability to succeed in a higher education setting and a strong interest in an agricultural career. The one-time scholarship awards are good for one year.

Scholarship applicants are available at Farm Bureau offices, agricultural supply retailers, on-line at www.agfoundation.org and www.farmsource.com or by calling 615-320-3149. The application deadline is Apr. 1, 2000. Applicants will be notified of scholarship results by May 15, 2000

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 18

Lancaster Farm Women Society 18 held its December meeting at the home of Mrs. Martin Swarr, Landisville.

The fine weather enabled 16 members and two guests to attend. Roll call was answered by members telling where they planned to spend Christmas. The program was in the capable hands of Vera Albert, a long-time knowledgeable source on herbs. Her subject, "Gold, Frankincense, and Myrrh," included herbal sources and usage ideas for culinary, cosmetic, and alternative medicinal healing. Her many items to show led to questions and answers as members wanted to learn more about herbs.

Program booklets for the year 2000 were distributed. President Martha Stoner led the business meeting. Maggie Carper led devotions. Members sang the birthday song to Ruth Landis, the theme son, and a Christmas carole.

Lancaster Society 14

Lancaster Farm Women Society 14 enjoyed its last meeting of the century with a dinner at Willow Valley Restaurant on Dec. 9. Members of the Clifford Mast family, ages 5, 8, and 12 with mother Shirley provided renditions of beautiful Christmas music featuring violins.

Carol Gockley, the proverbial "bird woman" presented a program on "Strictly for Birds." The dramatic and humorous talk revealed Carol's extensive knowledge on distinguishing features, habits, and songs of many birds. She brought part of her exotic collection of live birds to show how they can be trained with love and patience.

On Nov. 10, Janet Leaman's daughter, Lynette Jerchau, opened her home in East Petersburg for a meeting. Bags of non-perishable food were left on her porch to be given to Christ's Home, Paradise.

Surrounded by festive fall decorations made lunch a special experience. After a devotional reading on Psalm 19 by Jean Groff, President Polly Stoltzfus gave a report on the Nov. 4th visit to Conestoga View to play Bingo with patients and friends. The report on the County Convention on Nov. 6 at the Farm and Home Center was highlighted by music of "The Messiah Messengers. The theme, "Tea Cups from Here and There," featured stories by Beatrice Messner. Each of the cups she had with her reminded her of a story from the many countries to which she traveled. In addition to cups, Beatrice presented lots of information about teas. The story of the clay that hated what was happening to it — being spun and heated — to become gorgeous led to Bea's application of being clay in the Master's hand.

The October meeting was waved in favor of a joint meeting with ladies from all the county societies meeting at Donecker's Restaurant for a brunch and fashion show.

During the September meeting, members met at Gladys Esbenshade's home hosted by Viola Hostetter and Eileen McComas.

The very traditional auction was led by Anna Marie Groff working hard to get good prices for various food items.

In August, a family picnic was held hosted by Rhoda Landis, Ruth Kreider, and Jean Groff. Guest speaker Paul Wickerd, a bee keeper had with him a case of live bees. The nature of the bee is a fascinating part of God's creation.

Thanks to all members who helped with the food stand at the corn maze under the supervision of Gladys Esbenshade.

The July 14th meeting was a Car-O-Rama, with a surprise destination that took members to the backyard of Wilbur Segrist, Lititz. Members were awed by waling among the many categorized flower beds, from wildflowers to the exotic.

New shipment to be sent in about six weeks!

Century of Farming

A pictorial history of farming from 1900 to 1999 as presented by readers of Lancaster Farming.

Everett R. Newswanger, Editor

Lancaster Farming
Publisher

The first shipment of Century of Farming has already sold out.
Century of Farming* is the book that recalls family involvement and the historic significance of agriculture's heritage in the last 100 years. This treasure chest of memories includes 120 pages of old photographs from the family albums of readers of Lancaster Farming. In addition, Editor Newswanger has written a preface that takes you from the "Golden Age" of agriculture as the 20th century began, through the Depression and on to the tremendous contrast of biotechnology.

The response in sales has been almost overwhelming. And after we ran out of the book, we still had a big stack of orders from disappointed people who really wanted a copy--especially after they saw it. Therefore we have arranged with the printer to do another run to fill the orders we have in hand and some extra for those who still would like to send in for a copy. We expect delivery to be in about six weeks.

If you have sent us a check, money order, or put your order on a credit card we will apply your order toward one from the next shipment, unless you tell us not to. If you want to still order a book(s) use this order form and send it to Lancaster Farming today. Orders will be taken on a first-come basis.

Farm Show History Remembered

In 1935, there were over 10,000 competitive exhibits. The Small Arena was no longer adequate for the increased activity so the Commission applied for a grant from the federal Public Works Administration, one of President Roosevelt's New Deal economic recovery programs.

The State Police put on a platoon drill at the 1936 show, an oyster bar and checkroom were added, and the Commission continued efforts to eliminate dust at the show.

Heavy snowfall and a long thaw resulted in the March 1936 flood. Water and huge ice chunks caused heavy damage in Harrisburg and the Farm Show Building was opened to flood refugees. But the nearby Paxton Creek began pouring in the boiler room and the staff worked frantically to salvage what they could. The water reached a depth of 8-1/2 feet in the boiler room and 43 inches in the Main Building, buckling the floor.

Large Arena Built

The Large Arena, which added 75,000 square feet of floor space and 7,639 permanent seats, was constructed at a cost of $1.2 million. It was dedicated during the 23rd Farm Show in 1939, and followed by the State Police Rodeo, a tradition that would be popular for many years. Two other outstanding features were added in the arena, the Horse Pulling Contest and Livestock Parade.

Getting to the show was easier too, as the new four-lane Maclay Street Bridge was opened.

In 1941, the Farm Show had the largest number of competitive farm products ever (11,655), an appropriate salute to its Silver Anniversary. The 1942 show was the last exhibition until 1947 because the Complex was taken over by the War Department to train civilian personnel to repair, assemble and recondition airplane motors.

Agricultural organizations continued to hold their meetings to mobilize production efforts to feed the nation's fighting men during World War II.

When the building was returned to the Farm Show Commission in 1946, a 55,000 square foot steel warehouse had been added, enough space for 300 head of cattle. This area, rebuilt in the late 70's is called the North Building.

After the war, farmers were eager to replace their worn out equipment and clamored for the restoration of the Farm Show. Sixty percent of the main hall was devoted to equipment displays that year. Attendance was up, but participation was down because farm life was still shaking off the effects of wartime.

In 1948, the horse exhibits held in the Large Arena were moved to the beef cattle barn and a log-sawing contest was started. Media attention had grown and the Farm Show Press Room typed and mailed out daily releases containing hundreds of winners names. These were well received by all the reporters and readers back home.

Twenty-seven farm machinery manufacturers boycotted the 1950 show to protest an increase in commercial retail rates, but the Commission found 90 other exhibitors to take their place.

A minor milestone was noted at the 1952 show when the potato growers announced they had sold their millionth Farm Show baked potato. In 1952, television stations shot movie film for a later broadcast and National Geographic magazine wrote about the 1954 Farm Show. A three-member committee advised that repainting was necessary for better visual backgrounds, and it was decided that TV coverage would stimulate,attendance, not hurt it.

In 1953, the Commission approved a $2.9 million expansion project for a three-story expansion between the Main Building and Large Arena. The 1955 show was built around the theme of Penn State's 100th anniversary, marking the historic relationship between agriculture and Pennsylvania's land grant college. A four-foot model of the University's Old Main was fabricated out of mashed potatoes for that show.

By 1957, the Farm Show Commission decided to eliminate the rural talent festival, horseshoe pitching contest and log sawing contest. Around that same time, $140,000 was spent to upgrade the Large Arena with better lighting and acoustics, along with a portable basketball floor for sporting events. This paved the way for greater use of the facility, including inaugurations, gymnastics, basketball playoffs and wrestling championships.

In 1965, a proposal to lease the Large Arena for Saturday night basketball games came from a professional team, the Harrisburg Patriots. They played in the arena for a couple of seasons, then disbanded.

By 1968, officials were still talking about improving the Farm Show because the buildings were growing obsolete, making it harder to attract new events in the off-season, Preliminary work went forward for new facilities and a survey offered two plans for new construction.

A joint panel of city and state leaders favored a plan to expand the existing location, which called for an increase from 70 to 129 acres and replacing many of the buildings with a multi-story convention center and off-site parking. A political battle ensued over that choice or whether to build a new facility on Elmerton Avenue, just a short distance from the present Complex.

Talk of a new exposition center practically vanished in 1972 as tropical Storm Agnes brought severe flooding to the Susquehanna Valley. Water reached a height of 91 inches in the Main Exhibition Building, about four feet higher than it was during the 1936 flood. The flooding left an inch of mud and a half million dollars in damage.

A temporary city sprang up on the northern corner of the Farm Show parking lot, with Harris Haven North housing hundreds of flood refugees rent-free until they could get back on their feet, with some remaining as long as three years.

Farm Show visitors parked at the Harrisburg Area Community College that year and rode shuttle buses because of the trailers. To this day, HACC postpones its first day of the new semester until Farm Show Week has ended to allow for overflow parking.

In 1974, the Department of Labor and Industry required fire safety programs be put into effect at the Complex. The Legislature approved $10 million for the renovations, but with that amount of investment targeted for existing facilities, the Commission inspected a number of sites that were still suitable for a new complex.

4-H Therapeutic Riding Program Trail Ride

The Lancaster County 4-H Therapeutic Riding Program announces the outcome from its third annual Trail Ride at Fair Hill, Md.

Riders were asked to obtain pledges to participate in the 15-mile trail ride, conducted Sunday, Sept. 26. The pledges for 1999 totaled $6,000.

Prizes were given to the two top fund-raisers in appreciation of their hard work in collecting sponsorships. First prize was a weekend getaway at the Roseland Ranch Resort, Stanfordville, N.Y. (valued at $600), won by Bonnie Kling for turning in $2,060 in pledges. Second prize was a $250 gift certificate to the Buck Home Furnishings, The Buck, won by Jack and Lisa Blanchet for turning in $750 in pledges.

Money raised by the trail ride will benefit the therapeutic riding program, a nonprofit organization, which is available to children and adults with a variety of disabilities. The program is conducted at Greystone Manor Stables, Leola. They operate in four six-week sessions from April-October and average approximately 30 riders for each session. The program has six instructors, approximately 86 volunteers, four horses, and three ponies.

For more information on the program, either to volunteer or to ride in the program, contact Libby Craver at (717) 569-7734.

The next fund-raiser the club holds will be its Fourth Annual Benefit Auction, Saturday, April 15, at the Bareville Fire Company, Leola, and is conducted by Terry Mertz. The auction will begin at 5 p.m. and will feature furniture, baskets, crafts, and gift certificates for various goods and services from local businesses. To donate an item or to obtain more information about the auction, contact Fran Spangler at (717) 484-0582 or (717) 336-0349.

"In only three weeks of using the Chi Machine, I lost 15 pounds effortlessly - and hospital lab tests showed that my blood cholesterol level dropped from 225 to 160 mg."

How do I use my Chi Machine?
* Place the machine on a rug Lie on your back and put your ankles in the grooves of the footrest on top of the machine
* Set the timer switch to activate the machine for the number of minutes you desire First time users should start with 2-5 minutes.
* The footrest will begin to move back and forth, carrying your feet briskly from side to side This movement will carry up through your legs and torso, throuthout your entire body, causing you to wiggle back and forth - that's right. like a fish swimming in water
* All you do now is relax and breathe deeply, letting the machine rock you gently but firmly for a maximum of 15 minutes
* When the time is up and the machine stops, remain lying down for another two to five minutes, relaxing and breathing deeply, enjoying the remarkable afterglow - chi - as it moves throughout your body

"In two months of using the Chi Machine, my thighs, hips, stomach and buttocks now look as good as they did when I was in my 20's - and I'm almost 52"

Farm Show History Remembered

The Pennsylvania State Farm Show serves as a valuable forum to improve our agricultural industry. This showcase of agriculture recognizes the outstanding achievements of the industry, offers unique location to display new technological advancements, and provides the competitive spirit that helps increase farm production year after year.

William Penn sought to instill the importance of a strong agricultural program in the minds of the early settlers and instigated the first Philadelphia Fair in 1686. Agricultural shows gained an additional boost with the creation of the Philadelphia Society for promotion Agriculture in 1785. A state fair was held in Chester County in 1823 through the combined efforts of the society and farmers around the state

The educational value of expositions and the enthusiasm associated with them spread like wildfire. To keep pace with the rapid succession of new ideas and inventions, representatives from 50 counties banned together to form the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society in 1851. They conducted the first State Fair that year in Harrisburg, with nearly 20,000 paid admissions.

State fairs were held in different cities throughout 1899, allowing new groups to view the exhibits

The establishment of the Penn State University in 1855 and the State Board of Agriculture in 1876 (which became the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture) helped expand the education-role of those fairs.

Agriculture organizations promoted the idea of an annual winter show when they gathered for their meetings in 1907 in the old Executive Building near the Capitol There was a small show for milk, a modest show for butter, a show for corn, and exhibits provided by dairy and equipment manufacturers.

Livestock and horticultural groups continued to push for an annual state fair, so Secretary of Agriculture Charles Patton invited agricultural leaders to meet with him in Lancaster in 1916 and the State Farm Show was born. Farmers wanted a show geared toward education, with exhibits and meeting-room facilities.

The original Farm Show Committee set January as the best month suited for the show, a time when farmers are deciding what equipment and supplies to buy for the coming season. Both objectives hold true to this day.

First Show in 1917 --

The first Pennsylvania Farm Show was held in 1917. Called the Pennsylvania, Corn, Fruit, Vegetable, Dairy Products and Wool Show, it featured educational displays and meetings for the various groups.

The event, held in the Emerson Brantingham Building in Harrisburg, attracted about 5,000 visitors and featured $735 in premiums. By comparison, the 2000 Farm Show offers $263,841 in premiums and should attract over 300,000 visitors.

Wartime conditions nearly canceled the 1918 show The federal government seized control of the railroads to prevent freight-train gridlock and the inability to get farm machinery and exhibits in on time posed great uncertainty. Yet the founders of the event were reluctant to surrender the years of work it took to stage the first show. In December 1917 Agriculture Secretary Charles Patton called a meeting that straightened things out and created a formal organization for operating future FarmShows the State Farm Products Show Committee.

When a formal commission was created by law in1927 to take over the show administration, the committee and its representatives of the major agricultural association became an advisory panel

Baby beef entries were brought to the growing exposition in 1926, with the first grand champion bringing 25 cents a pound at auction for a total of $266 59. By contrast, Bill Campbell, chairman of the board for Hoss's Steak and Sea House, paid a whopping $34,905 30 for the grand champion steer at the 1999 Junior Livestock Sale of Champions.

Momentum was building for construction of a permanent Farm Show site. In 1921, the Legislature approved the State Fair Law, establishing an 11-member commission to lay out a general site plan and obtain options on property. Although several good options existed, the time was not right. A business recession put a damper the idea and the Legislature quietly dropped the idea of a state fair and fairgrounds.

By 1925, exhibits and meetings were being held in 15 locations. The first 4-H livestock was exhibited in 1926 when the Adams County 4-H Baby Beef Club entered 49 Hereford Steers. Show officials reported that 100 persons per minute were passing throughout the Emerson-Brantingham Building that year, which posed a liability risk to the State Farm Products Show Committee.

New Building Called For --

By 1927, attendance swelled to 50,000, and visitors often waited for hours to enter the exhibit building, prompting calls for expanded facilities. In 1929, the Commission approved a vacant 40 acre site already owned by the state on Harrisburg's northern fringe at Cameron and Maclay Streets. The tract was a cow pasture for the Harrisburg State Hospital.

Nearly 400 bids were submitted and a contract was awarded on October 24, 1929, the same day the New York Stock Exchange collapsed for the first of two times within a week, wiping out billions in investments and throwing America's economy into a tailspin. Had a construction decision been delayed any longer, it's doubtful whether the building would have been built.

A feature of the 1930 Farm Products Show was the naming of three farmers and a farmer's wife to be a Dairy King, Swine King, Potato King, and Turkey Queen, the earliest commodity royalty. When the show ended, officials estimated attendance to be 80,000.

The new building was dedicated on the opening day of the 15th show in 1931. One of the most distinctive details of the Farm Show building design was a frieze depicting cattle, swine, poultry and other farm animals parading around the upper level of the façade.

The event itself was officially renamed the Pennsylvania State Farm Show, competitive livestock judging was added and more than 30 farm organizations held meetings.

In all, 7,300 competitive exhibits were vying for $37,000 in cash premiums, and floor space was divided between commercial, competitive and educational use.

With the new building came greater enthusiasm and the number of farm products doubled. With the success of the 1931 show, the Legislature approved the money to build a 15,000 square foot cattle barn and purchase another 27 acres of land for expansion. Opened for the 1932 show, the building raised the total area to 440,000 square feet or fully ten acres under roof.

Large numbers of youth began taking part in the Farm Show. Following a disciplinary problem, the Commission requested that all 4-H club members wear their club hats and all vocational school students wear Future Farmers of America buttons. Now the FFA members all wear their familiar blue jackets and proudly hold their annual convention in the Large Arena.

Substantial road improvements were made around the Complex in 1974, alleviating traffic nightmares, and the Commission voted to charge $1 per car for parking in 1975. In 1976, the Commission developed a ten-acre tract for parking it purchased earlier from the city.

The legislature approved a budget of $8.7 million to install T sprinkler system, elevator, fire alarm system, lighting system, create fire corridors, and remove wooden display stands, and walls. It included construction of a new 66,000 square foot cattle building to replace the Army Building, replacement of 900 doors considered fire hazards, and renovations on the second floor over the Main Exhibit Hall.

Partitioning caused by the construction of fire corridors led officials to start referring to the different areas as named buildings.

In 1980, the popular Sheep to Shawl Contest was added to the Farm Show competition, where teams shear a sheep, spin the wool, and weave a beautiful shawl in about two hours. Another major change came during the 1980 show, when it opened to the general public on Sunday, a day previously reserved for the Governor's preview and press tour.

With the construction of the fire corridors, much valuable exhibit space was lost, so the old concept of a new structure between the Large Arena and East Building was revived. Plans were drawn up and state funding sought for a 72,000 square foot structure. Over 300 exhibitors still remained on a waiting list for Farm Show Week.

A Family Show

Many changes were made during the 1989 show, including the introduction of Family Fun Day and the Blue Ribbon Apple Pie Contest. The recognition of a Supreme Dairy Cow was reinstated, worth $1,000 to the winner. The success of this led the commission to approve similar awards for horses, beef cattle, swine and labs in 1990. The first live drawing of the Pennsylvania daily Lottery was held in the LargeArena.

Many other features were added to the Farm Show in 1990. The Department of Agriculture unveiled a new logo, "Pennsylvania Agriculture - Quality....From Our Home to Yours." To recognize the great contributions made by our food processing industry to agriculture, the Pennsylvania

Food Pantry was created to show case their products. Culinary students from the Harrisburg Area Community College and Indiana University of Pennsylvania made their debut with daily cooking demonstrations featuring Pennsylvania products, and are now regular participants in the Farm Show.

Also during 1990, the Commission added rabbits to the judging program and approved a split sheep show to give more exhibitors an opportunity to participate. Several major capital projects were announced totaling $8 million, including $3.2 million for a two-story, 82,000 square foot building, essentially the same project approved in 1957.

One of the greatest changes ever made at the Farm Show, according to most visitors, is the Pennsylvania Food Court. All of the famous commodity food booths are conveniently located in the East Building, occupying 27,000 square feet.

This 1991 change permitted the associations to expand their sales areas and add new products.

Several new associations were able to participate for the first time. Congestion was relieved in the Main Building, and hungry visitors now have ample space to eat their favorite Pennsylvania foods.

Farm Show history was also made in 1992 when the show opened to the public on Saturday to allow more families to attend and participate in the show.

The Pennsylvania High School Rodeo Association is taking up where the State Police Rodeo left off. This young group puts on two separate performances on opening day and there isn't an empty seat in the house.

Occupancy permits were secured in time for the Northeast Building to be dedicated and used during the 1993 Farm Show. Many new exhibits can be found at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, with horticulture and family living dominating the themes on the second floor of the Northeast Building. Educational and entertaining demonstrations highlight activities in the Family Corner, along with farm and home competition and educational displays.

The Pennsylvania Food market, which made its debut when the Family Corner opened, returns again this year in the Main Lobby area for visitors to sample Pennsylvania foods and purchase food items directly from the companies

A special committee was appointed in 1990 to improve the Junior Livestock Sale and attract more buyers. The Junior Livestock Auction now takes bids for the animal itself, rather than a price per pound method used in the past. The junior livestock sales, which often generated college money for the FFA and 4-H members, continue to attract exhibitors from all corners of the Commonwealth.

A Farm Show Scholarship program unveiled in 1993 has awarded checks to 45 students already, and 16 more young exhibitors will receive scholarships this year prior to the start of Thursday's Junior Livestock Sale.

The economic impact of the Farm Show and the Farm Show Complex is considerable. Each year the show generates more than $500,000 in revenue, such as rental fees, parking fees and commissions.

A study conducted by Penn State during 1990 found the Farm Show to generate almost $8 million worth of direct and indirect spending.

While the Farm Show Complex still receives an annual legislative appropriation, it is becoming increasingly self-sufficient. The Farm Show staff books about 150 events a year in the facility to offset the operating costs and stimulate economic activity.

Improvements in the Large Arena - including a new roof, new lighting system, sound system and heating system - make all of the entertainment features more enjoyable for visitors It also played a major role in attracting a professional soccer team to the facility, the Harrisburg Heat.

Sunday's hours were expanded for the 1996 show, only to be overshadowed by the worst January storm ever to hit Harrisburg. The January 7-8 blizzard led to a state of emergency in 47 counties as parts of Pennsylvania were buried under two to three feet of snow.

Since many of the livestock exhibitors were already at the Farm Show Complex, dormitories over the Large Arena were opened for them and judging competition continued throughout the week but many of the special events and meetings were cancelled.

Public Cable Network (PCN), a public service of Pennsylvania cable television companies, broadcast 61 hours of coverage in 1997, the most extensive television coverage ever given to the show.

The coverage was applauded by snow bound cable subscribers, as the Blizzard of 1996 prevented many state residents and competitors from attending. PCN plans round the clock coverage for the 2000 show, featuring live and taped broadcasts.

Since 1998, visitors to the Pennsylvania Farm Show should have an easier time finding their favorite activity. The huge complex was repainted, with each building now identified by color as well as geographic location.

Free Publication Offers Diversity Educational Activities

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — By the year 2056, people of color — including African Americans, Hispanics, Asian and Pacific Islanders, and American Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts — are expected to be the majority population in the United States, says an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"As our society becomes more diverse, it's important that we learn to appreciate and understand our differences and to work effectively with people who are unlike ourselves," says Patreese Ingram, assistant professor of agricultural and extension education. "We may not see diversity in our particular community, but our children will experience it.

"Because today's world is changing so fast, kids are challenged to figure out where they fit in and how they can feel good about their contribution," she says. "After the Columbine High School situation, for instance, people focused on where the kids got the guns and what the parents were doing. Buy why were these kids so distraught that they built up enough resentment to want revenge?

"It seems to me it was because they were different, and being different automatically means undesirable. If we could get people to accept and appreciate difference, our communities — and our world — would be a lot more peaceful. But that's a huge challenge."

To help address this issue, Ingram developed a publication, "Diversity Activities for Youth and Adults." The publication can be used by teachers, youth leaders, child care professionals and human service professionals. While most of the activities are geared toward middle school students, high school students and adults, Ingram explains, some may be adapted for younger children.

"Although people often think diversity refers only to race, it includes gender, ethnicity, age, income, family structure, the part of the country we're from, physical and mental abilities, religious beliefs, marital status, parental status, sexual orientation, veteran status, education, occupation and language," she says. "Diversity is all of us, in our rich and infinite variety."

Currently:

- one in seven Americans speaks a language other than English in the home
- physically challenged individuals are the largest minority group
- an estimated 10 percent of the population is gay or lesbian
- people 75 years and older constitute the fastest growing age group

"Often, we don't interact daily with others who are different," Ingram says. "So we have stereotypes and beliefs about people we don't even know. We see things about them that aren't there. They see things about us that aren't there. Stereotypes exist for every group of people imaginable. Even though we may not like to admit it, we all do it. Stereotyping makes it easier to deal with a world filled with massive amounts of information and uncertainty."

Traditionally, America has taken a melting pot approach to diversity, she explains, where immigrants were expected to adapt their "old world" values for those of the "new world." "But this approach equates difference with deficiency. Today, the melting pot concept is being replaced by such terms as 'mosaic society.'

"In a mosaic society, people maintian their own cultures, such as language, lifestyle and religious practices," she says. "Differences are valued and appreciated. As a result, individuals can be proud of their cultural heritage and uniqueness, instead of being ashamed.

"Already, it's hard to identify a single distinctive culture in this country," she adds. "It may be more appropriate to think of the United States as having a giant multiculture."

Since the 1980s, Fortune 500 companies, government agencies and nonprofit organizations all have been doing "diversity work," Ingram explains. Diversity units are being added to school curricula, from elementary school to college, and some college campuses require diversity-related courses for graduation.

"Diversity has become an issue because of the new, competitive global market and the dramatic change in the United States population," she says. "Individuals also have begun to celebrate their differences instead of compromising their uniqueness to 'fit in.'

"My goal is to help people appreciate differences, as well as recognize the similarities we all share, such as a desire for safety, good health, education and well-being of our children, love and a sense of belonging, self-esteem and the ability to pursue and achieve our potential."

Such extension programs as "Character Counts!" and "Talking with TJ" help prepare kids to be successful for life in the 21st century. "The kids learn important life and employment skills, because the workplace is going to be different," Ingram says. "They also have fun learning about themselves and other people.

"We all tend to gravitate to people who are most like us," she says. "Likewise, we tend to feel less comfortable with people with whom we have less in common. But as our communities and workplaces change, understanding diversity — particularly for our children — will be crucial."

Single copies of "Diversity Activities for Youth and Adults" are available free of charge by calling the College of Agricultural Sciences Publications Distribution Center at (814) 865-6713. The publication also is available as a pdf file at http://pubs.cas.psu.edu/FreePubs/ui335.html. For more information on related publications or diversity programs in your area, call your county Penn State Cooperative Extension office.

Good sources of potassium abound

I thought bananas were about the best source of potassium, but someone told me that orange juice has more. Who's right?

Actually, both are good sources and contain about the same amount of potassium According to the U S Department of Agriculture's Nutrient Database, one medium-sized banana contains 467 milligrams of potassium One cup of orange juice (frozen concentrate, diluted) has 473 milligrams Either will help you toward the recommended minimum of 2,000 milligrams of potassium a day

By the way, that 2,000 figure really is a "minimum " Some guidelines recommend as much as 3,500 milligrams a day — that's what's used as the "Daily Value" reference when potassium content is listed on food labels

Either way, most people get plenty of potassium because it's in such a wide variety of foods· A cup of baked acorn squash contains 895 milligrams of potassium A 7-ounce baked potato contains 844 milligrams A cup of baked beans, 752 milligrams A cup of boiled zucchini, 455 milligrams A6-ounce can of tuna, 407 milligrams A large fast-food hamburger, 394 milligrams A 1 5-ounce box of raisins, 323 milligrams A medium-sized tomato, 273 milligrams. Even an 8-ounce cup of coffee isn't a bad source of potassium, with 128 milligrams

It's nice that potassium is so prevalent in the diet It works within cells to help muscles contract, help nerves send messages, and generally help cells do what they're supposed to do. It also works with other minerals — sodium, calcium and magnesium — to help the body maintain a proper balance of fluid, which promotes normal blood pressure and heartbeat. It does that in a variety of ways. If your body gets bloated, potassium is the hero that sends excess fluid to the bladder Reducing the body's fluid levels leads to a reduction in actual blood volume. That, in turn, decreases blood pressure. With the fluid goes excess sodium, which, in some people, is linked with high blood pressure.

Also, some high-blood pressure medications may cause potassium levels to dip, so people taking them are also often given a potassium supplement and encouraged to eat potassium-rich foods Luckily, they aren't hard to find.

Looking Out For At-Risk Kids

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — In an ongoing effort to protect the Commonwealth's abused and neglected children, the House and Senate have approved a resolution calling for a review of county Children and Youth Services, according to Rep. Sheila Miller (R-129).

"Sadly, cases of child abuse, sexual abuse and neglect seem to be escalating both in numbers and in level of severity," Miller said. "These growing caseloads are placing a great deal of strain on the people who are trying to help these children."

She noted the wide range of services offered through the county agencies, including services to parents and children to enable the children to remain in their homes, placement services for children who cannot live with their birth family, adoption services and any other service or care ordered by the court for children.

The resolution calls on the Joint State Government Commission to form a task force to undertake a study of the children and youth services delivery system in the Commonwealth. The task force, made up of four members each of the Senate and House of Representatives, must determine whether the system is meeting the needs of at-risk children and families, and if not it must recommend ways to improve the system.

"This task force will carry on the work that we in the House began when the Aging and Youth Committee formed a special subcommittee to review the tragic death of Maxwell Fisher in Berks County in 1996," Miller said. "As a member of that subcommittee, I soon discovered there were many legislative changes we could make to improve the system."

For example, Gov. Tom Ridge recently signed into law a bill that would require Child Protective Service providers to have face-to-face contact with children considered to be at a high risk for abuse on at least a weekly basis. Prior to this law, the standard was to meet with them face to face "as often as necessary," but not less than monthly.

Another new law, introduced by Miller, ensures that confidential child abuse reports are readily available to district justices so they have the information they need to make a decision in the best interest of the child.

A third proposal, which would require the state Department of Welfare to review all child death cases where families have been involved with county children and youth agencies, was approved by the House and now awaits Senate action.

"We will never forget the tragic death of little Maxwell Fisher," Miller said. "In honor of his memory, we must do everything we can to ensure all children have a chance at a happy, healthy, full life from now on."

Milk Route

This National Association of Milk Bottle Collectors truck is a serialized first edition utilizing new tooling. This 1/25th scale unit is a replica of the popular snub-nosed Divco delivery truck of the '50, made popular by the dairy industry. Only 750 serialized units have been produced, and it will not be re-released. Each of the remaining trucks comes with a limited edition certificate. The cost per unit is $49.95 (U.S.) or $64.95 (Canadian) plus $3.00 shipping and handling. Send check or money order to:

Preserving Open Space Can Lead To More Scattered Development

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Land use policies that only preserve open space could actually encourage more scattered development in farmland areas, said Elena Irwin, regional and community economics specialist at Ohio State University's College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences.

The reasoning is simple, Irwin said. If people want to live next to open space, and policy is put in place to ensure that an open space area will be preserved, then households can act with greater assurance that the land will remain free of development. The result is a tract of preserved open space that is more likely to be surounded by clusters of houses.

"All else equal, the land next to protected open space will be higher valued as a residential location, and conversion from farmland or forestland is likely to occur sooner around these protected areas than if the open space areas were unprotected," she said.

Irwin's conclusions are based on research of land use change in urban-rural fringe areas of central Maryland, which shows that land parcels with more open space around them are more likely to be developed than similar parcels with less surrounding open space. Ohio has started to experience some of the urban sprawl issues that rural Maryland has been experiencing for some time.

Ohio is particularly susceptible to this rimmed form of development around protected open space because Ohio is mostly a "home-rule" state in terms of land use management, Irwin said. That means, individual townships and municipalities make their own growth rules.

Many people want the benefits that come from living next to open space, but scattered development can cause problems for local governments, farmers and the environment. It requires more costly roads and sewer lines and can create longer trips for police and fire services, she said. It also fragments wildlife habitat and farmland areas, which can make farming in these areas more difficult and contribute to a loss of the traditional character of rural places.

"If governments want to offset this tendency, policies that encourage more concentrated development in areas with existing development and infrastructure are needed in conjunction with open space and farmland preservation policies," she said. "But you can't ignore people's preferences either. The challenge is to create land use policies that balance the desire to live among open space with the government's ability to have some control over growth and development."

Open space is a term that has been adopted by many land use planners. It refers to parks, forests, vacant lots, wildlife refuges, lawns, cemeteries, wetlands, golf courses, farmland and any other area with an absence of development.

"Many people value open space for what it isn't," Irwin said. "It's not development. So, in the case of farmland, residents that live nearby appreciate the lack of congestion and scenic views associated with it and value the land as an open space resource."

But as more people adopt this philosophy and move into the country to live, housing increasingly fragments areas of open space.

A good example of how managed growth can be done on a statewide basis is Maryland's smart growth regulation passed in 1997, she said. In Maryland, the government targeted growth areas where it wants development to occur and heritage or preservation areas that it would like to remain as open space. Economic incentives for road and sewage improvements and other public facilities are only offered in the areas targeted for growth.

"Government can't say you can or can't live in a location, but it can play a role, by shifting costs, in minimizing development where the community doesn't want it and encouraging it in areas where growth is already occurring," Irwin said. "It's not clear yet if Maryland's smart growth policies will be enough to control scattered development or if more controlling policies will be needed, but they will certainly make it more costly to develop in certain areas."

Another policy option is Adequate Public Facilities — before new development is approved, an area must show it has adequate public facilities to prevent too much strain on roads, sewers, schools and other public services.

Three is no silver bullet policy that will work everywhere, but there are options for land use planners to explore. As more people seek to live in areas surrounded by open space, larger connecting tracts of open space will disappear faster than if some form of growth management had been adopted, Irwin said.

For more information on the role of open space in explaining sprawl in rural areas, those interested can read a paper Irwin has written on the subject on the Ohio State University Department of Agricultural, Environmental, and Development Economics website at (http://www-agecon.ag.ohio-state.edu/comregecon/briefings.htm).

State Grange Offers National Cookbook at Pa. Farm Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Grange will sell the latest cookbook being offered by the National Grange during the annual Pennsylvania Farm Show, which runs here January 8-13.

"What's Cookin' in the Grange," a 256-page cookbook containing over 375 country-cooking recipes, is the newest offering in a line of highly successful National Grange cookbooks. Sunflower Seed Cookies, Cream of Wild Rice Soup, and Crazy Cabbage are a few of the recipes chosen from over 2,500 submitted by Grange members from across 37 Grange states. Pennsylvania's featured recipe is pot pie and was submitted by State Grange Master Bill Steel.

The cookbook is 8" x 9" for easy handling and storage, has a stain-resistant cover and is comb-bound so the book will lay flat while preparing recipes.

"Uniqueness was definitely a judging criterion," Betty-Jane Gardiner, Director of Women's Activities for the National Grange, said about the selection process. "It includes 37 recipes reflecting the rich agricultural heritages of our Grange States. This book is designed to please everyone from the novice to the seasoned cook."

"What's Cookin' in the Grange" sells for $16. It may be purchased at the PA State Grange booth located in the Main Exhibition Building near the entrance of the Maclay Street side of the complex.

The book also contains State Grange histories as well as facts and information about community service, youth development, legislative efforts and other Grange activities and programs. Founded in 1867, the Grange is the country's oldest organization representing rural interests. Over 300,000 members belong to 3,500 Granges spanning 37 states.

NEW HOLLAND

NEW! New Holland TND/TNS Tractors 42 to 62 PTO hp

Customer driven design

TND/TNS tractors have the features customers say they need. These tractors outperform and outmaneuver all others in the three-cylinder class. Plus they're loaded with comfort and convenience usually found on much bigger tractors.

Exclusive SuperSteer™ FWD axle makes TNS tractors the most maneuverable all purpose tractors available.

8x8 or 16x16 Synchro Command™ transmissions feature synchronized gears and a synchronized, left hand mechanical shuttle. The 16x16 includes four speeds 1 mph or less.

Exclusive Traction Management System (TNS tractors only) automatically engages FWD when and only when you need it.

Four wheel differential lock is electro-hydraulically engaged on TNS tractors for maximum power to ground performance.

Comfortable cab is suspended and pressurized, shielding the operator from vibration, noise and dirt. Heater and A/C, two doors, tilt/telescoping steering, front and rear washers and wipers, and a best-in-class lighting package are standard. Excellent visibility and an overall height as low as 85.1" lets you go places competitive cab tractors can't.

60 SERIES GEMINI™

Step Up To The Power

New Holland 60 Series GEMINI™ tractors are innovative and practical.

- 7.5 liter engines offer tremendous lugging ability and up to 42% PTO torque rise.
- Exclusive 18x6* Range Command™ transmission offers six powershift gears in three ranges, all at the push of a button. Or choose the new 23x12 Dual Command™ synchromesh transmission.
- Advanced cab features two doors, lots of legroom, easy-to-reach controls and exceptional visibility front and rear.
- Spacious flat-deck platforms offer foldable ROPS, large grabrails and left/right entry.
- Exclusive flip-up hood allows total access to battery and filters.

FSA Committee Elections Request Nominating Petition

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) – March 6, 2000 is election day for Local Administrative Area 3. The communities in LAA-3 are Bart, Colerain, Conestoga, Drumore, East Drumore, Fulton, Eden, East & West Lampeter, Lancaster, Little Britain, Martic, Paradise, Pequea, Providence, Sadsbury, and Strasburg. These communities will be electing their representatives to serve as community committee person for 3 years.

Eligible voters are encouraged to nominate candidate(s) of their choice of petition. Blank petitions (FSA-669As) may be obtained at the county FSA office. Each petition submitted must be limited to one nominee; signed by the nominee, indicating willingness to serve, if elected; and postmarked or delivered to the county FSA office no later than January 21.

Person nominated should be currently engaged in the operation of a farm or ranch and be well qualified for committee work. A farmer is eligible to be a county FSA committee member if the farmer lives in the LAA and is an eligible voter.

County FSA Committee members may not hold positions in certain farm and commodity organizations, if these positions pose a conflict of interest with FSA duties. These positions include functional offices such as president, vice president, secretary, and positions on boards or executive committees. Additional information of eligibility to hold office may be obtained at the county FSA office.

The duties of a county FSA committee member include informing farmers of the purpose and provisions of the FSA programs, keeping the state FSA committee informed of LAA conditions, recommending needed changes in farm programs, participating in county meetings as necessary, and performing duties as assigned by the state FSA committee.

Built for the long haul

The New Holland Model 185 is a spreader you won't buy too often because it's going to be with you for a long time.

Here's why

- Corrosion-resistant steel sides
- Indestructible plastic floor boards (HDPE)
- 12-year guarantee for FREE floor and sides if they fail

The Model 185 carries a 287-bushel load with ease. We'd like to show you why this is the best-selling spreader in its class.

Winter Time Is a Great Time To Trim Back Those Fence Lines With A Rhino Boom Mower

The Servis® 1548 hydraulic boom flail cutters are designed for mowing grass and cutting brush in hard-to-reach areas including roadsides, ditchbanks, ponds, and fence rows. Large model with up to 15 foot horizontal reach and up to 4" diameter brush cutting.

RHINO Quality

SE8
In Stock

The Rhino® SE8 is an economical rotary mower designed to help maintain larger acreages of grass, weeds, stalks, or material up to 1" in diameter.

The streamlined, close-coupled design allows economical operation on tractors as small as 30 horsepower on the SE8 and 45 horsepower on the SE10 The 85 HP center gearbox and 60 HP outboard gearboxes are protected from sudden shockloads by a slip clutch on the main driveline and torque dampeners on the side driveshafts Pan blade carriers help the unit glide over field obstacles and updraft blades with a 4" blade overlap provide a clean cut also available for New Holland, New Holland Self-Propelled, and some other brands.

SILAGE MILL
Conversion Kit for Gehl Harvesters

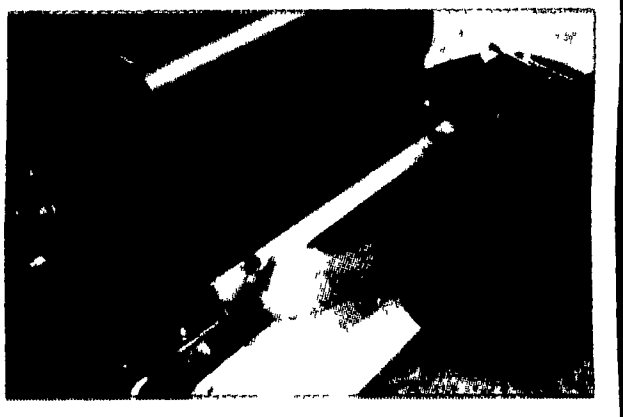
Built to fit new or used harvesters, the kit is designed for simplicity and many years of use with minimum maintenance.

A positive drive nonslip belt powers the processing unit. By adjusting the harvester to make a coarser cut along with the shearing action of the processor rolls turning at different speeds, overall output from the harvester is increased with no additional horsepower required.

Not only do the rolls constantly "self-clean", but the minimal space between the pans and the rolls creates a vacuum action that draws the processed silage into the spinner chamber.

The haylage diverter is bolted to the processor rear door. Made of heavy-duty stainless steel, it keeps haylage away from the processor rolls and in the spinner chamber.

Contents of the conversion kit are warranted for one year against failures in material or workmanship. A typical conversion requires approximately one day.



Most unique in the design of the Georgetown Crop Processor is the way that the transition is made from processing silage to making haylage. A pin, two bolts, the diverter pan assembly, and the main belt drive are removed and material from the cutter head moves directly into the spinner bypassing the rolls. The whole process takes less than a half hour.

Top Producers Choose Knight!

Congratulations to the La-Foster Farm

Terry and Gerald Foster are very proud of their record-breaking cow, Lucy, and rightly so. She produced 75,260 pounds of milk in her last lactation. They are also pleased with their Knight Reel Auggie® mixers, which, combined with the Foster's excellent management practices, have propelled the La-Foster herd average to the #1 milk production status in North Carolina. There is no comparison to the complete, palatable blend from a Knight Reel Auggie, with its patented reel and auger blending combination. Why else would the La-Foster Farm choose only Knight to feed their record-setting herd?

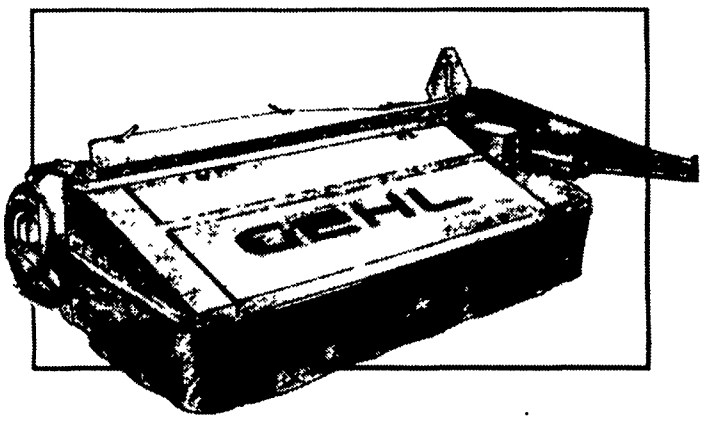
2345/2365 DISC CONDITIONERS


Gehl has two all-new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy, the DC2345 has 7 discs and a 9'2" cutting width; the DC2365 has 8 discs and a 10'3" cutting width. A Gehl disc mower conditioner delivers exceptional cutting and conditioning, even in your most difficult crops and conditions.
- Designed with the operator in mind
- Easy access all around
- An equal angle PTO
- Three-point flotation support

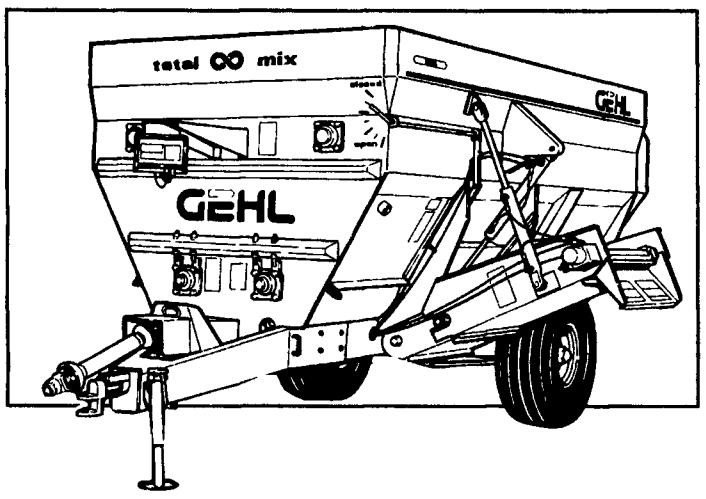
TMR "Total Mix" Mixer Feeders



"Total Mix" TMR mixer feeders let you mix more long-stemmed hay into your ration - up to 30% by weight depending on hay type and moisture content.
- "Hay - slicer auger" - Incorporates knife assemblies into the two bottom augers.
- Better mixing action - Four-auger design creates a double figure - 8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Five sizes - 150 to 455 cubic feet capacities.

WELCOME TO CFS!

Please allow us to introduce ourselves...

Founded in 1970, Chambersburg Farm Service, Inc. is proud to be celebrating 30 years of service to the community of Franklin County, as well as many surrounding counties, in the four-state region of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia

In 1985, CFS greatly enhanced our strength by joining forces with Carlisle Farm Service. This merger has vastly improved our ability to provide top of the line customer service. Carlisle Farm Service serves the community of Cumberland, Perry, York and Adams counties, as well as many surrounding areas in Pennsylvania and Maryland.

For 1999 we are excited to announce the opening of our third location in Hagerstown, Maryland. CFS of Hagerstown will primarily be a Cub Cadet store to strengthen our commitment to the Lawn & Garden equipment industry. We are very pleased to have this opportunity to intensify our focus of offering the best customer service.

Our success lies solely in our customers. We recognize the need for customer support; therefore our main goal is 100% customer satisfaction. We carry an extensive inventory of parts, we have factory-trained sales and service personnel, we maintain a fleet of service trucks, and we are keeping pace with the rapidly changing agricultural industry. When it comes to your equipment needs, you can be confident that CFS is here to support you.

BUSINESS ◆ NEWS

Snyder Joins White Oak Mills

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — White Oak Mills Inc. was announced the addition of Donald Snyder, Carlisle, to its professional dairy team.

Snyder serves as a full-time dairy specialist for White Oak Mills. His responsibilities include working with and meeting the needs of Pennsylvania dairy producers in Cumberland and Franklin counties as well as northern Maryland dairy producers.

"White Oak Mills is pleased to welcome Don Snyder to its dairy team," said Jennifer Hampshire, White Oak Mills' manager of sales and marketing. "With more than 16 years of dairy consulting experience, Don will complement White Oak Mills' dairy feed expansion efforts by providing personalized feeding programs and quality service to Pennsylvania and Maryland dairy producers."

Snyder earned a bachelor of science degree from Pennsylvania State University in agricultural economics with a farm management concentration. Recently, he served as a district sales manager for Purina Mills Inc. Snyder also worked for Pennfield Corporation from 1983-1997.

Underwood Customer Service Manager At Chore-Time

MILFORD, Ind. — E.J. Underwood has been named customer service manager for Chore-Time Poultry Production Systems, according to Brian Dawes, vice president and general manager.

In his new position, Underwood will be responsible for the management of the company's domestic inside sales and customer service activities. Previously, Underwood was manager of business administration for Chore-Time Brock (CTB, Inc.).

Prior to coming to CTB, Underwood was an administrator in the area of development at Grace College, Winona Lake, Ind. He also has worked as an independent business management consultant.

Underwood earned both a bachelor's degree and a master's degree from Arlington Baptist University, Arlington, Texas, and he is a certified managerial accountant.

Vermeer Unveils Bale Processor

PELLA, Iowa — A powerful bale processor, designed to significantly reduce feeding and bedding costs while increasing feed palatability and efficiency, was recently introduced by the hay equipment specialists at Vermeer Manufacturing Company.

The new Vermeer BP7000 Bale Processor can spread straw up to 50 feet (creating a thick, uniform mat of bedding for free stall or loafing barns). It can feed open range in adjustable windrow sizes. It can also place processed hay directly into feed bunks and along fencelines using a standard bunk feeder attachment. An optional grain feed tank also allows you to mix in feed rations as you process the bales.

The new Vermeer BP7000 Bale Processor is much quieter than the chain-driven conveyor systems used in older systems — no chains to wear out, no broken or bent bars to fix, no gear boxes to replace, and fewer moving parts. It's powered by adjustable, hydraulically-driven feed rollers which rotate and loosen the bale in either direction for uniform feeding into a flail-type shredder.

The PTO-powered flails — produced from tempered spring steel — uniformly process both hay and straw according to individual feeding or bedding preferences . . . blowing away excess mold, dust and mildew buildup, and producing feed that's healthier and more palatable.

Simple mechanical adjustments handle rate of feed, length of cut, and deflection angles for bunk feeding or windrowing operations. A simple hand winch sets the angle on the discharge deflector, then folds it up and away to avoid narrow gates and to allow the spreading of straw. Rubber inserts, mounted on the rollers, help keep the tube sides clean and prevent buildup.

The BP7000 — equally effective on dry hay or high-moisture packages — is designed to process a 6-foot diameter bale in two minutes or less, and it has the capacity to handle round bales as large as 6 feet long x 6 feet in diameter.

Also available an optional bale mover adapter hitch which allows you to load, transport and process up to eight 5-foot bales in one trip (in combination with a Vermeer BM700 Bale Mover). Makes feed time even more productive, without even leaving the comfort of your tractor.

Zetor Announces New Tractor Line

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Zetor has added a new group of tractors to its line, designated the "E" Series.

The new models, available from dealers in the second half of 2000, range in engine horsepower from 42 to 78, and are available in both two-wheel and four-wheel drive. All models in the new "E" Series include collar shift transmissions with 10F and 2R speeds, optional 10F/10R shuttle transmission, foldable ROPS, and high-torque, fuel-efficient Zetor engines with wet-sleeve design.

The tractors offer comfortable, low-step platforms, with side-mounted shifting levers, simplified controls and gauges, and high-capacity, open-center hydraulic systems.

"E" Series tractor models, available from dealers in the second half of 2000, range in engine horsepower from 42 to 78.

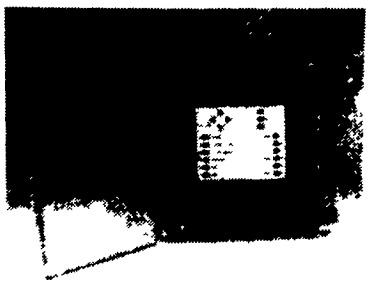
Chore-Time Unveils New Controls

MILFORD, Ind. – Chore-Time has introduced its Chore-Tronics® controls designed for managing the environment in hog and poultry houses.

User-friendly, upgradeable, and compatible with Windows-based personal computers for remote control access, these controls are flexible enough to adapt easily to changes in current and future management styles.

At the same time, Chore-Tronics controls offer producers the consistent precision needed for fine-tuning house environments.

The Chore-Tronics Model 16, Model 32, and Model 40 controllers are designed for use in managing power ventilation as well as for tunnel and natural ventilation houses. In most instances, producers can use the same control to switch between all three environmental modes to help enhance the house's environment while also maximizing energy savings.



Chore-Time has introduced its Chore-Tronics® controls designed for managing the environment in hog and poultry houses.

These environmental controls feature multiple one-horsepower outputs, an alarm output, mechanical switches for an easy-to-do manual override, minimum ventilation timer, temperature sensors, light and feed clocks, and cooling timers, plus a number of other optional features such as controlling static pressure and monitoring water usage along with relative humidity.

Bobcat Introduces Skid-Steer Loaders

FARGO, N.D. – Melroe Ingersoll-Rand introduced its new Bobcat® 773 G-Series skid-steer loader.

The new patent-pending loader design increases visibility, enhances operator comfort, improves performance, and offers value-added options, such as dual-mode auxiliary hydraulics and deluxe instrumentation. Melroe designed the G-Series to be more operator-friendly and efficient based on input from skid-steer loader users around the globe.

The Bobcat 773 G-Series is a heavier loader than the previous 773 F-Series with more breakout force and a rated operating capacity of 1,750 pounds. It features a 46-hp Kubota diesel engine, an all-day 23-gallon fuel tank, and 11 percent more hydraulic flow up from 15 gallons per minute (gpm) to 16.7 gpm. A new high-flow option provides 27 gpm and 3,000 pounds per square inch (PSI) to power attachments such as snowblowers, planers, chippers and wheel saws.

The Bobcat 773's low profile, vertical-path lift arms – along with a new cab design – increase visibility to the sides, rear corners and front of the loader, enhancing jobsite productivity.

Nine different patents are pending on various operator cab and instrumentation features of the new G-Series. The cab has a larger front opening for easier entry and exit as well as more head clearance inside. For added comfort, an optional, full-suspension seat adjusts to the operator's weight and size, and seatbelt is mounted to the seat rather than the seat pan, so it moves with the operator. The new rear-pivot seat bar offers more room for larger operators as well as improved arm rests for comfortable all-day operation. A domed cab roof – rounded fore to aft and side to side – efficiently sheds water.

Other cab improvements include recessed headlights with a lens design that doubles light output in the work area, optional top and rear windows that can be easily removed without tools for cleaning, and an optional contoured cab door that increases visibility and maximizes cab space. A new, high-efficiency heating system features four directional-flow vents that rotate to direct air where it's most needed. For added elbow room in the cab, the heater core and blower motor have been relocated behind the operator cab. Other optional amenities include a dome light and electrical power port (for a cell phone) as well as an insulated cab for reduced noise.

The standard left-hand instrument panel includes electronic stepper-type sweep gauges for engine coolant temperature and fuel level. The digital engine hourmeter doubles as a glow-plug countdown timer and mini-information center for system diagnostics. The panel also includes switches for operating lights as well as optional bucket positioning and high-flow hydraulics. A dual-mode auxiliary hydraulics switch allows users to select between maximum-flow (instant on-off) and variable flow auxiliary hydraulics for more efficient operation of hydraulic attachments. An auxiliary pressure release button simultaneously shuts down the loader and relieves auxiliary hydraulic pressure to facilitate attachment hookup.

PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC., INC.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

PARADISE (Lancaster Co) — Sometimes corn has a lot more uses than you can imagine

You know the standard uses — corn flakes, beverage sweetener, alternative combustion fuel, and others

But there are more uses than you might have read about — and that includes, of all things, entertainment farming

Why not make a show out of the front five acres' That's exactly what Cherry Crest Farm, operated by Jack and Donna Coleman in Paradise, did This year marked the fourth time in a row that the Coleman's put up the "World's Largest Attended Maze," in which every year a new "theme" for the corn maze is selected

The maze, taking up five acres, was planted in the shape of the Keystone State itself, complete with the four cities making up the corners (Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Erie, and Scranton- Wilkes Barre) In the center is the shape of the Liber ty Bell, along with ribbons along the corn row "paths" of the maze painted a different color to represent a section of the maze (yellow for the Liberty Bell, green for the state outline, red the Paradise Star, and white the stars of the major cities)

The "Land of Liberty" theme proved especially attractive for area tourists Each day during the season the maze averaged about 1,200-1,500 visitors Last year about 50,000 visitors showed up to tour the maze, in the shape of Noah's Ark The first year the maze was laid out in the shape of a locomotive and the second year, a horse and buggy

At the top of the maze, north of the "gameboard," was an America flag made up of 14,000 petunias According to Coleman, the one third acre flag was planted the third week of May this year, contracted with Good Harvest, Strasburg

The corn maze itself, which opened July 2, was planted with Pioneer 32K62, a Bt hybrid, full season variety The corn was planted May 5 in 30-inch rows The maze theme outline was gridded out and, when the corn was less than eight inches tall, a crew worked a hoe to shape A few aerial photographs were taken before the final shape could be finished

The drought emergency this year had an effect on some of the tourists, but luckily, according to Coleman, enough rain had fallen In mid-July, two irrigations were needed to keep the corn stalks from turning brown and brittle

The maze employs about 15, mostly youth, from around the region The Colemans also care for 60 cows on their dairy, in addition to 50,000 broilers under contract with Tyson

(Turn to Page 12)

Jeff Stoltzfus, Eastern Lancaster County (ELANCO) School District Adult Farmer Program adviser, center, spoke to about 60 farmer and agri-industry representatives in June during the third annual ELANCO Adult Farmer Program Spring Meeting at the Eugene Martin Farm south of New Holland. AN END TO A VERY LONG YEAR

I m sure the 1999 growing season had as many days and hours as previous seasons but for many of us it sure seemed like a longer than normal year

For many Mother Nature threw a few curveballs that resulted in some dreadful corn crops being produced around the state

Fortunately, this kind of season is a rare occurrence that we hope does not reoccur for the remainder of your careers

I thought I might be good to revisit a few of the issues we ran into this summer and Galvanized or Galvalume?

For metal roofing and siding, which is better, painted Galvanized or painted Galvalume? Galvanizing is many times better if it's mill certified G100. Why is it better? Galvanizing tends to "heal" when scratched The more galvanizing, the better. Everlast is ten times better at "healing" than galvalume because galvalume hardly "heals" at all when scratched. Also cut edges rust quickly on galvalume

Bed your free stalls fast... 60 stalls in 60 seconds

"It's amazing how fast it is."
Dale Kennedy, Catalpa Farm, Middletown, PA

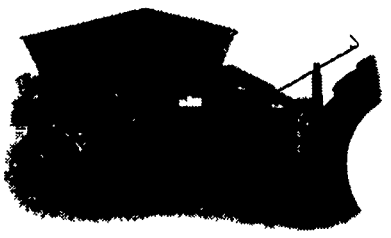
"The Millcreek Bedding Spreader saves me untold hours of back breaking manual labor installing fresh sawdust in my 125 stalls Now I use less material and get a more controlled application. The Bedding Spreader is a good equipment value because I use it so often."

Now you can apply fresh wood shavings, sawdust or sand for free stall bedding 75% faster - with just one man. No more shovel, no more backache.

The Millcreek Bedding Spreader puts fresh bedding exactly where you want it. There's nothing like it for fast, efficient and cost-effective application of fresh bedding material in free stall barns.

For example, Scott Coblentz, Deer Spring Farm, Maryland, milks 280 head and uses sand to help improve herd health. It used to take 2 men almost 2 days to install fresh bedding. Now, with the Millcreek Bedding Spreader, one man does the job in hours.

Call today for free information.



Millcreek Bedding Spreaders come in four sizes, from 5.4 to 13.5 cu. yd. capacity

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

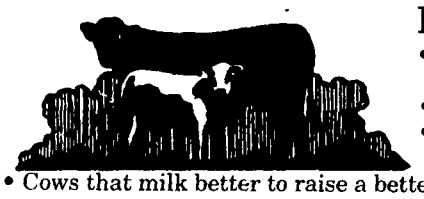
Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients

For Beef



- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

OPTIONS IN FEEDING

Your Dairy Herd

Call us today for a feeding program built to fit your Dairy Herd and your Production Goals.

For maximum performance and income over feed cost, rations should be balanced to provide the optimum levels of degradable and undegradable protein, nonstructural and structural (fiber) carbohydrate as well as minerals and vitamins. This allows for maximum utilization of the rumen microbes and total ration efficiency. Because you needs may be different from your neighbor's, we adjust the following nutrients and ingredients to fit your needs and goals

- Amino Acids
- Protein
- By-Pass Protein
- Energy
- Fiber
- Calcium
- Phosphorus
- Salt
- Vitamins & Trace Minerals
- Organic Trace Minerals
- Multi-Protein Sources
- Added Animal Fat
- Rumen Inert Fats
- Buffers
- Yeast
- Zinpro

FOUR SIMPLE STEPS TO SUCCESS

Farm For Profit Step 1

ACHIEVE
- Contains nutrients and feeders which aid in sustaining microorganisms in the soil

REMEDY
- Contains nutrients and micronutrients which aid in sustaining microorganisms in the soil

TANK MIXING
STEP 2 PLANT NUTRITION
& STEP 1

We have found be adding 12 8 oz of Remedy and a small amount of Achieve per acre to the recommended amount of Farm For Profit Step 2 True Solution Starter Fertilizer and applying directly on the seed or in the seed cradle we got outstanding results

Farm For Profit Step 2
PLANT NUTRITION

FARM FOR PROFIT TRUE SOLUTION STARTER FERTILIZER
- Near neutral pH
- 100% available
- Root zone placement
- Low salt index
- Foliar Feeding

Farm For Profit has established their own standard for quality Unlike many liquid fertilizers Farm For Profit True Solution Starter Fertilizer is a solution It is not just particles suspended in liquid Each drop contains the exact N-P-K ratio of the standard formulation Farm For Profit liquid fertilizer is consistent and stable and won't settle out It handles easily It can be stored indefinitely When it is applied, it flows evenly and cleanly Farm For Profit True Solution Starter Fertilizer meets our standard for quality

Farm For Profit Step 3
VEGETABLE OIL

1 Encapsulates the chemical
2 Helps generate uniform droplet size
3 Greatly reduces chemical evaporation
4 Reduces chemical drift
5 Increases the coverage because of its spreading and sticking ability
6 Reduces chemical wash off
7 Gives you better control of the chemicals

One of Farm For Profit's main concerns is the level of soil and water pollution found today Our goal is to remove as much petroleum base material and farm chemical from the soil as possible Farm For Profit Step 3 Vegetable Oil gives us a means to reduce the level of both petroleum base materials and farm chemicals

Farm For Profit Step 4
TRAINED FIELD PERSONNEL

The Farm For Profit Authorized Distributor or Dealer in Your Area Will
- Explain the total Farm For Profit program to you
- Explain the best fertilizer program for your operation
- Suggest ways to improve the efficiency of your chemical program
- Explain to you what other farmers have been doing to cut their operating expenses while maintaining or increasing their production output

Farmers Helping Farmers
That's what Farm For Profit is all about!

The Logan family eagerly await the Farm Show. From left, Jacob, 12; Ben, 18; Katie, 16; father, Tom; and mother Joann. The family's 80-acre farm has been divided by the Pennsylvania turnpike, with the section that runs between the Irwin and New Stanton exits. In spite of the pressures, Joann said they plan to farm as long as possible. Photo by David Hiebert

Families Eagerly Anticipate Farm Show

DAVID HIEBERT
Westmoreland Co. Correspondent

SCOTTDALE (Westmoreland Co.) — Farm families near here are anticipating the state Farm Show in a big way. Busses have been reserved, trailers commandeered, and family vehicles outfitted for the trip to the Harrisburg Farm Show Complex.

Amid lots of holiday activity, show families eagerly talked about the coming event — and what they've done in preparation.

For Will Hilty, Jr., the event is big, since it will be one of his last as a 4-H participant. In quantity it is also big. He has 10 bred guilts of the 55 registered Durocs listed in the catalog. His list of entries includes 12 bred gilts for the open show and sale and two 4-H animals.

The Hilty family has participated in the farm show for more than 40 years, Will's grandfather, James, recalled.

"Will Jr.," he said, "has been going since he could walk." And a fond memory from 1987 came in Will Jr.'s kindergarten days when he showed the championship Hampshire hog at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition.

Will Jr., who has participated in 4-H for nine years, is a junior at Mount Pleasant Area High School. Will Jr. participates in the Blue Ribbon Ag 4-H Club, with Betty Harr as the adult leader.

Others in the Hilty family planning to attend the show include Will's stepsister, Beth Weber, who will bring a Yorkshire market hog; Will Sr.; and Jason, 6. Grandfather James will stay around the farm to be near his wife, who is hospitalized for complications following a knee replacement operation. The family plans to bring market steers to the show had to be canceled when their animals all matured, and were sold before showtime.

Katie Logan, a 16-year-old from Irwin, is following family tradition in attending the farm show.

The year 2000 will be the third time she's made the trip. And the whole family is going: her parents Tom and Joann, and two brothers, Ben, 18, and Jacob, 12. Katie plans to take a registered Shorthorn market steer.

Katie, who has been showing animals for 8 years, said that the competition on the state level and meeting other 4-H people are the strong points for going to the show. With eight years of 4-H experience, she participates with the Westmoreland County 4-H Beef Club. It meets monthly at the county extension offices in Greensburg. Terry Milowick, New Stanton, is the adult leader.

Katie also talked about the timing for showing. Some of the animals the family took for the county level show were too old when it came to the state show. Ben Logan, her 8-year-old brother, said that to show, an animal should be 16-18 months old and weigh in at 1,200-1,300 pounds.

The Logan family operates from an 80-acre base near the Irwin exit on the Pennsylvania turnpike. In addition to the home farm, they cultivate about 1,000 acres of neighboring property for what is mainly a grain operation.

They also feed out 30 steers a year and maintain a herd of about 20 breeding stock.

Katie Logan, Irwin, plans to show a registered Shorthorn market steer.

Joann said the farm includes conservation practices in their operation, including strip farming to control erosion, nutrient management, crop rotation, and rotational grazing for their breeding stock.

As for the future of farming, Joann Logan, Katie's mother, said because the farm is surrounded by housing developments, they believe they have no place to grow. As children of a farm family the Logans are almost an oddity in their school system. All the property around the farm is set for development with city water and sewer. But they plan to farm as long as possible.

One encouragement for young people who show on the state level is an annual $2000 scholarship, which is available to many farm show participants. To be eligible the applicant must be enrolled in an accredited course of study at an institution of higher learning. According to the web site: Farm Show Facts,

No-Till Planners Schedule Conference

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — During the past quarter-century, the Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference has introduced a conservation concept that was new to many crop farmers and provided helpful information on how no-till adopters could refine their cropping practices to achieve the greatest profit potential.

"Hot" topics over the years have included no-till drilling techniques, machinery adjustments, nitrogen application, weed control, crop rotation, and soil compaction.

To start off its second 25 years, the conference will offer breakout sessions and roundtable discussions on topics such as cover crops, narrow-row silage, zone tillage, manure management, no-till vegetable production, and the soil phosphorus index.

For the first time, the conference is scheduled at two locations on consecutive days — Feb. 24 in the Four Points Hotel at Hagerstown, Md., and Feb. 25 in the Holiday Inn at Grantville, Pa.

As in all previous years, the conference is sponsored by cooperative extension at land-grant universities and by the USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service in participating states, with assistance from interested agribusinesses and related organizations.

Identical sessions will run from 8 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. at both locations. A $20 registration fee, payable by Feb. 16, will include lunch at one location. After Feb. 16, the fee is $25.

Registration brochures will be available soon at many Cooperative Extension county offices in Maryland and Pennsylvania. Or contact Joel C. Myers, Pennsylvania state agronomist, Natural Resources Conservation Service, 1 Credit Union Place, Suite 340, Harrisburg, PA 17110-2993, (717) 237-2208.

Interested exhibitors may contact Mark Goodson, Penn State Cooperative Extension, 112 Pleasant Acres Road, York, PA 17402, (717) 840-7408.

Will Hilty Jr., Mount Pleasant, shows a bred gilt, representative of the dozen he is prepared to show at the state Farm Show. Checking his catalog, he found that she is listed as lot 105 and was born Feb. 8, 1999. For breeding stock, Will says that their family looks for a boar that will compensate for any weaknesses that might be present in the sow herd. They traveled to Ohio for one of their newest acquisitions, paying $1,500 for a young, lean boar. Photo by David Hiebert http://www.state.pa.us/PA—Exec/Agriculture/bureaus/farm—show/farmshow2000/fsfacts.html, "The PA Farm Show Scholarship Foundation awards $2,000 scholarships prior to the sale. In 1999, 19 students received these scholarships.

Families Anticipate Farm Show

Ben, 18, plans to study agricultural biological engineering. He has looked at the course of study and found that it includes power and machinery, farm structures, soil management, and food service.

Fayette County families will also be at the Farm Show, possibly in larger numbers than the Westmoreland crowd.

Charles Wolfe Jr., Grindstone, thinks about 30 from his county — Fayette — will make it to the Farm Show this year. As a family, he said, "we do it every year, including the one with the big snow!" His oldest son will not make it, since he is in school, but he had been going since he was 8.

Not all from the county will be showing animals, but "it is a good experience for the kids," he said.

"There is the chance to compete or go to the bigger show. The sights, sounds, and food are all part of the adventure."

Entries from Fayette County include steers, lambs, and hogs. Those teens not showing are admitted at half the adult admission price.

In preparing the animals, Wolfe said too much feed can be a problem, so the animals that will be shown are exercised and groomed every day. They watch for too much weight gain and control it by limiting feed and using a high protein diet. Each of his children at home — Rachel Sue, 17, and David, 14 — will be taking a hog, and the wife and mother Lucille will also be attending.

Rich Townsend, McClellandtown, will also be traveling with the group from Fayette. The group has three or four trailers lined up to take the animals. Rich is a 4-H leader and on the state swine committee. At the state level, he said the 160 animals that are entered will be judged, with about half making the sale.

Though his girls have outgrown the 4-H program and will not participate this year, he is looking forward to a granddaughter being part of the show next year.

He notes that the 4-H program in Fayette is strong, with about 140 members, 15 volunteer adult leaders, and six teens in leadership roles.

OVER 25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN SALE OF FARMS AND DEVELOPMENT LAND

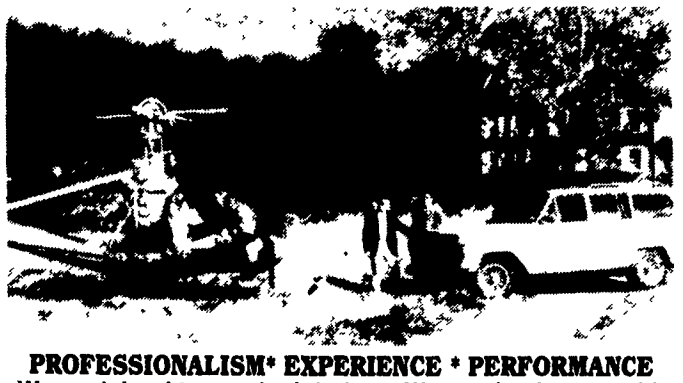
NEW PENNSYLVANIA REALTY has been selling farms and country properties since 1974 and all of our agents have 22 to 28 years of experience. We service Eastern Pennsylvania and are licensed in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. We sell all types of farms including dairy farms, beef farms, horse farms, Christmas tree farms, and country estates as well as land for development.

SALE OF DEVELOPMENT FARMS

We have helped farmers to maximize their farm's potential by selling them not just for agricultural purposes but also for development when the situation is warranted. Some of our sellers have been able to buy as many as 5 farms with the proceeds of the sale of just one.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIENCE

We at New Pennsylvania not only have many years of Real Estate experience, but everyone at New Pennsylvania has agricultural experience and we all own farms. We feel this experience is a must in evaluating farm properties as well as relating to sellers and buyers. We also keep informed as to the best methods of financing.



PROFESSIONALISM* EXPERIENCE * PERFORMANCE

We work hard to get the job done. We provide buyers with full information on a property to enable them to make informed decisions. We prepare detailed brochures and have professional photographs taken including aerials. This comprehensive approach and our national advertising campaign has enabled us to sell farms to all types of buyers from Agri-Business to Stock Brokers from New York City
